

Action Deferred On Rate Advertising Law

City Council has requested members of the Innkeepers Association and motel owners to arrive to reach an agreement concerning differences over existing policies of rate advertising.

The move follows a request from the Innkeepers Association to establish a city ordinance which would prohibit outdoor advertising of rates as a guard against possible false advertising.

The Association contended some motels post room rates which in reality are lower priced than the cost of available accommodations.

City Attorney J. Dale Binson's recommendation to Council regarding such an ordinance indicated that, in his opinion, "...the intent of the proposed ordinance is to restrain competition. Such intent cannot lawfully be effectuated under the police power."

Binson's recommendation was based on motel rate advertising regulations in Las Vegas, Nevada; Vero Beach, Florida; and Palm Springs, Calif.

Attorney Grover Wright, appearing before Council on behalf of the Innkeepers Association told Council, "I think Binson has missed the case on which we rely. Our proposed ordinance was based on a State law of Nevada. The case which upheld the Nevada law was not the one used in Binson's recommendation."

Attorney Tony Pugh, representing the Econo Travel Motel Association, told Council any ordinance prohibiting motels from using roadside room rate advertising "would strike at the heart of our business operation." He added, "The fundamental basis of Econo's operation is the advertising of our rates of all motel rooms being standard."

Mayor Donald H. Rhodes asked Wright if "...the Innkeepers Association and motel owners could not work together to prevent unattractive rate displays in the resort area?" Based on indications from Wright and Pugh that this might be possible, Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield moved that Council defer action on the matter pending the outcome of such negotiations. Council concurred with Waterfield's motion.

Jaycees Seek Man Of Year

The Virginia Beach Jaycees are seeking nominations for the "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" for 1971.

An award will be presented to the man chosen, who must be between 21 and 35 years of age. The award will be based on "distinguished contributions to his profession and to the general welfare of the citizens of Virginia Beach and the state of Virginia," a spokesman for the organization said.

Nominations should be sent to Walter T. Keays, Chairman, Outstanding Young Man Committee, Virginia Beach Jaycees, 3408 Melinda Place, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23462. The nominations should list the specific contributions of the person nominated.

Nomination forms may be requested from the same address. The nomination deadline is January 15 and the recipient will be announced January 26.

Staffers Win Two Awards

Two Virginia Beach Sun staff members will receive writing and photography awards from the Virginia Press Association in Richmond Saturday at the VPA's annual Mid-Winter Conference-News Writing Seminar.

Jon Segester, a Navy man stationed at Little Creek who joined the Sun staff in September, will receive a first place award in sports photography.

Mrs. Ruby Jean Phillips, managing editor of the Sun, will receive a runner-up (second place) award in feature writing. Segester's winning entry is a split-second shot of Lee Trevino, the nation's top golfer, sinking a putt at Red Wing Golf course.

Mrs. Phillips won the feature writing award for her story on Mrs. Ruth Lonsome, the City Jail matron whose dismissal caused considerable controversy.

The awards will be presented at a banquet Saturday night at the Hotel John Marshall.

Holland On Rec. Group

J. Alvin Holland was appointed a member of the Virginia Beach Recreation Commission at that body's meeting Tuesday afternoon. A resident of the city for many years, Holland had served on the City Planning Commission for the past twelve years.

During Tuesday's meeting, Recreation Commission Chairman Maury Riganto asked Holland to express the Commission's approval of an item on the upcoming Planning Commission agenda. Holland retorted that as of Monday he was no longer a member of the Planning Commission.

Holland brought out that City Council Monday had chosen not to reappoint him to the Planning Commission, his third four-year term having expired. For the past year, Holland had served as the Planning Commission's representative to the recreational body.

Upon hearing that Holland had not been reappointed, School Superintendent E.E. Brickell made a motion that Holland be given a permanent seat on the Recreation Commission. Brickell's motion was seconded by City Clerk Richard Webbon, and the resulting unanimous vote gave Holland a seat on the body that plans for the recreational needs of Virginia Beach's citizens.

DAV Meet

Disabled American Veterans will meet Jan. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at Elk's Lodge No. 2285 BPOE, 3225 Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Dog Story Ends Happily

Rest easy, Honker's back home.

Who's Honker? He's the black Labrador retriever, whose owner Dr. L. Robert Lowe, veterinarian, was trying to locate. So the Sun ran a front page story about the lost dog last week. The dog was brought to the doctor's office Dec. 23 by Frank Thomas. He had found the retriever, injured, in the area of the Mariner Motel. No tag, no identification was available.

No sooner had the Sun hit the street last Thursday than a neighbor called Honey Johnson of Bay Colony, who was, it seemed, missing a black Labrador retriever.

Johnson went pronto to the vet's office and sure enough, it was his own Honker.

Now, all's well. Honker's back home; Dr. Lowe and Frank Thomas did their good deeds and everybody's happy. Even Honker.

Man Killed In Fire Truck-Auto Collision

The final traffic fatality of 1971 was recorded by Virginia Beach last Thursday evening in a collision involving an ambulance and a fire truck responding to an alarm.

Authorities said Cylester W. Shaw, 24, of Southern Boulevard, was fatally injured in the collision at Virginia Beach Boulevard and First Colonial Road. Shaw was driver of the auto. A lone passenger in Shaw's car, identified as Juanita B. Holloway, 21, Kenya Lane, reportedly received lacerations and rib injuries.

Officials said the fire truck from Oceana Volunteer Fire Department, being driven by Fred Brew, 26, Colonial Arms Apartments, was enroute to North Wolfenare Road to assist the London Bridge Volunteer Fire Department. Both departments were responding to a report of a structural fire.

The alarm resulted from a phone call received in the fire dispatcher's office at approximately 6:25 p.m. reporting a partially constructed house afire in the 3100 block of N. Wolfenare Road.

Investigators said the car was proceeding west on Virginia Beach Boulevard when it collided with the fire truck moving north on First Colonial Road, sounding its sirens and red lights flashing, as the two vehicles entered the intersection.

Officials indicated the auto struck the right front side of the cab of the fire truck, ricocheted into the path of the fire truck, was pushed through the intersection, glancing off the right front of one auto, and careening into a car parked next to the Ben Frank's diner. The driver of the auto struck on the right front, identified as AMH3 Walter Galush, 21, attached to VF11 at Oceana Naval Air Station, escaped serious injury. The parked car was unoccupied. Shaw and Miss Holloway were trapped inside Shaw's car. Officials said firemen, rescue squadmen and police worked for about 14 minutes to free Miss Holloway, and required about 24 minutes in freeing Shaw. Shaw was pronounced dead on arrival at Virginia Beach General Hospital, Miss Holloway was hospitalized over the weekend for treatment of her injuries. Shaw's death was the city's 23rd traffic fatality for the year of 1971.

Industrial Park Project Boosts City's Building

The issuance of a $1 million-plus permit for construction of a 168,000-square-foot structure in Airport Industrial Park closed the books last week on a record-smashing year of building activity in Virginia Beach.

The permit, purchased by Daniel Construction Company for Realty International, Inc., capped total values of building starts in Virginia Beach during 1971 at $137,493,676. City Building Codes Superintendent John E. Gibbs said. That figure is by far the highest in Virginia for the year.

Virginia Beach's previous record for a year was $72,066,114 in 1969. (That figure was eclipsed in July 1971).

The actual purchase of the city's last 1971 building permit by James L. Smith, an executive of Daniel Construction, came only minutes after the announcement that Richmond-based Realty International is making its second purchase — 8.5 acres for about $154,000 — in Airport Industrial Park.

The news conference announcement of the site purchase was made jointly by Joseph Marchetti, president of Realty International, and Frank W. Kellam, Sr., chairman of the Virginia Beach Industrial Development Authority, which owns Airport Industrial Park.

Also on hand for the brief ceremony were City Manager Roger M. Scott, other city officials, and City Economic Development Director A. James DeBellis and Industrial Coordinator Walter N. Alford, who guided the successful transaction.

During his remarks Kellam pointed out that "only seven months ago (May 26), Realty International became the first company to actually begin building in Airport Industrial Park, and when that building was three-fourths completed, it was leased by a major new company, Noprax Industries, which will be in operation very soon. "We like that kind of action," Kellam added, "so it is a great pleasure to have Mr. Marchetti and his company start another venture in our Airport Industrial Park."

(Noprax Industries on October 12 completed a long-term lease agreement for the 146,488-square-foot building owned by Realty International, and the fabric finishing company now is installing machinery with an eye toward beginning production in January).

DeBellis echoed Kellam's "renewed and standing welcome" to Realty International and added that the firm's two land purchases (totaling about 15 acres) and buildings will represent an investment of about $2.1 million. "This investment alone, not counting the machinery and other equipment in the buildings, will mean more than $26,000 a year in tax revenues to our city," DeBellis commented.

"Now that's what I'd call a 'fine way to say 'Happy New Year'." City Manager Scott quipped.

Realty International's huge new building — which would accommodate four football fields with space to spare — is expected to be complete in seven to eight months, Marchetti said. He declined to identify prospective tenants, but expressed confidence that it will be under lease by the time it is finished.

Besides Realty International, the only firm to actually build in the 185-acre Airport Industrial Park so far is Southeastern Electric Supply Company, which anticipates an opening in less than a month.

Four other tracts, totaling about 20 acres, are under option, Alford said, "and we have a very impressive list of interested prospects, indicating to us that 1972 is going to be a very significant year for economic development in our city."

Experiment Draws Diverse Comments

BY HELEN CRIST

Virginia Beach, the fun land of sun, sand and surfing, is about to embark on a progressive far-reaching step in 1972-74, when four elementary schools, as yet unnamed, will remain open year-round on a 45-15 basis.

This means that a child will attend school for 45 days, then have a three-week vacation, a continuing process that is in effect for the full year.

It's necessary because there just aren't enough schools to accommodate the increasing population, and doubly so, since voters gave a bond referendum in January a smashing defeat. The situation is not unique to this area. At Valley View, Ill., where the program was implemented in June 1970, there is apparent approval from officials who claim the children and parents alike are happy with the innovation. They cite, especially, the advantage of winter vacations.

In Prince William County, Virginia, the 45-15 system was introduced in June 1971. Some 3,600 students of Dale City have been attending classes on the rotating basis, and school officials consider the experiment a forward step proceeding well.

But Virginia Beach is geared toward summer; the ocean, the surfing, the tourists are an integral part of the picture. How, then, would the people react to year-round schools?

Directly involved are the parents, specifically mothers. One such, Mrs. Frank L. Adkins, Jr., president of the Cavalier Junior Woman's Club and mother of Scott, 9 and Frank, 10, said: "I'm in favor of it. It's good for us because we like to take a winter vacation. We like to go skiing. I'm sure it would alleviate the overcrowding too."

But Mrs. Kenneth Godfrey of

Bay Island, mother of Laura, 10 and Tracey, 6, disagreed. "I think it would be horrible. It's nice to have them home in the summer. I hope it never comes to that."

Barbara Godfrey's from Ohio, where her mother's a school teacher. She just feels there has to be a better way.

Mrs. Annie Bridges of Hughes Ave., Sealack, said she hadn't had time to really think about it. "But," she said, "I'd rather have them in school keeping busy and doing work during the summer. Too much vacation brings problems. And it's hard to get them organized again and back to school in the Fall."

A Navy wife, who has had experience with various school systems, Mrs. H. S. Barrett thinks the 45-15 routine is good. "The kids get bored with the long summer vacations. It's such a waste to have the school's closed. I believe it's a thing of the future." Mrs. Barrett's son, Ray, 11, attends Windsor Woods School.

A club woman and mother, Mrs. Frederick E. Winfree, III, says she's real happy with the Star of the Sea schedule where her children are enrolled. "I think children need the relaxation of summertime, we as adults enjoyed this and I think our children should have it too."

But Mrs. Arthur Fusco, King's Grant resident and mother of five elementary school age children, says that the original need for summer vacations, to allow children to work on farms, no longer is practicable.

"And they can't get jobs, so there's not enough work for them to do. As a result they get in trouble. Besides, it would give the teachers a chance to earn more money and probably solve the overcrowding in the classrooms."

In agreement too, is Mrs. Roland D. Winter of Aragona Village. "I'm not opposed to year-round schools. It seems to be a reasonable way of utilizing the facilities and solving the problem of overcrowding at the same time."

Mrs. Winter, whose husband is president of the newly organized Virginia Beach First Coalition, has two children: Scott, 8, Cynthia, 9, both students at Louise Laxford School.

As for the teachers, who are directly involved with the changeover, they are reluctant to discuss the plan, until they've had a chance to study it more thoroughly.

One principal remarked, however, that he felt the program would be hard to implement, because of the great mobility of the population, specifically, the military.

Vitality interested, of course, is the School Board. Urging support of the innovation is board member Spencer Lee. "There are many advantages both educationally and economically. Although I have some doubts that only four schools will provide a representative trial, I think the concept is ideal. I'm a real proponent of it."

Always proud, seldom satisfied, never ashamed!

Children Make Loan Pay Off

Horatio Alger has nothing on the Allen children of Virginia Beach. At the ages of 11, 10, and 9, they have taken out a loan, invested in merchandise, sold out their entire stock, and cleared a handsome profit.

The whole venture began a few weeks before Christmas. Accompanied by their father, Franklin Allen of Virginia Beach, Sherri, Greg and Brent Allen walked into People's Bank of Virginia Beach and asked W. George Lee for a loan of $800. They planned to use the money for Christmas trees and they had arranged for an adult friend of theirs to sell the trees.

Lee, who is Loan Officer at People's Bank, thought the idea sounded feasible. So, he gave the children their loan — co-signed, of course, by their father.

Right after Christmas, the Allen children paid off their loan. And each pocketed a profit of $80, a bonus of $20 each, and a good lesson in the benefits of the free enterprise system.

Cubs Give Good Will

The theme of the month was "Cub Scouts Give Good Will." And the boys in Pack 407 did an outstanding job during this holiday season.

The scouts collected and distributed food items for Thanksgiving through the Va. Beach Welfare Department. A total of 65 trucks, made by the boys with the help of parents and den mothers, were donated to the children of St. Mary's Infant Home and King's Daughters Children's Hospital. The next project was making Christmas cards and tree ornaments. The cards were given to the patients at Medcenter Nursing Home on Dec. 5, while the children sang Christmas carols. A donation of $13.42 was collected at the Dec. 17 Pack meeting and turned over to the "Joy Fund."

Awards were also presented at the Dec. 17 Pack Meeting. Wolf Badges were presented to Stephen Mitchell, Den 7; David Schmehl, Den 3; Walter Shear, Den 7; The Silver Arrow under Wolf was awarded to Mike Merlinger, Den 3 and Mike Jones, Den 3. The Gold Arrow under Wolf was awarded to Heracio Jones, Den 2.

Webelos Award was presented to Fred Logue, Engineer; Robert Nichols, Engineer; Andy Dukelow, Engineer; Andrew Thompson, Engineer; William Plunk, Showman; Tim Harris, Athlete; Sportsman; Richard Tolle, Athlete, Forester; Steven Rockefeller, Athlete, Outdoorsman; Chet Atkins, Engineer; William Plunk, Showman; Tim Harris, Athlete, Sportsman; Richard Tolle, Athlete, Forester; Sportsman; Michael Spiteri, Athlete. Den Chief Warrants were presented to Bret Gossage of Troop 434, Den Chief for Den 3 and Ron Shelton of Troop 407, Den Chief for Webelos Den 1.

Jerry Dunn, Den 6, was accepted into the pack at Bobcat ceremony. Advanced to Webelos were Michael Acheo from Den 5 to Webelos Den 1; Robert Schmehl, Jr. from Den 3 to Webelos Den 2; Bert Coleman from Den 1 to Webelos Den 1. David Smith was elected as Denner and Chet Atkins as Asst. Denner of Webelos Den 2. One year pin with perfect attendance was presented to Mike Merlinger; one year pins were awarded to Randy Lashomb, Den 7 and Richard Klosterude, Den 8. A certificate of appreciation was presented to Mrs. Ann Forbes, Den Mother of Den 6, who is being transferred from the area.

A program of Christmas carols followed by a Christmas party rounded out the activities. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nancy Smith and Mrs. Norma LeShomb, and music was provided by Mrs. Myra Simms who played the piano. The closing ceremony was conducted by Den 3.

Planning Commission Reorganizes

J. Harry Mote was re-elected chairman of the Virginia Beach Planning Commission during that body's reorganization Tuesday afternoon.

Mote had just been reappointed to Commission membership by City Council on Monday following the expiration of his term of office last Dec. 31st.

Other officers elected during Tuesday's reorganizational meeting included Charles W. Beard, Vice Chairman; Walter J. Parkiewicz, Secretary; R.L. "Buddy" Riggs, Assistant Secretary; and James C. Donnelly, Treasurer.

Donnelly will preside over a newly created fund which Commissioners will contribute to voluntarily to cover the cost of remembrances, such as flowers, being sent to Commissioners in the event of their illness.

Bond Issue Group Seeks 'Yes' Vote

The Committee for the Bond Issue held its organizational meeting last week, and committee chairman Robert M. Stanton spoke with the approximately 65 people present about the group's plans to insure passage of the upcoming bond referendum. Stanton made it very clear that the purpose of his committee is to promote the $12.5 million bond issue and to seek a "yes" vote on February 8th.

Using school board figures, Stanton reiterated the School Board's position on overcrowding. The board report stated that existing school facilities in Virginia Beach were designed to accommodate 42,039 school children. On September 30th, 1971, there were 46,732 enrolled, giving an excess over designed capacity of 4,733 students. Projected enrollment figures for September 1972 show 48,300 students for an excess over designed capacity of 6,261 pupils. September 1973 projections show 49,000 students enrolled, and 51,800 are expected in September 1974, which is 9,761 over designed capacity.

"It is noteworthy to observe that the 46,732 children were almost the exact figure that the School Board's Department of Research had projected for September 1971," Stanton pointed out. "As a matter of fact, their projections were 99.314 per cent accurate. It lends strong credibility to the projections which I gave for the future."

"It is easy to see that with 9,761 students over designed capacity in 1974 that our schools will be twice as crowded that year than they are this year. If you have children in one of our extremely crowded schools now, you can imagine what these numbers mean."

"Unless the proposed schools are built we will be faced with a problem that is so acute that with all of the ideas conceived for 'stretching' the use of our existing facilities in effect, we will still have so many children over our designed capacity that the public school system and family life in Virginia Beach will suffer to an unbearable extent."

To help solve the problem prior to the opening of the proposed schools, the School Board proposes to redraw school districts to distribute the population as equally as possible, to implement a voluntary night school to help alleviate the secondary school overcrowding, to continue the eight-period day in all secondary schools, to continue the use of mobile classrooms, and to implement the 45-15 year around program in a minimum of four schools in 1973-74 on a pilot basis.

The bond issue provides for four new schools. Woodstock would receive a 900-student elementary school, and three junior high schools would be built at locations selected to give relief to present secondary schools. All of the "stretching" techniques would be continued for the 1973-74 school year.

To promote passage of the bond issue, the Committee set up several sub-committees. The various committees include finance, public relations, direct mail, a speakers bureau, telephone, election day, voting blocks, headquarters, and special events.

"It is our opinion that the education of the school children of Virginia Beach is at stake. Unless these schools are built, the situation which we will find ourselves facing in three years will be unbearable."

"It is the committee's feeling that we should promote the bond issue on a 'no strings attached' basis," Stanton continued. "We are not inferring that the school board be given a carte blanche for school construction, but we are insisting this issue be confronted on its own merit."

"The four schools proposed must be built. In order to be built, they must be financed and to implement the bond issue must be passed. We feel very strong in our opinion with respect to this issue being presented to the voters without any side issues which may distract the voter from the main question."

"Therefore, we intend to do everything we can to see that these schools are constructed. I think it would be unfair of us citizens of this city to try to make any more of this bond issue than to see that it is passed."

Voting Precinct Revisions Approved By City Council

A request from the City Electoral Board for revisions involving four voting precincts was approved by City Council Monday.

The initial request affects some 400 voters, all of whom reside primarily in the Kings Grant area, who now vote in the Malibu Precinct.

In a recent revision of boundaries of a number of voting precincts in Virginia Beach these voters were placed in the Malibu Precinct. Officials appeared before Council Monday to cite many complaints from these voters involving confusion during the last election as to where they were qualified to vote.

At the request of the Electoral Board City Council authorized a revision of existing precinct boundaries which allows these voters to return to the Little Neck Precinct, and cast ballots at the Kings Grant Elementary School.

The remaining revisions merely involve a change in the names of three voting precincts, Woodstock "A", "B", and "C". Council approved redesignation of these precincts to "Woodstock", "Kempsland" and "Kempsville High" respectively. Voters residing in the Woodstock precinct will vote at the Woodstock Elementary School; those in Kempsslanding precinct will vote at Kempsslanding Elementary School; and those in Kempssville High precinct will cast ballots at Kempssville High School.

20 Years Service Replaced On Planning Commission

The appointment of two new members of the Virginia Beach Planning Commission by City Council Monday replaced two men who have served the Commission for over 20 years.

R. Dean Lee, Certified Public Accountant, was nominated by Councilman George R. Ferrell to replace Homer Cunningham, nursing home executive, who has served on the Commission for 11 years. Lee's nomination was seconded by Councilman Robert H. Callis.

Bailey Parker, builder, replaces J. Alvin Holland, retired banker, who has been a Commission member for 12 years. Parker's nomination was made Councilman Dr. Clarence A. Holland and seconded by Vice Mayor Earl M. Tebault.

J. Harry Mote, a 10-year member of the Commission and its most recent chairman, was appointed to another four-year term. His nomination for reappointment came from Councilman Ferrell and seconded by Councilman Callis.

Council's action was necessary due to the expiration of Commission membership terms of Cunningham, Holland, and Mote on December 31.

During required voting to affirm the nominations Councilman J. Curtis Payne abstained from voting on the nomination of Lee and Parker. Councilman F. Reid Ervin abstained from voting on the reappointment of Mote and the nomination of Parker.

Payne said he abstained from voting because he "didn't like the way the appointments were made." He qualified this by adding, "It was not consistent to reappoint one and not the other two." Payne was referring to the reappointment of Mote and ignoring Cunningham and Holland since each man had already served in excess of two four year terms on the Commission.

Payne pointed out he had no personal objection to any of the individuals nominated.

Ervin said he abstained out of a desire to see a wider professional representation on the Planning Commission. He indicated he abstained from confirming Parker's nomination since he was a builder, while two builders already hold Commission seats. Ervin said he would like to see "several other on there of some other profession."

On his abstaining from renomination of Mote Ervin said he did so since Mote has already served two terms he felt "this should be a maximum for anyone to serve on the Commission."

Ervin also raised a thought which has not been voiced in the past regarding future make-up of the Planning Commission. He said, "I think we've reached a point where we need a woman on there to broaden our thinking."

Horace A. Cistola

Presidential Appointment To Cistola

Virginia Beach business executive, Horace A. Cistola, has been appointed by President Nixon to Virginia Beach Selective Service Board No. 100.

Cistola, the Senior Vice President of Terry Corporation, developers of Pembroke Mall, was notified of his appointment by Earnest D. Fears, Jr., State Director of the Selective Service System.

Cistola is a vice-chairman of the Chesapeake College Board of Trustees, a director of the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra, and a member of the residency construction and housing staff of the Governor's Emergency Resource and Management plan.

More Health Funds, Less Throw-Aways

Republican State Senator-elect A. Joseph Canada, Jr. announced Tuesday that he will ask the next session of the General Assembly to pass legislation providing greater support for mental health programs and banning non-returnable and beer bottles. Canada is Virginia Beach's first elected Republican official in modern times.

Regarding his bill to ban non-returnable bottles, the new senator said, "Living in a resort community, I think that all the residents of the city realize the problem we have with litterbugs. I am hopeful such a bill will pass during the next session, for I feel the quality of our environment here and in other parts of the state will improve if we make incentives to the public to keep such trash off our highways."

Noting that the most recent report of the Commission on Mental, Indigent and Geriatric

Rosemont Road Project Pushed

W.W. Flemming, director of the Department of Community Services, has been directed by City Council to take all necessary steps to accomplish the long-awaited improvements to Rosemont Road.

The move followed 1 1/2 hours closed door meeting of Council Monday during which officials and engineering consultant Douglas W. Talbot discussed the matter.

The improvements have been delayed since early 1969, primarily because the State has five times rejected plans submitted by Talbot's firm.

Estimated cost of the 1.9 mile project now stands at $12 million. Further delay in project raises the possibility of Virginia Beach losing $1 million in state appropriations for highway construction.

Flemming was directed to inquire of the state specifically what is causing delay of the latest plans submitted, and the setting of a date of public hearing on the matter.

Next June 30, the end of fiscal 1972, is the deadline for awarding of contracts on the project for Virginia Beach to remain qualified for the $1 million state fund appropriation.

Patients calls for obsolete buildings like Eastview and Westview at Petersburg Training Center to be replaced, Canada commented, "I am afraid that all across Virginia we have allowed patients to be stuffed into old and overcrowded buildings. In some cases, we have allowed the value of human life to be misplaced."

"During my recent tour of State institutions," Canada said, "I was shocked to find that 125 patients sleep on the floor without adequate housing available for them at the Lynchburg Training School and Hospital."

The Senator has written the Commissioner of Mental Health for Virginia asking for a detailed account of what requests his office plans to ask the General Assembly for during the coming legislative session. For his part, Canada said he would like to see the following actions taken by the next session of the General Assembly:

- + Increased support for psychiatric institutions in the State to provide more professionals to meet the increased demand for services.
- + More funds for community service facilities in Virginia. Such an effort could allow more people to remain at home while they receive needed treatment in their own community.
- + Funds to improve physical plants at state mental institutions to allow the destruction of older, inadequate buildings.

Observations On A Trip

This may be the day of fast travel, but there's much yet to be said in favor of a motor trip. It is one sure way, for instance, of observing the progress, or lack of progress of other states, or seeing how other folks live, so to speak.

Much can be learned from a car window as a traveler watches the countryside roll by. A holiday trip to Florida, via Interstate 95 and U. S. Highways 17 and 301, is an education in itself. For example:

+ The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel signs advertise Norfolk-Philadelphia-New York, even through the engineering marvel and its approach road is in Virginia Beach.

+ It is little wonder the bridge-tunnel is suffering financially. Only DelMarVa Peninsula residents find it the most direct route south; the interstates are far more direct routes to other northern states.

+ North Carolina has attracted many light industries—Fieldcrest, Sylvania, etc.—which would be ideal for Virginia Beach; they generate no pollution and plenty of employment.

+ Small communities are dying financially because of the interstates.

+ Excess tax money is being spent in routing the interstates through swamp areas when an existing improved road would be the most direct, and economical, route.

+ Officials of Holiday Inn, Howard Johnson, Stuckey's and a few other tourist firms either had exceptional insight or inside information on the interstate routes...there's at least one at every intersection.

+ Georgia has not progressed along with her neighbors. The countryside and structures suffer from neglect, an apparent lack of pride.

+ Camping is the "in" thing. Every third or fourth vehicle is a camping unit of some kind.

+ Everyone in the North heads south the day after Christmas. They must...the southbound traffic is almost bumper-to-bumper even at seventy miles per hour on the interstates.

+ Traffic lights at intersections not yet incorporated in the main highway system are hazardous. The traffic back-up triggers the impatient driver to brash action.

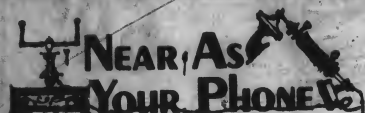

+ The natural beauty of Florida is hidden behind gaudy billboards.

+ Disney World doesn't advertise via signboards. Yet thousands of visitors per day are turned away because of over-capacity attendance.

+ The cost of living in Florida is considerably lower than in Virginia. There are more people—a large percentage on fixed incomes—and more services. But less taxes. And lower food costs. Why? Pari-Mutuel betting, perhaps?

+ North Carolina and Virginia have tighter restrictions on billboards than some other states.

+ Virginia Beach is beautiful!

City To Ask Double Bond Obligation Limit

City Council will request the next session of the General Assembly to authorize a change in the Charter of the City of Virginia Beach permitting a $2 million increase in the annual general obligation bond limitation.

The move would increase the limitation on general services bonds from $2 million to $4 million. The limitation on water, sewer and other public utilities would remain at the present $4 million. If approved the move would increase the annual limitation on general obligation bond issuance from its present $6 million maximum to $8 million.

The bonds involved are revenue producing, self-amortizing, financed through general taxes derived by the city.

While the bonds may be issued on authority of City Council during a calendar year they are financed during the resort city's fiscal year. Before the bonds can be issued, however, their purpose must be approved during a public hearing. The only public opposition during Monday's City Council airing of the proposal came from Mrs. Helen W. Love who viewed the proposal as another move to diminish public control over the operation of Virginia Beach.

By indirect reference to Council's authority to issue the bonds without benefit of a public referendum she said, "When the people relinquish its control over purse strings it relinquishes its power." She also called for a clarification of "any proper purpose" for which general services bonds could be issued.

She was reassured by Mayor Donald H. Rhodes that any increase in general services bonds is anticipated for specific use in highway improvements in the resort city.

Councilman F. Reid Ervin supported Mayor Rhodes in the validity of such a requirement by telling Mrs. Love, "I wish that we could rely on State funds for our highway programs. But we have many streets which need improvements and don't know of any other way to do it."

She was also assured all future expenditures would be subject to public hearings.

Mrs. Love also questioned whether the $8 million limitation proposed was the true maximum by saying, "I feel it will be an increase $6 million to $8 million, and who knows where it will stop."

Pointing to recent projects approved by the city requiring large financial expenditures when some residents of the city question the necessity for such projects she said, "The people have become disillusioned."

Mayor Rhodes partially agreed with her by saying, "I think you're right that the people have been disillusioned," but added this resulted from the public at times being misinformed on everything involved in certain projects.

Councilman Robert E. Callis cast the lone dissenting vote in Council's approval of the charter change request.

Suggests Council Reconsider

To the Editor:
The Virginia Beach Sun's survey of how the voters feel about the bond referendum set for February 8 forebodes an even more overwhelming

Too Many

To the Editor:
I don't like the over-expansion in our city of town-houses and apartments. I think they are building future slums.

Even if I did like town-houses and/or apartment houses, we are getting too many too fast. Why the mad rush?

The promoters of these projects are surely reaping rich profits (which is undoubtedly the answer to the above question). They should provide all the schools necessary for their developments; completely-land and buildings. After all, we taxpayers have to provide new roads and sewer facilities, and we have to staff the new schools. It is grossly unfair for us to have to build them too. NO to the bond issue!

Yours truly,

Too Fast

To the Editor:
The inevitable rise in real estate taxes prompts us to vote against the bond referendum.

In a very few years we will be on a fixed income and of course a rise in our cost of living concerns us. I personally feel the builders should bear the burden of the new schools since they profit from the development.

One other alternative would be a "head" tax per child per year. This is done in some states or was a few years ago when we children were in school. One sure way of raising money would be to gather up the dogs running loose, especially in the Backwoods area, and use the fine to finance a new school. Bet you could almost pay for a new school.

THE MAGICIAN, by Sol Stein. New York, Delacorte Press, 1971. $6.95.

Sixteen-year-old Ed Japhet, the magician of the title, does a near-professional job with his tricks at a high school dance. A perceived insult to the leader of a high school gang during the performance leads to an incident later that evening, then to the courtroom and finally to death.

As the story builds, there is a blurring of the illusion of magic, the performer's use of his audience's desire to be tricked, with courtroom tactics and the practice of law.

The book raises questions—what is actually legitimate in the courtroom; should a witness' "unorthodox personal life" or a discretion which is irrelevant to the case at hand completely negate his testimony; where is the truth in law?

Stein has done a fine job of drawing his characters: the skillful defense attorney whose Armenian background precluded a partnership in a large WASP law firm; the promising assistant district attorney whose private goal is to be the first Jewish President of the United States; teenagers with ideals, adults with weaknesses.

THE MAGICIAN, available at all four Virginia Beach libraries and at the bookmobile, is a frightening and devastating view of the practice of justice today. This book is hard to put down, once begun, and even harder to forget, once finished.

defeat than the one last year encountered.

Opposition to runaway construction of low cost housing, disillusionment with the City Council, need for educational reform, a lack of discipline in the schools, and a belief that the school administration doesn't utilize its resources to the fullest are among the stated reasons.

Discontent has been spreading and growing more vocal. The malcontents also express their concern with the formation of such groups as Citizens Against Pollution, Concerned Citizens, and unnamed groups promoting ecology and year-round schools.

There is also a sub-surface fear that H.E.W. will force a consolidation of the Norfolk and the Virginia Beach school districts, meaning that our children will be forced to ride buses to Norfolk to attend the very schools their parents wanted them to avoid by coming to Virginia Beach.

Across the nation voters have been rejecting proposals for new school construction. State supreme courts and Federal judges have ruled that local property taxes are an unconstitutional means for financing the schools. Yet the government of Virginia Beach presses for more revenue based on real estate taxation while encouraging people to move here and overload the schools.

The City Council should reconsider its decision for a bond referendum and call it off. The money to run our schools may be forthcoming from State and Federal funds.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell

Our country seems to have become a little fat and soft, like many of our citizens. The years of such living and easy ways has had its results.

This is reflected in many ways other than our waistlines and physical condition.

We tend to forget some of our past history. We seem to enjoy the feeling that we have always been a rich, sophisticated people with an overwhelming respect for a society of laws.

The hard fact that we became free and evolved into a strong nation because of some pretty rough and tough leaders seems to be unthinkable. We try to make nice people out of our former leaders.

We either forget or play down that our strength comes from leaders who didn't mind doing what they thought was right at the time regardless of what the "law" or those in authority thought.

As an example, have you ever heard about the State of Franklin? That is right, the State of Franklin, like the State of New York, or Virginia, that kind of state. Did you know that the United States once had a State of Franklin?

No fooling, from 1764 until 1788 we had a State of Franklin. It covered an area that included parts of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia.

It had a Governor and regular officials with its own courts and everything.

The story is that in 1764, the ruling conservative faction in the North Carolina legislature lost its control. The opposition promptly voted to give that state's western most area to the federal union.

The frontiersmen in that vast area saw the opportunity to guide their own destiny. They had fought the Indians and made a place for themselves with little help from any government. They left out and wanted to form their own state.

This group met in Jonesboro, N.C. in August, 1764 and voted to form their own state. They decided to call it Franklin after the American statesman and philosopher.

One of the leaders in this new state was John Sevier. He came from the Valley of Virginia. His family name had been "Xavier," but since that was hard for many of the frontiersmen to pronounce they changed it to Sevier.

John Sevier was elected the first Governor of the State of Franklin. They set up their government and set about building the frontier into a real state.

Soon after this the conservatives won the majority of the North Carolina legislature and decided to repeal the act of giving the western part of their state to the union.

This cast the people of the State of Franklin in the role of insurrectionists. They gladly accepted this role. The citizens of Franklin and those of North Carolina soon came head to head with each other.

For the next three years they both tried to run the area. Each set up its own government, levying taxes and squabbling over jurisdiction.

It got down to more than just squabbling when the North Carolina militia invaded the Franklin courthouse in Jonesboro and seized all papers and kicked out the Franklin officials.

The citizens of Franklin promptly did the same thing to a North Carolina courthouse.

In 1764 North Carolina brought in superior forces and won. Governor Sevier was put in jail in Morganton, to be tried for high treason.

At the trial Sevier's friends pulled a shoot-em-up type operation and before things got started Sevier escaped and headed for the hills.

North Carolina soon forgave the citizens of Franklin, and John Sevier. In fact, North Carolina appointed John Sevier as one of its U.S. Senators.

North Carolina also decided to change its mind again and give its western area to the union and this territory became the State of Tennessee.

When this happened, John Sevier went back to the area and was elected as its first governor.

That is the kind of leaders we had when we were becoming a great nation. Can't you just see something like that today?

Just imagine, a man from one state, he goes into another state and helps start an insurrection, turns a new state and holds it for three years, only to be kicked out, put in jail, escaped while being tried for high treason and then went on to be a U.S. Senator and a real governor.

Times have sure changed.

connections, educational attainment, age, political experience, and past voting record of all candidates for the City Council.

It almost goes without saying that the bond referendum vote was unanimously opposed. It has swindled down from the earlier response, and in dwindling the favorable vote gradually dropped out.

The comments continue to be about the same: "Council is not doing its home work and ignoring feelings of residents. NOT until council becomes more sensitive to the desires of the majority and initiate a more equitable school financing plan."

There were one or two comments that were a bit too libelous for us to risk printing.

The response to last week's question was strong enough to encourage us to run it again. It may, in fact, be more sensible to run a question two times rather than just once because of the time between issues of the Sun. The newspaper wants to give its readers a chance to express themselves and will continue to try to hit on subjects of interest.

SUN SURVEY

QUESTION: Some City Councilmen believe that all members of Council should make public their financial statements and business interests to avoid conflicts of interest. Should this be an established rule for all members of City Council?

Your comments and signed letters would be appreciated also.

A Backward Glance At 1971

The resort city gained its own college campus last September with the opening of Tidewater Community College's Virginia Beach Campus. Approximately 700 students entered first semester classes in temporary facilities at Camp Pendleton.

David and Julie Eisenhower made Virginia Beach their home for six weeks while Ensign Eisenhower underwent specialized training at the Dam Neck Naval Installation. President Richard M. Nixon, Julie's father made a brief visit of several hours to the resort city to join the couple in their oceanfront cottage for a quiet family dinner.

Sun Changes Hands

The Virginia Beach Sun changed hands in May when David R. Dear, president of Dear Publication and Radio, Inc. took over ownership. The new owner, with headquarters in Washington D.C., publishes a number of daily and weekly newspapers around the country, including the Elizabeth City (N.C.) Daily-Advance. Dear noted that he has long felt that the City of Virginia Beach was entitled to a strong newspaper of its own because it is one of the most important growing communities on the East Coast.

City Jail Investigated

Reports of the commission of an act of sodomy upon a 16-year-old juvenile by another 16-year-old juvenile while they were confined to the Virginia Beach City Jail lead to an investigation of that facility's operation by the State Department of Welfare and Institutions. As a result of the investigation two jailers were dismissed from their jobs.

Seabach students transferred to Kingston Elementary School met with principal William Jenkins and Mrs. William A. Perkins, PTA president, as they entered the school for the first time. This was a familiar scene in many schools as forced bussing came to the resort city.

Sun Circulation Expands

The Sun took a bold step into the future with its Oct. 28 issue. The distribution was increased to 32,500 with that issue. The Sun's circulation department was enlarged tenfold to service the situation. About 300 young carriers were added and adult supervisors obtained.

City Wide Fire Chief Named

E. B. "Bubber" Bayne was appointed the first Fire Chief to direct the operations of all fire department, paid and volunteer, in Virginia Beach. One of the first major steps Chief Bayne took was to recommend full-time paid firemen be placed in several of the volunteer fire departments to strengthen them during hours when volunteers are normally at their places of employment. Bayne had served with the Beach Borough Fire Department for 34 years, holding the position of Chief for 24 years.

Beach College Campus Established

The resort city obtained its own college facility with the opening of the temporary Virginia Beach Campus of the Tidewater Community College. The college opened in September with over 700 students attending class in ten renovated barracks formerly used by the Army National Guard on the Camp Pendleton Military Installation.

It was a gala social event in November when Maj. Gen. (right) and Mrs. Howard Schlitz (left) held the annual reception for the Beach community at Ft. Story Officers Club. With them are Col. T.L. Lyons, chief of staff at Ft. Eustis, Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. L.R. Hudson, whose husband, Col. Hudson commands Ft. Story and Maj. Gen. Schlitz.

Juvenile Court Judge Named

Lawyer Frederick P. Aucamp, who has practiced law in Virginia Beach and Norfolk for more than 12 years, was appointed as the first full-time judge of the Virginia Beach Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. Aucamp was administered the oath of office by Circuit Court Senior Judge Robert S. Wahab, Jr., last week and will assume duties on January 1.

G.O.P. Wins Senate Seat

The voters of Virginia Beach turned out in record numbers in November's General Election to elect the first Republican to represent the city of Virginia Beach in the General Assembly for more than a century. A. Joseph Canada, 32-year-old attorney, in making his first real political bid defeated two incumbent legislative contenders Edward T. (Ned) Caton, III, and Richard D. Guy in winning a seat in the State Senate.

Mrs. Mary Russo, wife of Judge Philip Russo and mother of four children, was named First Citizen for her work in the drug program and other civic contributions.

Juvenile Center Nears Reality

The establishment of Virginia Beach's own juvenile detention center became a step closer to reality with plans to convert a former private home in the Princess Anne Courthouse Complex. City Council authorized the application for Federal and State funds to finance the facility and supervisory staff required to accommodate ten juvenile boys.

When Judge J. Clarence Hayman Retired from his position as Justice of the Peace in January he culminated nearly half-a-century of public service.

Mayor Donald Rhodes cut a ribbon which officially opened the new building of the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach. Backed by a $15,000 appropriation from the City, the theatre group realized a long-awaited dream when the building at 24th Street and Barbours Drive was completed. The first show, "The King and I," was presented in December. Theatre President Jim English (right) and Capt. J.O. Sherman spearheaded the drive.

Drug Arrests Set Record

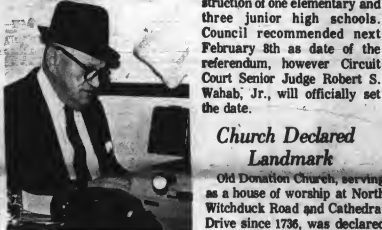

This year will establish a record in police activities to combat the illegal flow of narcotics and/or drugs through the resort city. As of the end of November a total of 405 persons were arrested in connection with 559 charges involving drug law violations, and/or related offenses. These figures correspond to 287 arrests and 457 charges during 1970. A wide variety of drugs and narcotics were involved in these activities including hallucinogenics, depressants, stimulants, methadone, barbituates, marijuana, hashish, cocaine, L.S.D., heroin, mescaline, and opium.

Fireman battle the blaze which destroyed "Abby's Restaurant" in Oceana, shortly after nine men escaped to safety from second floor living quarters. The failure of water hydrants to supply firemen with adequate water touched off an investigation which showed fire hydrants in several communities of the city were lacking in sufficient water pressure and operational condition.

Life Boat Station Acquired

Three years of questions into the future use of the former U.S. Coast Guard station at 24th Street and Atlantic Avenue were answered when the firm of Pirates Cove Land Co. claimed the site on grounds the Coast Guard relinquished its rights to the property. The Coast Guard in 1968 indicated it was vacating the Lifeboat Station maintained on the site since 1878 when it acquired the property from Edward Drinkwater.

Not everything was peaches and cream for attorney Thomas Broyles. He took off on the ski slopes at Hidden Valley, Pa. after only a couple hours of instruction...and ended up with a broken ankle. What's that saying about a little instruction being a dangerous thing?

Old Donation Church, mother church of Lynnhaven Parish, was placed in December on the Virginia Landmarks Register, and nominated to the National Register of Historical Places.

Nineteen Hundred Seventy One

"On New Year's Eve, we did the town. The day we tore the goal post down. These are the moments to remember."

And so go the words of the song that swept the country a few years ago. As 1971 approaches the fourth quarter's final buzzer and 1972 is in the dressing room preparing to enter the arena, let us take time to review some of the things that made up the Virginia Beach sports scene in 1971.

The Virginia Beach Sports Club honored Bayside's Lance Plata as the high school football player of the year and his coach Bob Hicks as the outstanding coach in Virginia Beach. Andy Giles was honored as Tidewater's outstanding athlete for his play at William and Mary. Teammate Robert Herb was named Virginia's outstanding college football player. Lt. Col. (Ret.) Howard Leary received the Joseph E. Healy Memorial Award as the club's outstanding member, and Fred Bozard was honored as Sportsman of the Year.

Hunt and Hank Harris won the open doubles title, and Warren Chaney and George Dragas took the veteran doubles title. For the women, Dea Booth defeated Betty Parks for the women's open trophy. Dea teamed with Debbie Ward to defeat Eleanor Griffin and Betty Parks for the women's open doubles title. Liz Thorsen defeated Bernice Bransbach for the women's junior veterans title, and then Liz teamed up with Betty Leitch to win the women's junior veterans doubles by virtue of a win over Mary Lee Harris and Betty Parks.

Carl Peterson won the Virginia Beach Golf Tournament sponsored by the Jaycees at Red Wing. It was a busy end of August weekend for the Jaycees, for on the beach the Ninth Annual East Coast Surfing Championships were being run by the Jaycees. Dennis Doyle won the big prize, and Governor Linwood Holton rode his minibike to steal the show during the two day event.

Pete Wallio won the 11th Annual Broad Bay Sailing Association Regatta. In the June event, Wallio captured the International 500 class first place for a total of 58 points by virtue of a first place and two second place finishes.

Mrs. Jane Leek landed three blue marlin in the four-day 12th Annual International Blue Marlin Tournament at Cape Hatteras, which was good for a third place finish. The day before the tourney opened, she landed a 403 pounder.

Ted Alcus, a visiting angler from New Orleans, landed a Virginia record 511 pound blue marlin aboard Dick Fentress' Redfin III. The fish measured 12 1/2 feet in length.

Red Wing Lake Golf Course opened Friday, July 30th, and Mayor Donald Rhodes, City Manager Roger Scott, Councilman Frank Dusch, and Brigadier General William McCaddin had the distinction of being the first to play the course. Almost 200 golfers played a free round of the new course opening day.

Tim McCoy was named assistant pro at Red Wing Lake Golf Course, joining resident PGA professional Jennings House. Later Chipper Watson was also added to the staff.

Amateur Harold Solomon won the Second Annual Virginia Beach Invitational Tennis Tournament during a rainy weekend, besting an outstanding field including Frank Froehling, Terry Addison, Onny Parrin, Brian Gottfried, Tom Edleson, and Pancho Guzman.

The Piledrivers went to Parma, Ohio, and returned with the National Amateur Slow Pitch Softball Association title. They defeated defending champion Little Caesars for the championship.

The sports department of the Virginia Beach Sun announced that City athletes would be honored on City All-Star Teams in each major sport.

The 25th Street Athletic Club brought Raleigh Racquet Club members to the Beach to participate in an off-season tennis tourney. North Carolina's Sanji Ariasawa met Virginia's Bobby Heald in the feature match.

The 25th Street Athletic Club began a tennis league to keep tennis alive during the off-season. The league is open to all residents and plays take place on public courts on weekends.

Kempsville Junior High School won the junior high City football championship with a victory over Bayside Junior. Scott O'Hara's 45-yard quarterback sneak provided the winning score. Bayside was led by Aubrey Graham, the City's junior high scoring champion.

First Colonial's Patriots compiled a 9-1 record to win the City High School Football Championship. The team finished second in the Eastern District and missed a shot at the state title by three points.

Lee Trevino played an exhibition match at Red Wing Golf Course and declared it to be "one of the best courses in the country." His 67, five under par, from the championship tees, set a course record that still stands as the new year begins.

For Debutantes . . . There Were Parties Around The Clock

Traditionally, after a debutante makes her bow to society, she attends a round of parties that are often imaginative and always anticipated.

Such an occasion was the formal dinner-dance recently at the Princess Anne Country Club that honored Miss Mary Elizabeth Fantone and Miss Patricia Langhorne Perrenot, who recently made their debut at the Norfolk German Club. Mod music was played by the "Stone Fox" band.

The debutantes have since returned to college: Mary Elizabeth to Sweet Briar; Patricia, to Southern Seminary, Jr. College.

Swaying Exercise Relieves Tension

MAGITATION

By Thelma Barrett

PHYSANTICS An exercise from the Bates Method for normalizing defective vision is very relaxing for the tense person. Based on the idea that activating large muscles of the body actually soothes nerves, the Elephant Swing (just one example of the exercises) is done with the feet parallel and sufficiently apart for balance. Shifting your weight from one foot to the other in an easy swaying motion, swing all of you (eyes, too) to one side then to the other, counting aloud to a hundred at the same time. Arms should hang loosely and swing with the momentum. You'll know the eyes are doing their part when it begins to appear that the entire room is slipping past you in the opposite direction.

ASTROLINE If you marry a Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23) be prepared to sleep with the windows wide open. Libra, an air sign, needs fresh air, according to the stargazers, and should get out in, and move around in that fresh air at every opportunity. By offering to share some outdoor activity with your Libra mate you can help him, or her, to preserve good health. (Just think! You'll benefit too, by the sharing and the fresh air.)

OTHER LIVES (?) Reincarnationists claim we work on and perfect many talents during a series of many lifetimes. So, if you feel you've come to a dead-end job-wise, consider seriously developing some hobby or talent you always felt you had a little flair for. You might be surprised at the doors it may open for you.

COLORATING Confused about what colors go well together? Colors from the warm (contains red) side of the color wheel go well together: colors from the cool (contains blue) side of the wheel go well together. But note: Violet has both red and blue in it so it can be warm or cool. Yellow contains neither red nor blue so it is neither warm nor cool. (But good as an accent color.) Make a room seem larger with cool colors or make it seem smaller with warm colors. (Have colorfun!)

NEW AGE Meditating, contemplating, or just plain having a quiet time is going to become more and more meaningful and necessary in this getting-complexer-by-the-minute world of ours. Just a few minutes of sitting quietly and freeing the mind of all "busyness" will bring inner serenity and strength over a period of time. There are many excellent books and material on this subject. (Write for a list.)

EDGAR CAYCE ON AP- PRECIATION:

Find no fault with others. Do show appreciation for all efforts, not only for self, but appreciate the opportunity to speak to and with others as to how they should appreciate their opportunities among their associates in whatever walk of life it may be. (2514-3.)

Mrs. Hartman Wins Permanent Trophy For Door Decoration

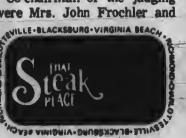

Mrs. P.C. Hartman

Three is a magic number for Mrs. P. C. Hartman, 45th Street. A member of the Linkhorn Park Garden Club, she won, for the third year, first place for her holiday door decoration. As a result, she receives permanent custody of the silver bowl trophy awarded a tri-winner. The unusual door arrangement is a bird in a pear tree. Marian Hartman used real pears for authentic effect, a trident maneuver. As she says, "The juice kept oozing out," but she managed to secure them in place and the effect is striking. Others receiving awards were Mrs. T. M. Ammons, blue ribbon for front door; Mrs. Edgar A. Tugman, red, for live outdoor tree decoration; Mrs. Stanley S. Howard, red, roof and swag.

Honorable mention went to Mrs. H. Thomas Rose, Mrs. George N. Vukos, Mrs. J. Wesley Clemens.

Princess Anne Plaza

Mrs. Garnet C. Barnes, president of the Princess Anne Plaza Garden Club, announced the winners of the annual Outdoor Christmas Decorating Contest in Princess Anne Plaza. Cox Wrestling

Falcon Wrestling Team Undefeated

Loaded with talent, the Cox High School wrestling team is expected to dominate the Eastern District, Regional, and State tournaments this year. The team finished first in the Eastern District in 1970 and second in 1971. In the Eastern Regional Tournament, the team has enjoyed second place finishes in 1969, 1970, and 1971.

This year, the team is undefeated with five straight impressive wins over Booker T. Washington (63-0), Norfolk Catholic (51-9), Maury (47-10), Deep Creek (43-10), and Lawrence (46-0). Seven of the twelve starting matmen are also undefeated.

Coached by head coach Bill Gutermuth and assistant coach George McGovern, the team has expert leadership to account for their wrestling prominence. Catermuth, just named Outstanding High School Coach for 1971 by the Virginia Beach Sports Club, has compiled an outstanding 34-3 record in three years at Cox, including six district titles, six regional titles, and five state titles. As head wrestling coach in 1964 and 1965, McGovern guided his team to an enviable 20-5 record.

Let's look at the individual team members.

CHRIS BOUGADES - 98 lbs. Chris has a 2-1 record. A freshman, he is strong, fast, and aggressive.

CHRIS CONKWRIGHT - 105 lbs. A freshman, Chris was undefeated as a member of the junior varsity team and this year has an unbeaten 5-0 record. He holds a Virginia Federation State Championship, is very talented, and has tremendous potential.

SCOTT CONKWRIGHT - 112 lbs. Three times a state champion and ranked second in the Nation, Scott is an All-American candidate as a senior. He won the Eastern District 98 pound title in 1970 and the 105 pound title in 1971. In the Eastern Regional, he won the 95 pound title in 1969, the 105 pound title in 1971, and came in second in the 98 pound class in 1970. Scott will probably repeat as state champion in his class this year.

MIKE BATTALIO - 119 lbs. Undefeated this year and last year as a junior varsity team member, Mike is strong, fast, and talented. A junior, he should create a real name for himself in the state.

BOB INGRAM - 126 lbs. A senior, he was fourth in the Eastern District last year and holds a Virginia Federation State Championship. He is very strong, moving up from his 98

"JOINING"

BY: Jack Gibbert

Did you know that the Bible doesn't speak of folks "joining" any church? Those who "join" a church didn't do it because of what they learned from the Bible. This isn't to say that the Bible doesn't speak of the church...it does (Matt. 16:18). Furthermore, it informs us that folks were members of it (Acts 12:1). Since some folks were members of the church and others were not, it logically follows that the members had to do something in order to become members. If they didn't join, how did they become members of it?

Acts the second chapter has the answer to the problem. In Vs. 22-36 Peter preaches the first gospel sermon. In it, he establishes that Jesus is Christ and that those listening to his sermon were guilty of having killed Christ. This of course established their guilt of sin. In Vs. 37 the hearers believe the sermon and ask what they should do. Vs. 38 Peter tells them that in order to have their sins remitted they must "repent and be baptized." In Vs. 39-40 he continues to exhort them to obey the gospel and in Vs. 41 those that "gladly received his word were baptized."

And herein lies the answer to the question, read on in Vs. 41, "...and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls." That unit which they were added is made clear in Vs. 47, "...the Lord added unto the church daily such as should be saved."

Yes, according to the Bible, folks weren't saved one way and then "joined" the church by another. The saved are the church. One is in the church by virtue of salvation.

If you have been led to believe you were saved one way and then "joined" the church by another, you have been led to believe that which is not found in the gospel. Please read, Gal. 1:8-9 and Matt. 15:14.

undefeated since his freshman year. Considered a great athlete and one of the nation's most talented wrestlers by his coach, Brian finished first in the Eastern District in the 107 pound class in 1970 and in the 119 pound division in 1971. He finished fifth in the Eastern Regional in the 103 pound event in 1969 and won the 107 pound class in 1970.

BRIAN TAYLOR - 138 lbs. Brian finished fourth in the Eastern District 130 pound class in 1970. Missing last year because of an injury, his coach predicts he will have a great year now as a senior. He is unbeaten in his first five matches this year.

MIKE NEWBERN - 145 lbs. Just a sophomore, Mike has only lost once in five starts this year. He had a good record as a junior varsity member and is expected to develop into a real winner.

CHARLES LITZ - 155 lbs. Now a senior, Chuck finished second in the Eastern District's 145 pound division last year. A very enthusiastic athlete, he is very strong, fast, and talented. This year, he is undefeated.

BRUCE STRIFFLER - 167 lbs. Displaying a lot of strength, Bruce is considered a winner. He is a senior, has a two wins and three loss record this year, and holds a Virginia Federation State Championship.

Fishing Tourney A Record-Setter

Once again, Virginia Beach proved to be the home of the big fish. With results in from the annual Virginia Salt Water Fishing Tournament, thirteen of the twenty-one species winners were taken in waters off Virginia Beach. Five new state records were set, and all five record-breaking fish were caught off the Virginia Beach shores.

Two Virginia Beach residents, Sue Smith and J. W. Cole, led species classes for the coveted citations. Sue Smith's 62 pound blue marlin broke the old state record by almost 13 pounds and barely missed setting the world record for woman anglers. J.W. Cole's 81 pound 5 ounce white marlin won the trophy for the largest white marlin hooked this year.

Louisiana fisherman Ted Alcus set a new state record with his 511 pound blue marlin. C.H. Blake Jr.'s 23 pound 5 ounce bluefish was the largest ever taken in Virginia waters. Charles E. Cross of Portsmouth landed a 17 1/2 pound flounder, and W.B. DuVal of Richmond pulled in a 9 pound 3 ounce speckled trout, both new state records.

Although they did not set new state records, the following fish were also landed off Virginia Beach and were the largest of their species: tuna, white marlin, wahoo, king mackerel, striped bass, tautog, sea bass, and spot.

Fourteen of the 21 species winners were taken from private craft. The charter fleet was led by Captain Sonny Fentress, whose craft landed the state record blue marlin and species winners tuna and white marlin. Captain Fred Keech's boat landed the state record dolphin. Captain Gordon Huckins' head boat was the craft from which the top sea bass and tautog were taken. Captain Robinson's boat landed the year's biggest king mackerel.

Other citation winners, there were 4900, a new record that bested the 1968 high of 4,504, were caught off Quinby, Cape Charles, Oyster, Smith Island, Wachapreague, Occahanock Rock, Bluefish Rock, and in the Rappahannock River. 1194 of the citations went for bluefish, followed by black drum (832), gray trout (600), striped bass (460), flounder (435), tautog (383), channel bass (217), speckled trout (172), dolphin (164), sea bass (109), white marlin (69), cobia (60), shark (58), wahoo (46), false albacore (34), spot (21), whiting (9), tuna (8), king mackerel (5), blue marlin (2), and tarpon (1).

Cox Gymnasts Open Tuesday

It is that time of year when the girls invade the school gymnasiums and find a night between basketball and wrestling for gymnastics. Always a flurry of action, the girl gymnastic tumble about on mats, swing through the air on the parallel bars, and do acrobatic stunts on the balance beams.

Cox opens its gymnastic events Tuesday night at 7 p.m. when they host the lady Knights of Kellam. The Cox team will be led by Sandy Conkwright, Cindy Ellis, Patti Merrell, and Jane Gray.

Cindy was the first place finisher last year in vaulting and the second place winner in tumbling in the Eastern Regional Tournament. She then went on to the State Tournament and nailed down third place finishes in both events.

Sandy swept three first place finishes in the Regional Tourney. She finished first on

NOTTINGHAM: THE BOWLING BALL

"I picked up the name from some of the defensive players because I run hard and low and I'm always knocking people over."

That's how Don Nottingham, Baltimore Colts rookie running back, explains how he earned the nickname of "The Bowling Ball."

Nottingham, a 5-10, 220-pounder out of Kent State, was the last player selected in the 1971 National Football League draft, and the World Champion Colts are glad they got him.

"He's quite a prospect despite his size," says Coach Don McCafferty. "He's durable, tough, and has a very strong body."

It didn't take long for Baltimore reporters to pick up Nottingham's new nickname. CBS-TV sportscaster Pat Summerall, calling the play-by-play during the nationally televised pre-season game between Baltimore and Dallas often commented, "Watch out for the bowling ball!"

Don is a bowler—a sport he enjoys with his wife, Shelly. A lefthander, he says he likes to get out to a bowling center for fun and enjoyment. His high game is a 214, but he admits his average is somewhere near the 150 mark.

Beach Sports Club Hears Sonny Allen

Sonny Allen, basketball coach at Old Dominion University, was guest speaker Tuesday afternoon at the Virginia Beach Sport Club's luncheon meeting. Allen summed up ODU's season to date as "disappointing but exciting."

"I am disappointed that we have lost six ballgames," Allen said. "But it has been exciting in that we lost the six games by only a total of nineteen points. No one leaves our games early."

Allen reiterated what most local Big Blue followers already know by pointing out that part of the poor record is because they have been playing good teams. "We have been playing good basketball even though we have been getting beaten," Allen commented.

He termed Dave Twardzik "the fastest guard in the country." Over half a dozen professional scouts and the Brigham Young and Indiana coaches agreed that Dave is one of the greatest guards in the country, an opinion enhanced greatly by Twardzik's outstanding play in the recent Kiwanis-ODU Holiday Classic Basketball Tournament at Scope.

Looking ahead to the remainder of the season, Allen said, "We have to win now. More defeats will hurt our chances for a post-season tournament bid, but I feel that even with a 16-8 record we will get an invitation."

Saturday night's game with always tough Roanoke will be telecast back to Tidewater by Channel 3. Later in the season, the ODU class at Western Kentucky will also be televised.

Speaker at next Tuesday's 1 P.M. Virginia Beach Sports Club luncheon at the Steak House will be the Voice of the Squires, Marty Brenaman. There will be as Tuesday meeting the following week to the annual Jamboree, Monday January 17th at 6 p.m. Duffy Daugherty, head football coach at Michigan State, is guest speaker. Tickets are available from sport club members or by phoning 425-6264.

Recreation Commission Endorses Private Park

The Virginia Beach Recreation Commission gave its approval to plans for a proposed recreational park to be located near Red Wing Park in the Princess Anne Borough. During Tuesday afternoon's meeting, J. Alvin Holland presented the upcoming item on the Planning Commission agenda for discussion.

Joseph A. Bement will present a proposal for a recreational park at next Tuesday's Planning Commission hearing. The park will consist of various recreational facilities, including a petting farm, a snack shop, craft shops, and related activities. The 104.62 acre park will be located on the west side of Oceana Boulevard, across the road from the present S.P.C.A. facility.

Recreation Commission member Dick Branch said, "If this park is built, it would be a big asset to the City. It would save the taxpayer a lot of money, because the Recreation Department has already considered constructing similar facilities. Having the job done by private enterprise would save the taxpayers the expense of constructing such an area."

Commission Chairman Maury Riganio agreed with Branch and said, "If the park is good for the City and if it will save the taxpayers money, I am for it!"

With only one nay vote, a resolution was passed by the Recreation Commission designating the concept as set forth in the proposed park as a desirable and needed type of recreational facility which the City needs.

The only negative vote was voiced by Stanley A. Phillips. "I am for the park concept, but I am against a city commission endorsing a profit-making private enterprise. I do not think the City should take sides when it concerns private enterprise for personal gain."

In other action, the Recreation Commission directed that a letter be sent to the School Board endorsing the February 8th bond referendum. The Commission's support of the bond issue was unanimous.

"Recreation is not tied in with the school bond referendum," Riganio pointed out. "There is nothing in the issue that deals with recreation. If the 'frills' caused the defeat of the bond issue last time, then let's keep recreation out of it."

Prior to the vote of support, Parks and Recreation Director Harold S. Whitehurst expressed his support of the referendum. "The use of school playgrounds and gymnasiums are an important and of our program," Whitehurst commented.

Riganio pointed out that a

Kellam Cagers Notch First Win Of Season

Kellam notched its first victory of the season Tuesday night, edging Carolton Oaks 84-82. Carolton Oaks battled into the lead midway through the final period, but the shooting of Dickie Wood and Steve Layden and the rebounding of Charles Langley and Doug Crowe pulled out the game in the final seconds.

Steve Layden, a 6'1 1/2" senior forward, scored a game high 20 points and grabbed seven rebounds in his best game of the season. Dickie Wood was close behind with 21 tallies.

Charles Langley, a 6'3" junior center, took a game high 16 rebounds off the boards. With 11 rebounds, Doug Crowe took runner-up honors.

The game was saved in the final four seconds by Layden. Leading by only one point, 83-82, he rebounded a Carolton Oaks shot, was fouled, and made the first of a pair of foul shots. By following through after the missed second foul shot, Layden got the rebound and dribbled out the remaining four seconds to preserve the win.

Then on the night of December 22nd, the boys and most of the parents visited the Holmes Convalescent Home and the Medic-Home Health Center of Virginia Beach to sing Christmas Carols and deliver fruit baskets to over 200 people residing in these homes.

Boys participating in these activities were Ricky Felch, Steve Kilmosynski, David Meeks, John Moller, Danny Tabor, Ronnie Simoneau, Ian Wright, Vince Yavorosky Jr., Cameron Dueso, David Fischer, Chip Houston, Dean Houston, Glen Kotkiewicz, Shane Lougher, Terrance Miller, Stacy Boyd, Michael Hofmann, Fred Hoppe, Kenneth McDermott, Anthony Ringo and Robert Hardee.

Cherry-Pearson was founded in 1945 by Julian Pearson and Bob Cherry. Theirs was the first and only men's clothing store in Virginia Beach. Today, after many changes in fashion styles and trends, Cherry-Pearson still maintains the quality and excellence set forth by the founders.

Mr. Fred Jordan, formerly with the Hub of Virginia and Egerton & Lea, became the new manager of Cherry-Pearson in August. Educated at William and Mary, Norfolk Division, he is a native of Virginia and has been in retailing over 12 years. Mr. Jordan also has the distinction of being an entertainer and big band singer, and one of Virginia Beach's first surfers. After spending some time in Palm Beach, he is happy to return to the sun, sand, and surf of Virginia Beach.

Suits by Botany 500 and Stanley Blacker, set off by an unusual line of ties, double knit and tapestry prints, by Berkley, Cravets, and Ruffler characterizes the Cherry Pearson line. Imported sweaters and wovens by Byford of England, shirts and sweaters by Thine, Enco shirts, sportswear by Hang Ten and Golden Breed are offered the distinguished dresser. Fine leather accessories, belts and wallets, by Tex-Tan complete the gentleman's look of Cherry-Pearson.

What About His Education?

Mrs. Kathy Dillon and son Todd of Academy Court, Kempsville, pretty well sum up the feeling of the more than 500 persons who attended the opening Saturday of the School Bond Headquarters. The feeling of this mother is that if classrooms aren't provided, little Todd's future education may suffer from actions taken now. Additional pictures on page 3. (Photo by Tom Adeock)

College Gets $1,000

Virginia Wesleyan College has received a grant of $1,000 from the Magee Christian Education Foundation of Kentucky. The announcement was made this week by the Rev. Dr. Edward L. Tullis, secretary-treasurer of the Foundation, and President Lambuth M. Clarke.

The grant was made as a memorial to the late Bishop Walter C. Gum and funds will be used to provide furnishings for a room in the Gum Residence Hall at Wesleyan. Bishop Gum served terms as Bishop in the Kentucky and Virginia conferences of the United Methodist Church prior to his retirement. He was vice chairman of the Board of Trustees at Virginia Wesleyan and living in Norfolk at the time of his death.

This grant is part of the Phase

III development program at Virginia Wesleyan College. This phase of physical development included, among other projects, two residence halls housing a total of 120 students. These two dormitories are the first step in a second Academic Village. Virginia Wesleyan, a four-year, coeducational, liberal arts college, opened in September 1966 with 75 freshmen. The total fulltime enrollment is now 626.

Sun Mailaway Issue Next Week

Next week's issue of the Virginia Beach Sun will be one that residents and former residents alike won't want to miss. It will carry a special tabloid section observing the Chamber of Commerce's 35th anniversary and portions of the regular section will be devoted to the city's progress over the years.

Because the Sun believes that residents will want to share this issue (everyone enjoys pictures and stories of "the good old days") with friends not living in Virginia Beach, the Sun will mail an issue anywhere in the United States for 25 cents. Orders for these mailaway copies should be placed immediately, however, because no orders will be accepted after February 1.

Sun readers will not want to miss the opportunity of sending the January 20 issue to friends and relatives. So call the newspaper office today, 428-2401, and place your orders for mailing.

Over Richmond Decision

Buffington Says Be 'Calm And Rational'

The decision Monday to merge Richmond's predominantly black school system with the primarily white areas of Henrico and Chesterfield counties brought a response Tuesday from J.W. Buffington, Chairman, Virginia Beach City School Board.

Buffington, in a letter released for publication said:

"While we have all followed with great interest the Richmond-Henrico-Chesterfield consolidation case, in which a decision was handed down recently, there are certain considerations that I believe should be noted before one attempts to apply that decision to any other area.

First of all, a decision of a Federal district court is in no way binding on anyone except those who are parties to the suit; this should be remembered.

Second, this particular decision will no doubt be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court of the United States; it is my belief that it will be reversed in that Court.

Third, the main factors that influenced the Richmond decision are not present in Virginia Beach or this area, and any future case would have to be heard on its own merits, not drawing from the Richmond case.

Fourth, I should like to remind you that both City Council and the School Board have taken public stands against the consolidation of our schools with those of any other political sub-division. We have pledged to resist any such effort by every possible means, and we repeat that pledge now.

So far as our bond issue is concerned, it would seem to me that we now have more reason than ever to vote YES, since, in case of a possible suit, we would be in a much better position if we could show that we already had adequate classrooms for our children.

We should be calm and rational in the face of a decision that may never affect us, and we should not let anyone else possible to see that it does not.

Hite in Drama Conference

H. Rick Hite, assistant professor of drama at Virginia Wesleyan College, will participate in a "Consultation on Youth and Drama in the Church" Saturday in Richmond.

The conference, which will be held at the Methodist Building, will evaluate opportunities for youth to use drama in local church activities. Mr. Hite served on the staff of a statewide United Methodist youth conference on "The Creative Arts" at Virginia Wesleyan College last summer.

Members Sought

The Virginia Beach Jaycees will hold a membership drive meeting at Atlantic Permanent Savings and Loan Building, Independence Blvd., 7:30 p.m. January 18.

Young men between the ages of 21 and 35, persons who desire to build a better community for himself and his family and wish to learn the true meaning of leadership, are invited to attend.

For further information call 340-8363.

Bond To Be Topic

Thoroughgood Civic League will meet Monday at Thoroughgood Elementary School at 8 p.m. The treasurer, Henry Pezzella, will be there at 7:30 p.m. to register members.

A speaker appointed by the School Board will speak on the forthcoming school bond referendum.

CCO States Stand

To the Editor:

The Board of Directors of the Council of Civic Organizations endorses the recent efforts of City Council to seek enactment of legislation which would enable the City of Virginia Beach to require developers to contribute land, or pay a cash assessment, to offset the costs of the increased city services that such developments incur. Additionally, the C.C.O. Board of Directors also endorses Council's decision to incorporate, at the earliest possible date, cost-benefit analysis of future developments as an integral part of its planning considerations.

Both of these issues have continually received high priority among the recommendations voiced by our membership in general, and, specifically, by our Planning, Zoning and Development Committee Chairman. It is our sincere hope that these acts, and those to follow, will lead to a more orderly fashion of burdens that a rapidly expanding population generates.

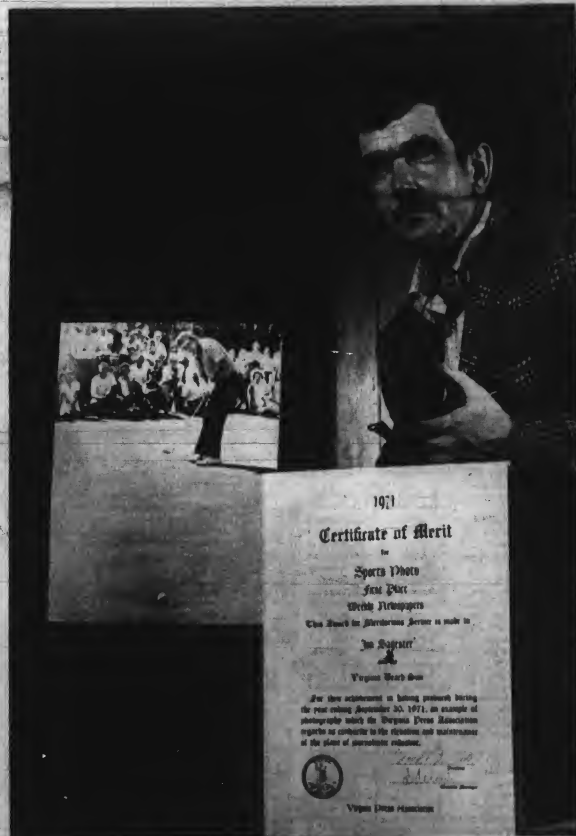

We subscribe to the premise that a proper education is one of the most important services our city provides. Hopefully, now that we have reached this juncture of aforementioned opinion, the C.C.O. and the City Council can agree that the school bond referendum should serve as a vehicle for nothing more than that. It should not signify a growth, or a no-growth, stance, nor should it be used as a means of conveying opinion unrelated to the operations of our schools. Instead, it should serve only as an indicator of the citizens' opinion as to whether or not they desire additional educational facilities. Council should be aware that the responsibility for this continued growth is the school population rests in their hands.

In view of these actions, the C.C.O. Board feels obligated to further clarify a position it recently took concerning the upcoming school bond referendum. The Board of Directors does support the passage of this referendum, and encourages its general membership and the citizens of Virginia Beach to do likewise, with the understanding that the City Council continue to make tangible efforts to initiate ordinances which will designate more specific patterns for the future growth of our city.

Lastly, just as you will be doing, the C.C.O. will continue to study the problems which accompany rapid urban growth. If we can be of service to you in this area, we hope that you will feel free to call upon us. Having direct communication with a great many civic organizations, we should be more than happy to conduct opinion polls, gather statistics for research, or function as a sounding board for the various issues with which you are confronted. Such resources we place at your disposal to be used in any endeavor in which a cooperative effort is needed to seek those things which are beneficial to the future of our citizens and its citizenry.

Amendment Sought

Charter Change Needs City Certification

By Leo Lohg

General Assembly approval of a requested amendment to the Virginia Beach City Charter would mean official recognition of several existing administrative departments, the combining of others and remaining of one of them.

The proposal, which is scheduled to go before state legislators in the current Assembly session, will amount to revising the Charter to coincide with the city government's make-up as established in its reorganization early last year by City Manager Roger Scott.

Departments which would be certified as additions to the Charter are Community Services, General Services, Economic Development, Libraries and City Planning.

The creation of the Department of Community Services resulted from combining the operations of divisions of Public Works, Public Utilities, Inspections and Traffic Engineering under a central director.

The department being renamed is Public Welfare which would be known as the Department of Public Social Service.

As outlined in the Charter amendment request, the Department of Community Services "shall be responsible for the construction and maintenance of all streets, roads, bridges and drains for garbage and refuse collection and disposal and for all other public works including the construction, operation and maintenance of the waterworks system and sewers and sewage disposal and such other powers and duties as may be assigned by Council."

Responsibility of the Department of General Services has been defined as that of "the maintenance of the buildings and grounds within city government with the exception of parks and recreation lands and to provide other internal services to city agencies as may be prescribed by the Council or by the orders of the director consistent therewith."

The function of the Department of Economic Development is outlined as being "responsible for the formulation and orderly development of the entire economy of the city." This department will absorb the responsibility of the former Virginia Beach Development Authority, which will function as an advisory group to the department.

The responsibilities of the Department of Public Libraries is self explanatory by virtue of its title. That of "operating and maintaining public libraries within the city and shall have such other powers and duties as may be assigned by the Council."

The function of the Department of City Planning is described as being "responsible for the administration of all phases of city planning and shall have such other powers and duties as may be assigned by the Council."

Of the 14 city administrative departments contained in the request, nine of these would not be affected, since they were created in the Charter's drafting when former Princess Anne County was consolidated with the City of Virginia Beach on January 1, 1963.

There are the departments of Finance, Law, Public Safety, Public Health, Public Social Service (excepting for being renamed from the Department of Public Welfare), Farm and Home Demonstration, Education, Parks and Recreation, and Personnel.

The proposed Charter amendments were subjected to public hearings by City Council, and included in material presented to Virginia Beach legislators in a public hearing last Wednesday night. The amendments were presented for consideration in the current General Assembly session.

Rev. Clarence Rivers Conducts

Reverend Rivers To Conduct Weekend Liturgical Workshop

Exciting is the word for the weekend of music that's coming to the area on Feb. 24-27.

The Music Committee of the Diocese Liturgical Commission and St. Nicholas Parish will bring the Rev. Clarence Rivers here to conduct a weekend workshop in Liturgical Music, culminating in a public lecture-concert and a Sunday noon Liturgy.

Father Rivers is probably best known nationally and internationally as a composer of contemporary Church music. He launched a revolution in American Catholic Church music with the publication of his "An American Mass Program" in 1963.

A Catholic priest, a teacher, lecturer, dramatist, recording artist, and gifted composer, he has twonetwork TV shows to his credit. He narrated the ABC-TV civil rights documentary "We Shall Be Heard" and starred in the black arts drama "Newborn Again" for the same network.

Participating in the weekend workshop and concert will be a choir of 100 volunteer participants. These will be men and women, 16 years or older, with reasonably good singing ability and an interest in good music. They will be from all denominations in the area.

Workshops will begin Feb. 24 with preliminary work under the direction of Walter Noons, director of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus.

All rehearsals will be held at St. Nicholas Church. The schedule is: Friday, 8 p.m., a 2½ hour rehearsal; Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon; 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The Saturday concert-lecture "Freeing the Spirit" will be held at Princess Anne High School at 8 p.m.

At noon on Sunday, Feb. 27, the Liturgy will be followed by Lecture-discussion "The Art of Liturgical Leadership" or "Liturgical Fetishes" (the importance of avoiding them.)

Subscriptions are $2 per person for group registrations; $2.50 individual registrations per person.

The choir of 100 voices is still in need of volunteers. Those interested may call St. Nicholas Church, 340-7231.

Council Rejects 'Flag Lot' Appeal

City Council Monday denied an appeal by the Department of Community Services and approved the recording of flag lots which were first approved by in April of 1970.

Such lots are now prohibited by city ordinances. The lots can only be reached by small, private roadways. They are not adjacent to city-owned streets and are not accessible to city services such as garbage collection.

The appeal concerned the Planning Commission's waiver last month of the time limitation for recording the lots in Circuit Court. The recording time expired July 1, 1971.

The waiver request came from Mrs. Virginia Hawley to permit the recording of approved subdivision of five plots of land, which contained 10 flag lots on Morris Neck Road in Pungo Borough.

Attorney Owen Pickett, who represented Mrs. Hawley before the Planning Commission, recorded the subdivision approval in Circuit Court December 16.

The City Attorney's office contended Monday, as it previously did before the Planning Commission, a city ordinance was adopted in June 1970 which required recording of the subdivision approval no later than July 1, 1971, and that Mrs. Hawley failed to meet the requirements.

Law Department representatives informed Council it was their opinion a waiver of recording time limitations also constituted a waiver of existing regulations against the approving of flag lot subdividing.

W.W. Fleming, Director, Department of Community Services, told Council he was of the opinion Mrs. Hawley's move appeared as an attempt to

OUTLOOK

WILLIE JOE

Yep, there will never be another summer like last summer (thank goodness). Whether you happen to be at Tom's, the Tiki Bar, or elsewhere, just so the rain is off your back and the music is good "last summer" always seems just a little bit better. While I'm on the subject of good music, I went to McGinnis Flints a few nights ago to listen to the Suite, the Flint's band. Ted Torok really did a number when he put that band together. Ted is, of course, the owner of Flint's and also a former Norfolk Neptune guard. I sometimes get the feeling that he probably works part-time teaching telephone books in half.

Also, I guess I should mention "Smiling Dave Casteel", Flint's manager. He's the guy that sits by the door and smears the red or black ink on your hand or arm depending on what mood he's in which makes it impossible to lie to your friends about your age, but of course, Dave is a good friend, which is more than he'll say about me after he reads this column. Now really Dave, is it true blonde have more fun?

I also made it over to Peabody's T-shirt Factory Saturday for their all-night jam session. Manager Bruce Thompson really brought in some good groups for the session. It provided a great combination of sounds from some golden oldies played by the Ed Stone Circus all the way up to the Spice's ultra-modern Mode Synthesizer.

Personally to: Commodore John McClintock, sorry but I don't think I can join the Yacht Club (I can't get the boat out of the bottle).

Susie Litchfield, the ABC sends its thanks for explaining what "most spirited" means.

Albert Tebell, congratulations for succeeding in being elected as "most likely to succeed." The Virginia Beach Police Force, thanks for the ticket but I don't dance.

The Readers, carry a big stick, and feed the birds but most of all be nice to everyone.

Willie Joe

Fleming Says Funds Assured

W.W. Fleming, Director, Department of Community Services, Monday said reports on the possibility of the city losing $1 million in State road improvement funds were in error.

The possibility of such a loss was linked to continuing delays in obtaining State approval of plans for the long awaited improvement of Rosemont Road.

During Monday's informal City Council session Fleming said he was informed by State officials in a phone conversation of Tuesday, Jan. 4th that Virginia Beach is not in danger of losing any of the $1.9 million road improvement funds allocated the City by the State in fiscal 1971-1972.

City Transfers College Site

City Manager Roger M. Scott has been authorized to deed 115.085 acres of land in Green Run Farm to the "State Department of Community Colleges as a permanent site for the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College.

City Council authorized the land transfer Monday after being informed the move would virtually assure appropriation of State funds for construction of the college.

R. Bradshaw Pulley, a member of the Tidewater Community College Board told Council acquisition of the site was required in order to request funds from the Virginia General Assembly. He added the College Board has been "promised we will get the funds appropriated by the General Assembly."

McCoy Cited By NAACP

The Reverend S.C. Parker, president of the Virginia Beach Chapter of NAACP, meeting Monday night presented L.W. McCoy of Virginia Beach a Life Membership of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The presentation was made to McCoy for the many years of work and dedicated service he has rendered to the Second Division Sunday School Union, of which he is president. He is a member of the Newlight Civic League and Newlight Baptist Church.

Sun Shines With Own 'Sunshine'

The Sun continues to grow. The latest staff member is a 6 ft. 11 in., 275 lb., 24-year-old District Manager, Clayton Finch, better known as "Sunshine" to carriers and staff alike.

A native of Erie, Pa., Finch studies his three years of philosophy and religious study at Parsons College, Iowa, to his alma mater.

"I want my carriers to come to me as their friend, not a boss. They can call me 24 hours of the day if necessary."

Finch believes that the personal touch with carriers is important. "I contact them all once a week and their parents too. That way we have no misunderstandings."

He's had experience in the circulation field in Erie, Burlington, Iowa and Palm Springs, Calif.

One of his most rewarding jobs was in a California area comprised mostly of persons of Mexican descent. "The language was a barrier, because only the carriers spoke English. But I managed to communicate with the parents in my broken Spanish, and that's when I decided that involvement in the field of circulation was definitely my goal."

Finch and his wife, Louise, and their 18-month old son live at 811 Greensboro Ave., in Virginia Beach.

Of his new district manager, Tim McClanahan, Circulation Manager of the Sun says: "He's a great guy. He's got a special manner of dealing with young people that's sincere and inspiring. He's a real asset."

In accepting the presentation, McCoy said "I have been a member of NAACP for many years and it sure has served a great deal of good for black people throughout this nation. But we still have a long way to go."

The Second Division Sunday School Union consists of the following churches: Piney Grove, Mount Bethel, Pleasant Grove and Newlight Mount Sinai. Witnessing the presentation were the Rev. Ray Cox, Rev. H.L. Camper, Rev. Edmund Morgan, and Earl H. Russell, president of Newlight Civic League.

Fleming also quoted State officials with saying $400,000 of that sum — has been reserved by the State as its share of the Rosemont Road project cost.

The possibility of holding a public hearing on the project within the next 90 days was also voiced by Fleming. He based this on plans detailing improvements to Rosemont Road, which have been rejected several times by the State, being resubmitted and approved.

Based on the new possibility of a public hearing on improving Rosemont Road being held in the near future Fleming said it was his feeling construction work on the project could begin no later than the forthcoming June or July.

In order that the City be assured of the receipt of State funds for the Rosemont Road project Mayor Donald H. Rhodes requested Fleming to obtain a written certification of the above fund commitment from State officials, and proceed at once with necessary steps to assure a definite start on the project.

Bond Issue Center Opens

The Virginia Beach Committee For The Bond Issue opened its information center Saturday at 2500 Virginia Beach Blvd. Mayor Donald H. Rhodes cut the ribbon. The ceremony was attended by many of the city's elected officials, community leaders and interested citizens.

The Committee is an organization of Beach residents who advocate passage of the School Bond Issue on Feb. 8. Robert M. Stanton, chairman, reported that the Committee plans a month-long informational campaign.

Stanton said, "All of us on the Committee feel very strongly that the Bond Issue must pass. The schools it would finance are the bare necessities. Without them, Virginia Beach cannot hope to provide its children with a quality education. We're going to do everything we can to convince the voters of these facts."

Whitehurst Urges Youth To Register And Vote

By Jay Brumbley

Congressman Whitehurst visited Keilam High School last Friday morning for a series of informal question and answer sessions with students in the business education department. Following the informal discussions, the Republican Congressman from the 2nd District gave a short talk on civic responsibility to combined classes.

"I would like to spend more time in the high schools talking to students," Whitehurst stated. "Congress is now in recess, and it gives me the opportunity to spend the next few days in the various schools talking to area students."

Whitehurst was one of the most outspoken sponsors of the bill that gave the right to vote to eighteen year olds. "I do not care how you vote. You may vote Republican or you may not. The important thing is that you vote. Vote for the person you think best for the office. I have voted in every election since I was twenty-one. I have made some mistakes. I have voted for some people and later wished I had voted for someone else. You will probably make mistakes too."

Before the combined business education classes, Whitehurst related a story a former Nazi officer had told him while the local congressman was in Germany studying our armed services there. The story concerned the rise to power of the Nazi organization and Adolf Hitler. As the students sat spellbound to the true narration, Whitehurst concluded with the man's statement, "The Nazi organization did not take over the German government. We, the people, put them in by not taking a stand and voting for the other candidates."

Asked how many people in the room were eighteen, about two dozen hands went up. When asked how many of them had registered to vote, less than a half dozen hands were raised. It was his hope that the remaining students would register and vote in the upcoming elections. If they do so, then his talk was a success.

Congressman Whitehurst demonstrates his typing techniques for Mrs. Ellen Soyars, a Kellam High School typing instructor.

ALTARS
BY: Jack Gibbert
The first use of an altar is found in Gen. 8:20 where Noah offered burnt offerings after the flood.
Moses was instructed by God in the wilderness to build one for burnt offerings and sacrifices in Ex. 20:24-26.
An altar for burning incense was to be constructed and used according to God's instructions in Ex. 30:1-10.
We should be impressed that although the Old Testament has hundreds of references to altars built and used at God's command, NEVER do we find such used in the New Testament for Christian worship.
Preachers who borrow this Old Testament implement today, seek to justify it by such passages as Matt. 5:23-24 and 23:18-20. However, both these cases are examples of a Jew Jesus speaking to other Jews under the law of Moses. The New Testament had not come of force at that time. (Heb. 9:15-17).
Some preachers, realizing they can never find authority for an altar in Christian service to God, fall back on such arguments as, "I like it," or "they look so nice," or "we've always done it." Such arguments admit to a total lack of concern for pleasing the Lord. It's that old, "It pleases me, it must please God," concept. Such preachers are guilty of equating themselves equal with God. They would do well to read Prov. 14:12.
As there is no authority for animal sacrifice or incense burning in Christmas worship, there's no need for an altar today. The incense of the Old Testament has been replaced with the prayers of Christians. (Rev. 5:8) and the animal sacrifices were a shadow of Christ on the cross. (read Heb. chapter 9)
Those who use altars today do so without New Testament Authority. Some do it ignorantly and others because it's a part of the pomp and ceremony they have invented to please themselves. NONE of it because Christ or his apostles taught CHRISTIANS to do it.

Tax Book Available

A booklet that gives information on how to fill out Federal tax returns will be sold at all Postal Service facilities in the Virginia Beach area, according to Postmaster J.T. Roswhite, Jr.

"Your Federal Income Tax" was written by the Internal Revenue Service and contains many examples to illustrate how the tax law applies to actual situations.

A special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled-in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages where explanations can be found for each entry on the return.

The 100-page booklet is on sale now and costs 75 cents a copy.

Despite a hard fought battle to stuff it in, the Virginia Beach Sun's newest addition to its circulation, Clayton "Sunshine" Finch failed to make another cut of beef as he tried for That Steak Place's record of 72 ounces of steak in 72 minutes. But "Sunshine", who's six feet five inches and weighs 275 pounds, hasn't eaten crow yet. He'll take on anyone for the steak-eating championship of Virginia Beach Monday night at That Steak Place, Va. Statement from Virginia Beach City School Board

While we have all followed with great interest the Richmond-Henrico-Chesterfield consolidation case, in which a decision was handed down recently, there are certain considerations that I believe should be noted before one attempts to apply that decision to any other area.

First of all, a decision of a Federal district court is in no way binding on anyone except those who are parties to the suit; this should be remembered.

Second, this particular decision will no doubt be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court of the United States; it is my belief that it will be reversed in that Court.

Third, the main factors that influenced the Richmond decision are not present in Virginia Beach or this area, and my future case would have to be heard on its own merits, not drawing from the Richmond case.

Fourth, I should like to remind you that both City Council and the School Board have taken public stands AGAINST the consolidation of our schools with those of any other political sub-division. We have pledged to resist any such effort by every possible means, and we repeat that pledge now.

So far as our bond issue is concerned, it would seem to me that we now have more reason than ever to vote YES, since, in case of a possible suit, we would be in a much better position if we could show that we already had adequate classrooms for our children.

We should be calm and rational in the face of a decision that may never affect us, and we will work in every way possible to see that it does not.

Salute To Jaycees

This is Jaycee Week. The calendar says it is time to salute the Jaycees. But the Sun would rather say, day by day, in its own way, to the Virginia Beach Jaycees. "You are a great bunch of guys. You work hard for the community, for your city, and every citizen benefits, directly or indirectly, from your many, many efforts."

The Jaycees get involved. They don't shy away from difficult, or even controversial, issues. They face criticism as well as praise with equal enthusiasm for they tackle what needs to be done with sincere dedication. And, in so doing, they weave their way into the very core of the progress of Virginia Beach.

Jobs are not categorized as "large" or "small" to the Beach Jaycees. They simply take them as they come and they do the very best they can. And the city is a better place because of them.

Much publicity has been given to the "Large" jobs. They initiated, and physically dug into, the clean-up of Seatack community. They adamantly supported the billboard ordinance to eliminate visual pollution in Virginia Beach. They pushed for improvements to the City Jail and are now putting their entire strength behind the school bond referendum.

But the "Small" jobs endear these young men and their female counterparts, the Jaycettes, to the average citizen. Like Operation Santa Claus, when they collected supplies and toys for the mentally retarded children at the hospital in Petersburg. Or when they brought Christmas to the trailer home of a family of five whose father had just been released from prison and could find no job. Or when a busy Jaycee, in the throes of the holidays for his own family, sacrificed precious time to play Santa to children who hoped for much and expected little. Or when his understanding and compassionate wife worked into the wee hours in the waning time before Christmas to make that Santa costume for her Jaycee Husband.

The Jaycees are young business men. Primarily they are young family men. They dig into the problems of the community and concentrate on possible solutions. They seek out and recognize leadership in their "Young Man of Achievement," "Policeman of the Year" and "First Citizen" awards when many in their own ranks go unrecognized for behind-the-scenes contributions to the progress of Virginia Beach.

To the Jaycees who work so diligently toward the goals of their organization and toward the satisfaction of their own personal civic demands, the Sun says "thank you" for all you do, for all you have done, and all you will do. This public word of appreciation comes during National Jaycee Week. But it extends through every day of the year. It is an expression of the heart that needed but an excuse to be said.

The New Appointees

City Council last week appointed two replacements and one reinstatement to the Planning Commission.

There is little doubt that "new blood" is needed on the commission but the wisdom of replacing two and keeping the third might raise a few eyebrows. Especially when one of the new appointees is a builder... when two others are already on the commission.

The Planning Commission is under fire. This group is charged with decisions for recommendation or denial of the many, many building applications which eventually come to City Council for final action. They are a screening group. Yet, they forward to council their recommendations on building and zoning applications. They, unquestionably, have influence.

The League of Women Voters had hoped for a woman appointee to the commission. There wishes were ignored. A woman—if she were truly a qualified person—might have contributed a new insight into the city's growth problems and added a stabilizing factor to the commission.

The question here, however, is not whether the new appointees are male or female. The question is—and personalities are of no consequence in this matter—can a builder, the third on the commission, be a wise selection when this group walks a tight rope between construction and orderly development of the city? Would not a loss involved appointee—male or female—have been a more logical choice?

Or is the real question whether such influential groups should be appointed by City Council rather than elected by the people? It would seem that the people of Virginia Beach should have more of a say-so in these matters than the Charter presently allows.

Treading On FOI

Virginia Beach City Council is, or has been, one of the most diligent supporters of the State Freedom of Information Act. Neighboring councils conduct much of their business behind closed doors and reduce citizen participation in governmental affairs to a more attitude of tolerance.

In this city, however, citizen participation has been encouraged, the normal process of conducting the city's business has been open to public scrutiny and council has dealt with its problems openly.

But a change is occurring in Virginia Beach. Council last week went behind closed doors for two hours—eliminating the usual informal session—to consider what it specified a "financial" and "personnel" matters. Announcements were made on these matters in formal session. But the public, basically, was uninformed.

It was an uncomfortable indication that this city's leaders may resort to "closed door" sessions. If this should happen it would be a mistake. The people of Virginia Beach are too aware, too concerned, to allow secrecy to exist.

The School Board and the Planning Commission already tread on the Freedom of Information Act with executive sessions which shut out citizen participation. Council must not follow the same course.

Two wrongs don't make a right—three wrongs are unacceptable. Council should think seriously about these closed door sessions and drop any thoughts of making them a rule rather than an exception. Such action could only lead to trouble. And council has enough problems without generating more.

Disagrees With Her Decision

To the Editor:

I respect the right of Mrs. G.F. Trefethen to announce her vote against the school bond issue, as she has in your recent letters column, but I find I must disagree with her contentions. Just What did the last vote against the school bond accomplish? Inflation has caused construction costs to rise so much that when any new schools are finally built we taxpayers will be getting a lot less school than we could have had for the same amount of money. That doesn't exactly sound like a no! no! vote did any taxpayer a favor, particularly the ones who are most interested in economy in government.

Furthermore, our City Council is charged with the approval of zoning applications when all the city codes and requirements are met. To suggest City Council should deny deserving applications would not only deprive certain people of their legitimate rights but it also suggests City Council should break the law. If the city codes and requirements and planning criteria are wrong, change them but don't confuse the issue by blaming City Council.

I don't know what "amuck" building is or what it has to do with the school bond issue. If we need the schools and don't get them it's our children and our neighbors children that suffer, not any builder or anyone else. It will be no consolation to a school child to realize the "reason" he got less of an education than he was entitled to, was because a voter thought he could keep homes from being built someplace by voting no on a school bond issue. In my opinion that doesn't make good sense. I will vote yes! yes! and I hope many others will too. The best interests of our children are at stake. And that is all that is at stake.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter To Council

The Honorable Members of Virginia Beach City Council

Gentlemen:

I would appreciate your kind and immediate attention to a matter that I know is of mutual concern to you and myself.

The requested charter change that would double the annual power of the City to issue "general improvement" bonds for "any proper purpose" without the approval of the citizens of the City by referendum should be reconsidered. The people have been told that this extra $2 million per year in general improvement non-referendum bonds would be used only for roads. If this be the case, in order that the voters not be misled, the specific limitation should be placed in the charter that the funds should be used only for roads, as the $4 million authorization for water and sewer bonds is now specifically limited. For instance, as Mr. Ervin suggested, bonds could be issued, pursuant to this requested authorization for school construction (this clearly being a "proper municipal purpose") thereby circumventing the submission of whether or not such school bonds should be issued to the people for their vote.

I agree with Mr. Callis that the people are not now inclined to relinquish any of the controls they presently retain over municipal spending. I don't know what your experience has been, but I have yet to have the first one of our mutual constituents express to me agreement with this doubling of the non-referendum bonding power, without limitation. With the majority of our citizens disagreeing with the proposal, I am most reluctant to lend it my support. Therefore, I hope you will kindly reconsider this request to your General Assembly delegation.

Yours very truly,

Glenn B. McClean
Delegate-Elect

Citizen's Corner

It was inevitable that it happen. Last week's picture of Frank W. Kellam was identified as Frank W. Cox. Both pictures are published this week (hopefully with the correct identifications) so that people may recognize these two distinguished gentlemen.

Frank W. Kellam: President and Treasurer, Kellam and Eaton, Inc.; Chairman, Virginia Beach Industrial Authority; President, Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Frank W. Cox: Superintendent of Schools, Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach—1933-46; Secretary, Board of Visitors, College of William and Mary; First Citizen Award, Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, 1965.

STANDARD AND POOR'S STOCK REPORTS: NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE, AMERICAN STOCK EXCHANGE, OVER-THE-COUNTER AND REGIONAL EXCHANGES.

In a period of economic uncertainty, investing in stocks requires careful consideration. A potential investor should learn as much as possible about the financial history and prospects of the companies in which he intends to invest; the STANDARD & POOR'S STOCK REPORTS are one source of this information. The reports are kept in the reference department of BaySide Library; information from them, or copies of reports, are available at all branches of the Virginia Beach Public Library.

The reports are filed in loose-leaf binders, with one leaf which is updated regularly for each company. Some of the headings in a company's report are: Operating Revenues, Fundamental Position, Dividend Data, Prospects, and the recommendations of the Standard & Poor's staff.

The reports can tell you, for example, that American Tel & Tel earnings for 1971 are expected to vary little from 1970's (Prospects), that it controls $6,561,000 telephones (Fundamental Position), that Standard & Poor's recommend holding AT&T common stock on a long-term basis.

STANDARD & POOR'S STOCK REPORTS are not infallible guides to the stock market, but they can be useful for a potential investor or anyone wanting a brief description of a company's financial position.

D. C. CURRENT

BY CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The First Lady has turned diplomat. Her visit to attend the inauguration of President William R. Tolbert in Liberia, West Africa, is unprecedented. The Nixons have scored another first. Mrs. Nixon went as an official delegate and was authorized to discuss the President's foreign policy with other delegates from foreign countries. Evangelist Billy Graham accompanied her as a member of the U.S. delegation.

Washington will never become a government ghost town although President Nixon is discreetly pushing a program to staff the ten federal sub-capitals with responsible personnel to make them less dependent upon Washington. These sub-capitals are located in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Dallas-Ft. Worth, Kansas City, Chicago, Denver, Seattle, and San Francisco. Despite the regionalization of certain government offices, Washington still maintains a working population of 320,000 persons. Some of them will be reluctant to leave if they are assigned to these sub-capitals.

The President indicated in his recent television interview that Agnew would again be his running mate in '72. "Why break up a winning team?" he asked. That apparently ends the rumor that Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally (the year's best dressed man) would be given the nod. Vice President Agnew was chosen to represent the South, although as a Marylander he is a very northern Southerner. There is no denying Connally's deep in the heart of Texas locale.

The White House has added another assembly line. The President has discarded much of the pomp and circumstance traditionally practiced when accepting an ambassador's credentials. He waited until five new ambassadors have made their courtesy calls on the Secretary of State. This may take several months. The ambassador does not consider himself officially accepted until he has been received by the President. The United States is the only nation which streamlines such diplomatic protocol, but speed and efficiency seem more important. Some ambassadors resent the lack of individual attention. They would prefer being accepted by the President soon after their arrival in this country.

People are concerned about Phase II. It doesn't seem to be affecting their bread and butter. Those with increased Social Security checks are not happy because taxes on their checks are going up.

Some are reeling for the first time that their Christmas Clubs are just giving a fat Christmas gift to the banks. The banks make free money on Christmas Clubs, and the savers get no interest. In the Washington area only six banks pay on Christmas Clubs. The smart customers save in a special account which pays interest and then withdraw what they want for Christmas. It just takes a little more self-discipline, but it is a way to have their money make money for them.

Even columnist Joe Alsop admitted there was nothing exciting about this year's New Year's Eve. The usual razzle dazzle in New York was tame, and Guy Lombardo's celebrated music did not draw the customary revelers. The mood of the nation was not gay. The day-long football games did keep many men at the family television fireside. But that didn't make Jan. 1 any happier for the non-interested wives. It used to be fun to watch the Rose Bowl contest but now both college and professional football have reached epidemic proportions. New Year's day and weekends have yielded to football intoxication.

Public Information Strongly Supported

If anyone ever questions the interest of Virginia Beach citizens in their city, they should sit at the Sun editor's desk and see the Sun Survey questionnaires and letters to the editor roll in!

The people of this city are concerned and involved in the development of Virginia Beach and it is a healthy attitude. With this type of citizen participation, a city can only grow and flourish.

The response to the bond issue question finally subsided this week and the one on councilmen making public their financial statements and business interests took the lead. The readers were 100 per cent in favor of such a requirement.

Here are some of the comments:

"The basic premise that our City Council represents the people and is charged with the responsibility of governing the city in the best interests of the people makes it mandatory that any factor that may interfere with this relationship be known to the people. Business interests are certainly a factor."

"We are confident that public disclosure of financial interests and all business relationships is one of the best deterrents to abusing political power."

"Yes, INDEED THEY SHOULD."

SPCA Dogs Of The Week

'Aw-gee- We're Pointers-We'd Sure Like To Run'

Looking not to happy in confinement are the friendly white pointer in the cage and her pup, about 7 months old, at the SPCA. But if it weren't for the SPCA the two would still be running loose in Red Wing Park, where they were picked up without tags or identification. "It's a shame," Ben Bennett, manager said. They were pitifully thin and hungry." But now they're beginning to fill and nicely, thanks to Ben and special diets and vitamins. They're ready for adoption, and anxious to run about freely, if some kind person who favors an outdoor dog, will give them a home.

House Plants Need Cool, Bright Area

By Gerald B. Straley
VPI Extension Agent

Christmas Gift House Plants—If you received a potted poinsettia, azalea, cyclamen or other house plant for Christmas, keep it in as cool and bright place in your home as possible. Keep the soil slightly moist but avoid over-watering. This will help to make the plant last longer.

Give Your House Plants a Bath—Indoor plants get dusty during the long winter. It will help them to give your plants a shower in the kitchen sink or bathtub once every week or two.

Indoor Garden Planning—The coldest months of the year are ahead and there isn't much to do outside, so why not plan for next spring. This is a good time to look at your yard objectively and decide on additions and changes. Seed and plant catalogs can give you a lot of good information and ideas.

If you don't know where to get these catalogs just buy a copy of a garden magazine at a newsstand and look through it. You will find advertisements of dozens of plant and seed catalogs, many of which are free.

Gardening Books—Winter is also a good time to read some garden books on subjects of interest to you. The list is almost unlimited—from very elementary to very advanced horticultural information. Check with a library, book store or book club for possibilities.

Camellias for Winter Flowers—Camellias are about our only group of shrubs in this area which bloom strictly in the cold months. They thrive in our acid soils, especially in lightly shaded spots such as under tall pines, although they will grow in full sun. The smaller, sometimes fragrant flowered camellias bloom from about September until January when the Japanese camellias begin to flower and will continue through the spring. There is a wide range of flower sizes and shapes, and colors from white through all the pinks and reds.

Nurserymen's Short Course, January 12-13, at the Norfolk Botanical Garden, will include sessions on landscaping modern homes and other subjects of interest to the home gardener.

Recipes Wanted

LETTER IN THE MAIL from James H. Stroman of Dallas might prove interesting to all women cooks.

Stroman's an author who's written two cookbooks and is aiming toward a third.

Specifically, he'd like to write another titled "The Century Cookbook" or "Grandma's Cookbook", in which recipes about 100 years old or more, or at least old recipes, will be included.

He writes that every small town and city in America has one or two super duper cooks, usually home-loving women who have devoted their lives to making their children and grandchildren happy.

He would like to include their recipes in his book, mentioning the name and hometown of those who respond. Also, he'll send them a copy of the book with his compliments. Interested? The address is: P.O. Box 202, Dallas, Texas, 75221.

Musical Circles

MUSICAL CIRCLES are buzzing about the weekend of Liturgical music with the exciting Rev. Clarence Rivers, that's set for Feb. 24-27. It's sponsored by St. Nicholas Church and the Music Committee of the Diocese of Liturgical Commission. Rev. Rivers is a Catholic Priest, a teacher, lecturer, dramatist, recording artist, and gifted composer. His weekend workshop promises to be vibrant and original. There's more about it elsewhere in the paper.

Lawns And Plants

WESLEY P. JUDKINS, VPI Extension specialist, reminds drivers to avoid heavy traffic on the dormant lawn if possible. The reason? The dry, brittle grass may be broken or trampled so badly it will damage the crown, and possibly kill the plant.

Also, he suggests checking the mulch around your perennials and shrubs. The cold weather may cause root damage, or heavy plants out of the ground by alternate freezing and thawing. "A two inch mulch of sawdust, wood chips, peat moss, or other organic material will help protect your plants from severe cold, and will also conserve soil moisture," Judkins says.

Princess Anne Plaza Garden Club

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA GARDEN CLUB skipped its December meeting and combined a fun and holiday workshop affair. Members made favors and brought small gifts for the residents of Lakeside Convalescent Home. The women also brought canned goods for a good-will basket for a needy family.

Holiday door decorations of club members were judged by a committee, chaired by Mrs. John Roabo. Grand prize of a permanent engraved plate went to Mrs. Billy Fornash. Her arrangement featured an angel holding a Nolla Robis wreath. The angel was white; the wings of separated pine cone petals painted white.

Blue ribbon door winners were Mrs. John Roabo, Mrs. Everett Roabo, Mrs. Bill Warden and Mrs. Rose Roabo. The club held a holiday party at the home of Mrs. Charles Cayce, with Mrs. Richard Cannon, assistant hostess. Mrs. Cayce's home was decorated throughout with seasonal arrangements. Husbands were special guests at the party.

Ninety-Fifth Birthday

"Just a little sip of wine to grow on," Mrs. James M. (Maria) Parker said as she celebrated her 95th birthday at 409 19th Street.

Maria was originally a Tar Heel—she was born in 1877 at East Lake, North Carolina. She's been a Beach resident since 1918. She's proud of her children: Mrs. Mattie Carmina, age 79; Mrs. Edmund Jones; Naval Oceanographic Captain Walter Parker (ret); Lt. Col. Blain Parker, USAF (ret), all of the Beach.

There are 15 grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren and 6 great-great-grandchildren.

Most Men Cooks Pretty Terrific

Stanley Davenport, owner of Stanley's Grocery Store, is getting a little unhappy with reading all about women who have their favorite recipes published all the time.

Upholding the reputation of most cooks everywhere (who, are, we hasten to add, pretty terrific) he's sent his favorite recipe for stuffed lobster along to us.

It's got to be prepared just right, so Davenport says to pay attention to all the little details.

Lobster Torino

Prepare the lobster: Take one live lobster, 6-8 lbs., turn on its back, put a knife at the head split to the tail. Remove the entrails from a sac at the head, leaving a pouch about 2" square. Pull out the inside cord and save. Mix cavity with stuffing.

Stuffing

1/4 lb. box crushed Ritz crackers
1 lb. crab meat
one-third cup melted butter one-third cup sherry one-third cup milk
Parmesan cheese

Fill cavity with stuffing. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over top and cover with damp lettuce leaves.

Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Remove lettuce leaves. Baste with butter sauce. Broil 7-10 minutes. Serve with butter sauce and lemon.

What Does Worry Really Accomplish?

By REV. JOYCE KRAMER
(Unity Minister)

Do you worry? Worry does accomplish something: it angers, disturbs, and frustrates you. It speeds up the aging process of your mind and body.

There are three great causes for worry. We worry when we feel there is nothing that can be done to change conditions or circumstances that are not good. However, there is nothing that is hopeless, for God is willing to do the wonderfully impossible if we ask and trust. How much better this is than worry.

Secondly, we worry about things that we think may happen. We are afraid of some negative experience that could possibly come to pass. Most of the things that people worry about never happen, although it is true that the more we worry and anticipate wrong, the more likely bad experiences are to happen.

Thirdly, we worry about others. Worry doesn't help them; instead it hurts them. Anxiety and fear only aggravate entire situations. Bless others by knowing that within them is that guiding, directing Spirit—God—that knows what is best for them. Believe in God, that Infinite Power of Absolute Good that is within you and everyone. Trust this Spirit and you will have nothing to worry about.

GOD WORKS IN AND THROUGH MY LIFE AND AFFAIRS IN WONDERFUL, UNLIMITED WAYS.

Toastmasters Install Gerling

T.H. Stout, Toastmaster of the Day, right, presents Capt. W.M. Cossaboom a token of appreciation on behalf of the Dam Neck Toastmasters Club at the dinner-installation.

James Gerling was installed president of the Dam Neck Toastmasters Club of Virginia Beach by George Williams, Toastmaster Area Governor. The dinner-installation was held at the Oceana Officers Club.

Others taking office were Lt. Ted Stearns, educational vice president; Ed Roberson, administrative vice president; Terrall Stout, secretary; James Casey, treasurer; ETC Larry Monett, sergeant-at-arms.

Gerling said that his plans for the future include emphasizing the Distinguished Club Plan, which is recommended by Toastmasters Headquarters. "If the club can strive to attain those standards of excellence, then it has gone a long way toward benefitting each toastmaster," Gerling said. One of the biggest surprises of the meeting, at least for the wives, was the Table Topics, when selected women were asked to make impromptu talks for one minute. After a few hesitant seconds the shocked "toastmistresses" did quite well. Mrs. W.M. Cossaboom was selected best table topic speaker of the night.

Captain W.M. Cossaboom, commanding officer of the Naval Guided Missiles School and a past member of the club, was guest of honor. He received a plaque for his fine efforts in promoting and furthering

Stars For The Week

Bayside 80, Granby 70

Phil Lawson, Bayside's 6 foot 8 inch center, turned in his highest point output of the season scoring 18 tallies, to lead his Marlins to an 80-70 victory over the Granby Comets in the Eastern District opener for both teams. Four Marlin teammates also hit double figures.

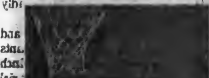

Tony Knight and Robbie Cook took runner-up scoring honors for Bayside with 14 points each. Not far behind were Richard Poole and Willy Walstead with 12 points apiece.

Granby battled the Marlins to a 36-40 deadlock at the half, but a strong third period surge by the Marlins propelled them into the end of a 57-51 advantage by the end of that quarter. The Marlins also outscored the Comets 23-19 in the final period to clinch their victory.

Maury 79, Cox 52

Although Randy Robinson pumped in 19 points to lead his team in scoring, it was not enough to salvage the game for the Falcons, as Maury won the Eastern District battle 79-52.

Playing before nearly 4,000 fans in Scope, Robinson, a 6 foot 2 inch sophomore forward, turned in the finest scoring performance of his high school basketball career.

Only one other Falcon was able to hit the double figure scoring column. Center Brooks Williams scored an even 10 points. Behind the shooting of Larry Bellamy, Carlton Hilton, and Vic Jones, who combined for 50 points, Maury led Cox at the end of every period.

Lake Taylor 74, Princess Anne 65

Lake Taylor held Tommy Butts to his season low of 14 points and went on to win their Eastern District opener 74-65. The Titans outscored Princess Anne's Cavaliers by one point in each of the first three periods to lead 18-17 at the end of the first quarter, 35-33 at the half, and 54-

51 at the end of three periods of play. Only in the fourth quarter were the Titans able to pull away, scoring 20 points to Princess Anne's 15.

Deep Creek 83, Bayside 81

In a very unusual contest, Bayside lost to Deep Creek 83-81. Bayside made 38 goals to only 25 for Deep Creek, giving the Marlins a 76-50 advantage over Deep Creek's Hornets on the two-pointers. The unusual aspect of the game was that Bayside gave Deep Creek 43 foul shots, and the Hornets made all but 10 of them, giving them 33 points from the foul line and 43 points for the game. Bayside received only 9 foul shots and made five of them to add five points to their 76 for a game total of 81 tallies. Bayside's fouls cost them the game.

Top scorer for the Marlins was 6 foot 4 inch senior forward, Robbie Cook who had 23 points, which equaled his high score for the season. Two other Marlins hit double figures with 18 tallies each, Phil Lawson and Richard Poole.

David Roughton-Kempsville

catch-up ball throughout the game. A tough zone defense and a steady attack gave the Titans their first Eastern District victory ever over Princess Anne.

Kempsville 72, First Colonial 65

Lewis was close behind with 20 tallies, and Robert Catlin hit for 13 points.

The game was nip-and-tuck until the end. Led at 16-all at the end of the first quarter of play, Kempville battled to a slim 34-32 lead at the half. First Colonial made up the deficit and then some to lead by one, 33-32, at the end of three periods. Kempville then stormed back and rolled up a 20-12 fourth quarter scoring advantage to win handily 72-65.

Gahagan and Habit New Beach Coaches

Ralph Gahagan and Al Habit will fill two of the three vacant head football coaching positions in Virginia Beach School Superintendent E.E. Brickell announced today. Gahagan will step into the Princess Anne position vacated by John Grady, and Habit will fill the Cox vacancy left by the resignation of George McGovern.

Al Habit, 40, has been coaching for 14 years, the last six of which have been in the Virginia Beach School System. For the past five years, Habit has served as assistant varsity football coach to John Grady.

"I am extremely grateful for the opportunity to go to Cox," Habit commented today. "I think it is a fine school, and I want to so a good job for them. I think we will have an outstanding team next year. I know I am really looking forward to it."

Gahagan, 44, has been coaching for the last twenty years and has been Woodrow Wilson High School's head football coach for the last eleven seasons. Wilson, a Portsmouth school, has always been one of the football powers in Eastern Virginia.

Bayside's Parker Brothers

Drop by basketball practice at Bayside any afternoon and you can watch a six going-on-seven year old David playing one-on-one with Goliath. As if three Parkers were not enough for Bayside High School, son of Coach, Conrad Parker spends most of his afternoons dribbling and shooting with the giants. Although he is just barely old enough to go to school, this little fellow is definitely a Parker. You can tell by the way he defenses some of the tallest men on Virginia Beach's high school basketball courts that this youngster is a member of the Parker family.

Three older members of the Parker clan, are on the Bayside staff, headed by Conrad Parker, who is the Marlin's varsity basketball and golf coach. Edgar Parker, Conrad's brother, is the assistant varsity and head junior varsity basketball coach and the baseball coach. Sally Parker, Edgar's wife, is a teacher in Bayside's physical education department.

After directing the junior varsity for two years, Conrad took over the varsity basketball coaching assignment three years ago, inheriting a team that had an undistinguished 0-18 record. Under the new leadership, Conrad's first Marlin team lost 12 straight games. Finally in January, Bayside downed Deep Creek to snap a 30 game losing streak. Winning three of their five remaining games, Conrad's team finished with a 4-14 record.

Last year, Conrad directed his team to a 9-10 record. This year they are presently 5-4, and he is looking for the best record the school has ever had.

Conrad feels that the coaching system he started at Bayside as junior varsity coach five years ago has begun to show its effectiveness. He has had Phil Lawson and Richard Poole five years, and he has coached Robbie Cook and Jim Goffigan for four years. The defense-oriented method he stresses is beginning to win games.

"Although we have given up quite a few points," I feel defense has won the majority of games that we have won," Conrad said.

Edgar has been at Bayside three years, taking on coaching junior varsity basketball the past two years. "I believe in defense," Edgar stated. "I just drill into the boys the fundamentals of basketball. They can get sophisticated when they get to the varsity."

Class A school, he coached football and basketball for one year. He then went to Scotland Neck and coached basketball in the Class AA. He became the third varsity basketball coach in the Bayside's seven years of existence.

Both Edgar and Conrad feel that being brothers has helped them. "We think alike," Conrad pointed out. "We both stress defense first. I think that Edgar does such a sound job selling his boys on the fundamentals of defense that they can move right into my program when I get them."

Their background in defense stems from their father. "Both Edgar and I were fortunate because our father took a lot of interest in us when we were growing up," Conrad explained. "Both of us were provided fundamental basketball from the time we were old enough to pick one up."

"The idea behind basketball should be defense first. I think both of us, although we had some good coaches as we went through high school and college, have philosophies that go back to what we were taught by our father—defense, defense, defense. I feel that defense is what we stress here."

One of the more notable coaches that crossed the path of Bayside's Dynamic Duo was Jerry Steele, who coached the ABA's Carolina Cougars last year. Edgar played under Steele for one year at Guilford College. While at Guilford, Steele turned the team around and proved that you can win basketball games with little men.

Guilford College, a small liberal arts school near Greensboro, North Carolina, has become a tradition with the

Parker family. Edgar and Conrad's father graduated from there in 1935, followed by their mother in 1937, Conrad in 1962, another brother in 1965 who stayed on as a math professor, and Edgar in 1969. The fourth brother is now trainer and manager to the Guilford basketball team and will graduate this June. Their only sister, who is quite a high school basketball player, will probably go to Guilford next fall.

Conrad graduated from Woodland High School in Woodland, North Carolina, in 1968. While at Guilford College, he played basketball for two years, graduating in 1962. Conrad went to Sanford Junior High School for his first coaching position, heading the football, basketball, and baseball teams.

After completing his Masters Degree at the University of North Carolina, which he had been working on while at Sanford, Conrad went to Vanceboro High School. At the Class A school, he coached basketball for one year. He then went to Scotland Neck and coached basketball in the Class AA. He became the third varsity basketball coach in the Bayside's seven years of existence.

Edgar graduated from the first graduating class of Northampton County High School in 1965, and he played on the school's basketball team that made it to the Group AA district finals. Going on to Guilford College, Edgar played basketball for two years and became quite a baseball pitcher. A hard fall on his left arm forced him to give up basketball, but he still was a baseball standout.

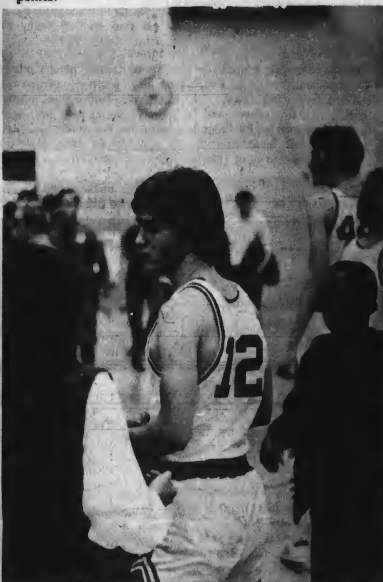

Edgar came to Bayside when he graduated from Guilford in 1969. During his first year at Bayside, he just coached the baseball team. Last year he took over the junior varsity basketball team and guided the team to a 7-11 record, the best in the history of the school. This year they are 6-3 and seem to be on their way to bettering last year's record.

The Parker Brothers team, Conrad and Edgar, is the only brotherly coaching duo in Virginia Beach. They obviously enjoy working together and feel that their similar background and philosophy is building them a winner, with things getting better every year.

Conrad lives with his wife and two children in Lakeview Shores. His two boys are nearly three and nearly seven years of age. Edgar and Sally live in the Lake Edward West section of the City.

Phil Lawson, Bayside's 6'8" center, hooks in two more points.

The game is over, and the disappointment of Bayside's two-point loss to Deep Creek is reflected in the face of hard-playing guard Bruce Humphries.

First Colonial 84, Bayside 72

First Colonial placed three men in double figures in Tuesday night's 84-72 Eastern District win over Bayside. Brett Lewis, First Colonial's 6'3" sophomore forward, pumped in fifteen field goals and two of four foul shots to lead all scorers with 32 points.

The other two Patriots hitting double figures were Robert Gallin with 16 points and Steve "Mad Dog" Butts with 12. Their scoring gave First Colonial a 38-36 halftime lead which continued to grow as the game progressed. Bayside led 18-16 at the end of the first period.

Robbie Cook, Bayside's 6'4" senior forward, led the Marlins in scoring with 20 points. Richard Poole was the only other Marlin to hit double figures with 14 points.

Bayside's Robbie Cook watches Bruce Humphries force a Hornet out of bounds after he had charged into and knocked down Richard Poole.

Willy Weistep (30) and Warren Stewart (22) look at their fallen teammate as the referee calls a foul on Deep Creek's 43.

Maury 87, Kempsville 59

Kempsville's Britt Glisson led the Chiefs with 20 points, but it was not enough to overcome a strong Maury team led by Carlton Hilton's game high 28 points. Maury won the Eastern District contest handsily 87-59, outscoring the Chiefs in every quarter.

Cox 67, Kellam 65

Kellam's Dickie Wood, a 6' senior guard, led all scorers with 22 points, but Cox turned in a strong last quarter performance to win the Eastern District contest 67-65. Kellam led at the end of every quarter except the most important one—the last.

John Hallstead, Cox's 6'3" senior forward, led the Falcons with 21 points, just edging Brooks Williams' 20 tallies.

Princess Anne 79, Granby 76

Led by 6'1" senior guard Billy Smiley's 26 points, the Princess Anne Cavaliers edged Granby 79-76 in Tuesday night's Eastern District action. Smiley's 26 tallies set a new game high this season for the excellent ball-handling guard.

Three more Cavaliers would up in the dual-figure column: Mike Angie hit for 17 points, Tommy Buda had 14, and Larry Strange had 14.

The Sun Salutes

The Ranch House chain of restaurants began about 15 years ago with one restaurant in Fort Lauderdale. As the restaurant gained in popularity, the group of men who founded it, together with different friends around the country, gradually began to organize others. There are now 81 Ranch House restaurants located in New York, Michigan, Virginia, Georgia, Maryland, Louisiana, North Carolina, Texas, and Washington D. C. The two in Virginia Beach are about 2 years old and there are plans to open two more at the Beach this spring.

The hub of the Ranch House restaurants in Virginia Beach is located at the Ranch House Commissary on Pennsylvania Avenue off Witchduck Road. Here general offices are located; all supplies are kept; meat is prepared; and the bake shop is housed. The Commissary is the head quarters of operation for the Ranch House restaurants now in existence as it will be for the two openings this spring.

Claude Bess is the general manager for Ranch House restaurants of the State of Virginia and has been with Ranch House since their beginning 15 years ago. Originally from Fort Lauderdale, he has lived in Virginia Beach two years, or since the opening of the two Beach Ranch Houses. His job entails overseeing all phases of operations at both of the Beach and Newport News restaurants, and includes a daily personal visit to each of them.

Don Vitelli is the general manager of the Beach Ranch Houses. Well versed in restaurant operations, he has been with the Ranch House chain for about 12 years. Vitelli started out as a cook and now, among other duties, he trains Ranch House cooks. Vitelli is also in charge of food preparation; he makes sure the service is good, the facilities are clean, and the personnel is happy.

The two men in charge of the Ranch House Commissary are Ronnie Freeman, manager of the bakery, and Charles Rhue, manager of the Commissary. Freeman does the purchasing for the bakery and all of the baking for the Beach Ranch Houses. All of the pastries and rolls at the Ranch House are made fresh each day and distributed in refrigerated trucks to the restaurants. Rhue is responsible for purchasing all supplies for the restaurants both the meat and dry goods. He also supervises the fabricating, (or cutting), of the meats.

All of the meat served at the Ranch House is choice USDA, cut right in the Commissary and charcoal broiled on open grills.

There are several reasons for the successful popularity of the Ranch House in addition to moderate prices. Each day the restaurants are inspected by the State of Virginia for product standards and sanitation. This is a voluntary inspection requested by Bess so that he "knows that it is right." Waitresses undergo a film training program to insure the customers of good service and that famous "Ranch House Smile." The cooks undergo a similar film program and an apprenticeship to learn cooking and presentation methods. In addition to excellent food, people today want fast service; the staff at the Ranch House aims to have people come in and be served in 7 minutes.

From Our Legislators

The Senate

SENATOR A. J. CANADA, JR.

RICHMOND—Throughout this session of the General Assembly, I will seek to keep the voters of Virginia Beach posted on our activities through this weekly report in the Virginia Beach Sun.

Recently, as some of you may have read, committee assignments were made in the Senate. The many committees of the Senate and the House of Delegates so much of the shirt-sleeve work of the session.

My committee assignments include:

COURTS OF JUSTICE: This committee considers matters relating to the courts of the Commonwealth and justices and judges thereof, including nominations of such justices and judges provided by the Constitution of Virginia; all matters concerning criminal laws of the Commonwealth, together with all matters concerning contracts; domestic relations; eminent domain; fiduciaries; garnishments, homesteads and other exemptions; Justices of the Peace; mechanics and other liens; notaries; property and conveyances and wills and decedent's estate.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT: This committee considers matters of local government in counties, cities, towns, regions or planning districts, boards or councils.

REHABILITATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES: This committee considers matters concerning alcoholic beverages, correctional and penal institutions, drugs and social services and welfare.

The following is a capsule report of some of the legislation now before the General Assembly:

HIGHWAY SAFETY.

Over 600 persons were killed in Virginia in 1970 as a result of alcohol connected traffic accidents and thousands more were injured. There has been introduced in the Senate a bill which would lower the blood alcohol content necessary to convict for driving under the influence to .10 per cent and blood alcohol content necessary to convict for impaired driving to .05 per cent. Virginia is the only state in the Union to have only one test for blood alcohol content.

Another bill has been recommended which would allow the use of the breath test to analyzing a potential offender.

CRIME CONTROL
I have introduced a bill which would make it a separate felony offense to commit a crime of violence with a deadly weapon. This bill would carry a penalty from 2 to 8 years as an extra penalty in addition to any penalty which may be imposed as a result of a felony conviction.

ENVIRONMENT
Our highways and recreation areas and other areas are inundated with glass bottles which not only are hazardous but are unsightly. For that reason, I have introduced a bill which would make no deposit non-returnable bottles illegal in Virginia. We must begin now to clean up our environment and this is a step in that direction.

EDUCATION
I have introduced a bill which would require school districts to teach a course on the environment in grades 4 - 6 and to continue in high school. This is being done in some areas but this bill would require that it be done in all areas. A bill which would require personal finance course for each high school student I have introduced. This would teach such subjects as how to fill out your income taxes, interest rates, lay-away plans and credit cards. With the increased number of bank checks that we have experienced in our state, I feel that this bill will go a long way to help educate the young people so that when they start out in life they start out on the right foot in financial matters.

CHARTER CHANGE
A charter change bill will be introduced in the House which would allow the City of Virginia Beach to issue an additional $2,000,000 of general obligation bonds without a public referendum. I, personally, am opposed to this change. The present law says that the City can issue up to $2,000,000 of general obligation bonds without a public referendum. Based on many of the events which have transpired over the last couple of years, I believe that it is in the best interest of the City of Virginia Beach to have the voters vote on an increase in issuing these bonds. I would like to hear from the voters of Virginia Beach as to how they feel about this most important issue to our City.

I am very happy to announce that in the Governor's Budget there is $3,757,560 for the Virginia Beach Branch of the Tidewater Community College. This would enable the permanent facilities to be built.

My office at 4336 Virginia Beach Boulevard, Virginia Beach, will be opened every Saturday to meet with residents of Virginia Beach on matters they would like to call to my attention. Office hours will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

During the session I will like to invite letters of comment about General Assembly activities, and particularly, activities of these committees.

The House

The last-minute resignation of State Corporation Commission member Jesse Dillon on Monday, to be effective February 1, threw the legislators into a state of turmoil. One replacement on the commission was already necessitated by the retirement of H. L. Hooker but his announcement was made in time for careful study of a possible successor. Commissioner Dillon's announcement came like a thunderbolt on the eve of interviews of the applicants.

This was especially difficult for the brand new legislators. As Delegate Glenn McClanahan told the Sun: "We don't even know the new ones seeking the positions. It didn't concern me when there was only one vacancy on the 3-man regulatory body because the two remaining constituted a majority. With two vacancies we are now being called upon to appoint the majority without enough advance knowledge." In his usual Princess Anne County way, Del. McClanahan said the incident certainly caused "me to blink twice" because the SCC "effects us more in our daily lives than any other regulatory body." He also commented that this was his second-traumatic experience in his first week in the House. The first came when he found that Virginia Beach had only been allocated half its highway fund needs in the State Highway Department budget. On Tuesday the city's delegate fired a letter off to powers that be on a proposal to change the policy of appointing SCC members so that "more qualified" members might be obtained for the positions.

She Linda Tiller, 8th grade teacher who sponsored the talk, wrote to the Sun: "I pray all schools will have the opportunity to hear this woman...Mrs. Barraco held every student spellbound...she spoke for eight bells and received a standing ovation, some students returning four times to hear her."

She autographed many copies of "I Am a Sick American," a reprint from the Virginia Beach Sun, and she signed it

Two Leaders Debate Bond Issue

By JAY BRUMBLEY

What will people be voting on when they go to the polls?

STANTON: They are going to be voting for a $12.6 million bond issue. There are three junior high schools and one elementary school to be constructed with the funds to be financed by the bond issue. Very simply, that's it.

GRAVATT: The most direct thing they will be voting for is whether or not to approve the referendum. Behind that is whether or not they are willing to permit uncontrolled building of townhouses, apartments, and even individual residences.

Are schools really needed?

STANTON: Absolutely. The need for schools is an irrevocable argument. It is one that anyone with any knowledge of education would recognize when they study the facts.

GRAVATT: The space that would be created by these schools would be helpful to the educational program.

If taxpayers have to commit themselves to finance $12.6 million worth of bonds, are schools the most important need of the city?

STANTON: Absolutely. The school system is the very basis of the future of the city. If we have an uneducated youth, they are going to grow up into a very disorderly adult. If we have to sacrifice on a road here or a sewer line there to build a school today, then I say let's build the schools. It's a matter of equating children to physical entities. We owe our children: we have a tremendous debt to them. If we have to ride down a bumpy road it's easier on our cars than it is on our children's future.

GRAVATT: No. Sewer lines and treatment plants are more needed. The sewage processing plants now are overloaded.

Are the same conditions in existence now that caused the defeat of the school bond referendum last year?

STANTON: I think the School Board was asking too much of the voters. It was an $18.6 million issue. It had some things in it that were not particularly appealing to the voters. The word that came back to me was that there were too many "frills," swimming pools, gymnasiums, and other things that I think are necessary, but, apparently, other people don't. The School Board responded to the voters and pared down the issue to where we now have classrooms only, the basics only. I have studied the financial plan of it thoroughly, and I am convinced here that we are getting our money's worth. There are a lot of conditions, that people use as excuses for not voting for the bond referendum, but the biggest condition that has changed is that we've got a much more crowded school system than we had then. Unless we do something about it, we're going to be in real trouble.

GRAVATT: The fundamental reason for the failure was that it was too costly. There were some secondary reasons for it: the opposition to uncontrolled growth of apartments and townhouses, the ecology group that did not want the school built in the State Park, and because the people were disgruntled with the effectiveness of the Virginia Beach school system. I don't think conditions have changed, and I feel that this one is more likely to and will be defeated by an even more overwhelming majority because so much has been brought out into the open since the last referendum that was talked about in whispers or not even generally known.

(On February 8 the voters of Virginia Beach will face a decision on a $12.6 million school bond referendum. It has become a highly emotional and controversial issue. In the Sun Survey column of this newspaper many questions have been posed concerning the issue, questions that need answers so that voters may weigh the pros and cons and make a fair and just decision. The Sun, therefore, presents the following debate between the leaders of the two camps...the Committee for the Bond Issue, headed by Robert M. Stanton, and the Concerned Citizens for Virginia Beach, headed by John A. Gravatt. Also, on other inside pages there are a number of related articles; all intended to pose questions still in the minds of voters. The Sun has striven to present this material fairly and without bias. The decision is up to voter.)

How much will the $12.6 million referendum actually cost the taxpayers?

STANTON: Taxes and bonds are the most difficult thing to equate that I have ever tried to do. I have sat down with accountants who are experts in municipal finance and asked him to come up with an answer to this question. You can't do it. It is impossible to say that if you sell a dollars worth of bonds your taxes are going up point zero cents; there are too many variables. You have got sales, tobacco, excise, and retail taxes, city licenses; there are just so many other things to offset the costs of bonds that it is not fair to place all the burden on real estate taxes. We figured it out on a per capita basis, and it came out to a rough average of around $4.75 per person per year over a 15 year term that the bonds are going to be amortized.

GRAVATT: I do not have any concrete figures on that. I have looked through the booklet that was put out by the school system, or maybe printed by the Jaycees, and the only thing that comes close to a concrete figure is "less than five dollars per person per year," but they don't say how long the term of the bonds will run. The figure they used based on population is conjectural and is based on the premise that everyone who lives in the City over the bond period will contribute. There are people who are transients, people on welfare, infants, and elderly people on fixed incomes who are not going to be able to contribute.

Are the people able to pay additional taxes now?

STANTON: It's not an absolute factor that we are going to have additional taxes. There is going to be a proposal presented to City Council by a Jaycee, who is also a bond expert, detailing a plan for financing bonds without tax increases. Whether or not City Council or the City Treasurer upholds it and agrees with it is another point. If we do have a tax increase, it can't be all charged to schools. Other things are going up too. Our taxes now are lower than they are anywhere in the area. If there is a tax increase, it will be very small. To say that schools are financed strictly by real estate taxes is not fair; they only account for about 25 per cent of our total budget. The opponents are making all kinds of grave predictions, but they can't base any of them on facts. If real estate taxes account for only 25 per cent of the City's income, should not some of the other 75 per cent of the income be used to pay off the bonds? As a taxpayer and as a pretty honest, straight-forward person, I think that taxes are going to go up. Just like the price of bread, everything gets a little more expensive as time goes on. I think that we have been awfully lucky for a long time that we have not paid any more taxes than we have.

GRAVATT: There are some people that could afford it and some people that could not. Everyone has his own particular financial problem. Sometimes the poor man is better off, from a financial standpoint, than the rich man who might have a lot of his wealth in accounts receivable. It would be an even greater strain on the man with several hundred thousand dollars in accounts receivable to pay an increase in taxes on a $75,000 house than it would be for somebody who has a steady income, of even $1,000 a month, with a home valued at $30,000. There are a lot of people on fixed incomes. Social security and military pensions are frequently being revised upward, but the upward revision is seldom enough to take care of the real estate tax increase.

Is the plan to build three junior high schools and one elementary school the wisest plan of school construction?

STANTON: The need for the elementary school is clear. The junior high schools provide for a swing situation, whereby as the elementary schools are crowded you can move the upper grades in the elementary schools into the lower grades of the junior high schools. On the other hand, as the high schools are crowded you can move the lower grade of the high school into the upper grade of the junior high school. Thus, you are getting a double effect. This is particularly good if we have a declining birthrate and the number of school children decline, which could happen. In Virginia Beach, being a young city, every classroom we can build will be filled. The junior high school program is a very efficient way to approach our problem.

GRAVATT: Unless I had an age breakdown of the ages of children in the schools, I could not answer that with any firm knowledge. Any type of school is going to make some kind of contribution toward alleviating the overcrowding.

Can our present school buildings be used more advantageously?

STANTON: If anything good has come out of the defeat of the last bond referendum, it has made the School Board sit down and be more resourceful in using the facilities we have. They developed a plan to change a six-period day to an eight-period day, which gives two more hours of use in the schools as they now exist. It is a little hard on some parents whose children go to school at different times, but you are stretching the taxpayer's dollar to its maximum by doing this. They developed the voluntary night school to stretch the physical plant even though you have a little more operating cost. The 45-15 plan that will be tried in four elementary schools will utilize the schools eleven months of the year; that is really stretching the taxpayer's dollar. I think the School Board is doing a good job and will do an even better job as time goes on.

GRAVATT: Whether or not new schools are built, I feel both the 45-15 plan the night high school are steps in the right direction. Not only do they economize on space, they go a long way in improving the educational program in our schools. The night high school would be a good way to have what Mr. Brickell says we have now, quality education. To me, quality education is getting the most able and interested students into the classes of teachers who are best prepared and interested in teaching. The student who is really

'She's A Heroine To Us' Say 8th Graders

By Helen Crist

The loud speaker announcement came as a shock at Bayside Junior High School.

Students listened in their tracks when they heard that Mary Barraco was ill in a Beach hospital in December, and transferred to the University of Virginia hospital for further treatment.

They sent her their prayers and wrote letters—300 of them—expressing their sorrow at her illness and hoping that she would soon recover. Mary Barraco is, to these students, a real life heroine.

It had been just a few weeks before that she had spoken at their assembly. She told them of her experience as a prisoner of the Nazis during World War II, and of her underground work with the French. A Belgian native, she's now an American citizen and so proud of her adopted country that she easily communicates with young people when she warns of anti-American action and subversion.

She Linda Tiller, 8th grade teacher who sponsored the talk, wrote to the Sun: "I pray all schools will have the opportunity to hear this woman...Mrs. Barraco held every student spellbound...she spoke for eight bells and received a standing ovation, some students returning four times to hear her."

"Faith, Courage, Love and Unity."

The students wrote their impression of Mrs. Barraco's talk. Some permitted us, unfortunately, to list excerpts from only a few...some of which were unsigned.

One wrote: "Mary Barraco, to me, is a true hero. Her faith in God is remarkable, because if she could hold up under such pressure when she was a POW in Germany, I feel she could hold up under anything...this was the best thing that ever happened to me. Her speaking truly influenced me."

Marcia Dale: "...she has some inside power to capture her audience. With her telling the story of her life it seemed so real, like YOU were in her place...with all the talk of the generation gap problem it seemed there was NO gap between her and the kids."

Another wrote: "I really didn't think she could have impressed me as much as she did. All the noble things she's done made me think she was kind of 'holier than thou' type of person. But she wasn't like that at all. She believed everything she said and that's what made her so human to me. I almost cried when she described her life."

Lynn Donnelly: "She really tells it like it is. She was captured by the Germans and held captive for six months. They burned her legs, broke her nose and treated her like dirt."

"They put her in a cell that she couldn't stand in, or even move around in. Then, when they let her out, she would fall right on her face. She's a very strong person and I think a lot of her."

Donna Spells: When I heard how hard and unlucky she was in having to be in a prison camp, I felt how lucky we are to have all that food and a nice decent home.

"When I went home I couldn't eat and I put her photograph on my dresser. Every time I looked at it I got all choked up."

Another said: "...she is a lady who cares for her land and people. She is a special type of hero...I found out what it's like to go to your church and find the door of God closed, and what it's like to be pushed around and separated from the people you love."

One wrote: "...she, in my opinion, is a true hero...she makes you think about the world."

And finally: "You think of concentration camps and tortures...only being on television, but when Mrs. Barraco told of her experiences it became real."

"It makes you wonder what you would have done in her place, how you would have felt, it makes you realize how very lucky you really are to be living in a nice home with no threat of being overtaken by an enemy force."

"Her talk made you glad to be an American and not have to go through what she did."

Further honors came to Mary when she was chosen as the "Model Patient" while at the University of Virginia Hospital. There she was a guest of all the chaplains at a special conference.

"They questioned me on why I gave talks on Americanism to people—why I visited the sick, the old."

It seems that she possesses the knack of comforting the sick, having experienced so much herself. And to the chaplain's question, she replied, "No matter how sick you are as long as you know that someone cares about you that is a comfort."

And there are so many who care for Mary and are wishing her full recovery in her recent illness.

She's determined, nonetheless, to proceed with her mission of telling the young people how it is: How to avoid taking drugs; the folly of the extremists, the militants, revolutionaries, radicals; the importance of avoiding anti-American groups, who would turn the youth against God, parents, country, loved ones, law and order.

Doctor's have advised her to slow down. But Mary Barraco has a story to tell, and as long as she's able, she's going to do just that.

And the people will listen.

Holland Honored For Service With Beach Post Office

Carey T. Holland has been honored for his outstanding service to the Virginia Beach Post Office in connection with his work on Self-Service Postal Units.

Holland, 30, has been with the Virginia Beach Post Office for 10 years. He is the first, and only, Self-Service Postal Unit Technician in the resort city.

In presenting Holland with a Special Achievement Certificate and $200 cash award Assistant Postmaster Joe L. Miller said, "The Self-Service Postal Units is the Postal Service's response to the need for hour-to-hour and day-to-day service. The new climate in postal service, created by today's busy customer, spotlights the necessity for efficiency as well as economy through technological advancement."

Bonds Endorsed

The Virginia Beach Ministerial Association has adopted a resolution endorsing the forthcoming $12.6 million school bond issue.

The resolution read in part, "The Virginia Beach Ministerial Association expressed concern with regard to the need for additional classrooms in the public schools of Virginia Beach."

"...The Association declares its conviction that the best interest of the community, and more particularly the well-being of our children, require the approval of the school bond issue subject to referendum on February 8."

Racing Favored With Conditions

By Jon Sager

The Virginia Beach Development Council made its annual report to the City Council last week at a dinner meeting in the Cavalier Hotel.

The object of the report was to deliver the results of a year-long study on the question, "Does the City of Virginia Beach desire a Pari-Mutuel Racetrack within its boundaries?"

Those results produced an emphatic Yes with three conditions.

The study, instituted at the request of City Council last January, was headed by Larry A. Sancio as chairman, Virginia Beach Pari-Mutuel Racing Committee.

In answering the question, a recommendation was made with four sub-divisions receiving special attention: social aspects, economic aspects, track ownership alternatives, and physical plant facilities.

The recommendation reads: That a Pari-Mutuel Racetrack be located within the City of Virginia Beach, subject to the following conditions:

1. That the City of Virginia Beach receive direct monetary benefits in the form of real estate, personal property, machinery and tool taxes, a portion of the handle, admission taxes, sales taxes, etc., or some payment in lieu of taxes. Because Virginia Beach is a rapidly developing City it is necessary that benefits received be more than indirect benefits to the existing economy, since services must be supplied by the local government. If the City was in a fully developed static condition then it is conceivable that indirect benefits would be sufficient economic justification for the location of a track in Virginia Beach.

2. That the track should be a member of the Thoroughbred, Quarter Horse, and Standardbred Racing Associations and be policed by their protective associations. This will ensure quality in the track and track management, as well as control any undesirable elements at the track.

3. That there be adequate laws and law enforcement to suppress and to control the potential for crime.

Other considerations were: 1. That Pari-Mutuel racing should be controlled by a state racing commission composed of persons of high caliber, having no conflict of interest, and which is regulated by adequate laws covering bribery and coercion of said commissioners.

2. The track should be stock owned and operated as a business.

3. A thorough investigation should be made of the advisability of legalizing off-track betting.

4. The committee recommends that at least 80 per cent of the track's operational and service employees be residents of Virginia.

5. That the City should set up, within its administrative, a method for a statistical study of the before and after effects of pari-mutuel racing on the economy, crime, and social welfare of the City, in order to determine for itself and others, the impact of pari-mutuel racing on an area.

6. That only a first class pari-mutuel horse racing facility be constructed in Virginia Beach.

(a) That the facility consist of three horse racing surfaces (tracks) generally concentric: A turf course, a sandy loan and a harness track.

(b) That the grandstand and club house have seating capacity of 15,000 and the parking area have spaces for 15,000 cars.

(c) That the stalls have a capacity for 15,000 horses and that adequate quarters for their attendants are necessary.

(d) That a house trailer park be in close proximity to the track.

(e) That a 300-500 acre site is necessary for this facility.

(f) That highways, electric power, sewerage, and water are either existing or planned in the area of Virginia Beach where such a facility should be located.

In a discussion period following a reading of the report, Mayor Donald Rhodes introduced the question of the possibility of working jointly with Chesapeake and Norfolk for an area racetrack.

He noted that competition for the location of a racetrack might develop between metropolitan areas rather than between specific localities or cities.

Sancio stated the position to the Study Committee was the City should enter into such an arrangement if, and only if, all three conditions stated in the recommendation were met.

It was also pointed out that Chesapeake has approximately 150 acres set aside near the Virginia Beach line in case pari-mutuel racing is approved in the state.

Sancio offered special thanks to, and introduced, the rest of the committee: E.R. Cockerell, Mrs. R.F. Pittman, Capt. Robert Alexander, Dr. Sidney B. Denny, G.W. Determan, Jr., Capt. John Ford, Frank Friend, Charles Gardner, George L. Hanbury, II, Lewis Johnson, Richard Keeley, Richard Kline, Mrs. Laura Lamb, Mrs. Mary Russo, Clenton W. Shanks.

Concluding the meeting, Development Council President W. Clark Fleming stated the Council has taken on the task of studying the feasibility of forming a City Arts, Crafts and Humanities Commission with Scott Sterling as chairman of the committee.

He noted that another committee, with Bill Wood as chairman, would study the transportation needs of the city commencing that numerous people find it extremely difficult to get to the Civic Center and the various shopping areas.

Bond Issue At First Col.

The Parents League of First Colonial High School will meet Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Vivian Hitchcock and Jack Jennings will speak on the pending School Bond Referendum.

Students and parents are invited to attend.

Lassiter Promoted

Paul Frank Lassiter, Jr. has been made a vice-president of First Colonial Bank. It was announced by J.W. Buffington, president.

Lassiter came to First Colonial Bank in 1968 as an assistant cashier and became an assistant vice-president in 1970.

He is also manager of First Colonial's Baitice Avenue office.

Lassiter, who lives in Virginia Beach, is a graduate of East Carolina University of Greenville, N.C. Prior to coming to First Colonial, Lassiter was with the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company of North Carolina.

Tops In Rentals

A retired captain of Marines has been named Rental Manager of the Year in a nationwide contest conducted by the National Association of Home Builders.

Charles C. Taylor of Virginia Beach was given the award last week by the Builders' Sales and Marketing Council at the NAHB annual convention in Houston, Texas.

Taylor's award was the result of accomplishments with Pembroke Realty and Insurance Agency, Inc. during 1971. They included the creation last July of the first apartment locator service in the Tidewater area called Virginia Beach Apartment Locators, a division of Pembroke Realty.

Taylor also supervised rentals of several hundred apartments and single family dwellings during 1971, maintaining a high occupancy ratio.

Taylor has been property manager for Pembroke Realty since November 1969. He served 22 years with the Marine Corps before retiring. He and his wife and four children live in Pembroke Meadows.

School, Roadway Improvements

A sum of $105,000 was approved by City Council Monday to cover improvements of existing schools and Bay Colony Drive.

A request from School Superintendent E.E. Brickell for $75,000 to replace certain types of insulation in 11 public schools was approved.

A long standing request from Bay Colony Drive residents to remove a large dip in the Drive, near the intersection of Rotheraway Road, was also approved. Numerous severe auto accidents have been attributed to this condition. Cost of the improvement is approximately $30,000.

S.O.N.S. Urge 'No'

Vote NO concerning the School Bond Referendum, take your cases out of the courts and into the ballot box, and write your congressmen asking them to sign Discharge Petition No. 9.

That was the premise of a Save Our Neighborhood Schools (S.O.N.S.) Rally held Tuesday night at Princess Anne High School.

A small but earnest crowd responded enthusiastically to seven speakers from various Hampton Roads communities and one from Richmond.

Commenting on the less-than-capacity crowd of approximately 200, Morton Fleet representing the Norfolk chapter of S.O.N.S. stated, "Through no fault of their own, and meaning no harm, the masses of people in Virginia Beach have been brainwashed that no harm will ever come to them if they live in the Beach."

John Gravatt of Virginia Beach noted that on February 8, the people will vote on the question—Shall the City of Virginia Beach borrow an amount not to exceed Twelve Million Six Hundred Thousand dollars. ($12,600,000) and issue its general obligation bonds therefore pursuant to its Charter and the Public Finance Act, as amended, to finance, together with other available funds, the cost of constructing, improving and equipping school buildings and related facilities and sites therefor?"

He stated that by the time the interest is paid the amount will exceed $19 million.

Referring to a possible threat of school consolidation between Virginia Beach and Norfolk, Gwen Wood, president of Virginia Beach S.O.N.S. admonished the audience, "Do not build another school until you're sure our children will go to school in them."

"Our City Government must employ legal minds, right now, to act in our behalf to fight consolidation and busing," she insisted.

It was pointed out that courts are ignoring an Act of Congress, the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which, according to Fleet, "Specifically states that you cannot use a court order to enforce a child going from one school to another school just to achieve racial balance."

The inference was made by most of the speakers that control of the government is being, or has been lost by the people.

"This is nothing but a petty dictatorship taking place," declared Don Sutton who was introduced as, "Coming down from Richmond to give us a little view on the mood of Richmond, also an inside look at Judge Mehrege's order."

Refuting the argument that consolidation will not apply to Virginia Beach, Gravatt remarked, "When the busing order comes to Virginia Beach, to put our children on buses to ride to Norfolk, we should take them out of public schools and put them into private schools."

"Do as Judge Mehrege does with his 11-year-old son," he said.

Sam Derr, of Hampton commented on private schools with the question, "If HEW is big enough to take over your public schools don't you think they're big enough to take over your private schools?"

Recalling that Hampton S.O.N.S. spent $3,000 in a suit against the Hampton School Board with no results Derr stated, "This is a political issue, not a legal issue."

Fleet also noted that people are getting no positive results from the courts and that voting is the only way they can achieve their goals.

Other speakers included Gabe Tarpley and Jim Meador, of Newport News, and Owen Williams of Portsmouth, the only black man on the stage.

"We are going to have to stand together, both black and white, and if you don't want to stand together your freedom is going down the drain," Williams insisted.

Attention was directed to House Joint Resolution 620, which was introduced by Norman Lent of New York and was sent to the Judiciary Committee.

The Resolution states: Section 1. No public school student shall, because of his race, creed, or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school.

Section 2. Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

It was further noted that 318 signatures are needed to bring the resolution to the Floor of the House and that, to date, the petition holds 134 signatures.

It was requested that people write, and have their friends write their congressmen asking them to sign Discharge Petition No. 9.

Particular attention was given military personnel as they might have friends and family across the country who could also write their congressmen, pointing to the fact this affects the nation as a whole and not just the local area.

Gabe Tarpley informed the group that a S.O.N.S. Newsletter was being printed in Newport News every two weeks, and it is their fervent hope to make it a national paper. The name is currently being changed to "National Busing Report" and subscriptions are three dollars per year for 24 issues.

In a complete paradox to what was taking place, a very pretty little girl in her pre-teens sat, with her family, near the rear of the auditorium. The family seemed, however unintentional, a symbol relating to the purpose of the Rally.

However, the young miss with the long blonde hair sat scooted down in her seat—with a transistor radio to her ear listening to whatever it is that children like to listen to.

AN Bilibrey

Sailor Of Month

Aviation Storekeeper Airman William M. Bilibrey has been chosen as the Naval Air Station Oceana Sailor of the Month for January.

Airman Bilibrey works in the Supply Department as an aviation storekeeper in charge of replenishment of commonly used items in the parts department. He also works in the assembly and stocking of parts lockers for base squadrons which provides the shops with needed parts on the spot. Bilibrey works on ordering and dispensing of parts in the paperwork category—by operating an IBM keypunch file system.

Bilibrey entered the Navy on Oct. 13, 1970 following his graduation from Florida State University with a BS degree in industrial education. "Secondary education is my bag," says Bilibrey who is entering the Navy Officer Candidate School Program at Newport, R.I.

"Supply is such a large system that I am just getting into it. It will provide an administrative challenge," he says.

"One thing I like about the Navy," continues Bilibrey, "is that if you are qualified for a Navy program, it will be made available to you." Bilibrey will serve for three years as an officer in the Naval Supply Corps.

Off-duty hours are when Bilibrey and Aviation Maintenance Administrationman Steven Sanders work on their co-operative effort called Attie Teachers Guild Art. The art guild offers fund raising instruction and schooling in the fine arts to Navy wives' clubs. Sanders handles the design and graphics and Bilibrey works on construction and finishing. Any club that would like guidance in fund raising and some ideas on projects, may contact Bilibrey at 2244. The instruction will be designed to meet the club's needs and its resources.

Bilibrey's wife is the former Margaret Bowns of Okaloosa, Fla. She is a graduate student in therapeutic recreation at the University of North Carolina.

If The Answer
Doesn't Come Soon
He'll Stop Asking Questions

It stands to reason, doesn't it? The teacher says something interesting . . . he raises his hand to ask about it . . . and then he waits and waits and waits because there are too many children in the class, too many other questions to be answered first.

In over-crowded classrooms, children don't get enough individual attention. They get bored. And they stop asking questions, stop learning.

Our schools need more classrooms . . . fewer students per class. Because, right now, we have an excess of 4,000 students.

The School Bond Issue is the answer - 12.6 million dollars to build three Junior High Schools and one Elementary School. Classrooms - the answer our children need.

Boosters Boost Bond

To the Editor:
We, The First Colonial High School Band Boosters (Parents of Band members), wish to notify all the residents of the city of Virginia Beach that at a business meeting held at First Colonial High School on February 20, 1972 we unanimously adopted a motion to support the School Bond issue.

We feel that something must be done to relieve the overcrowded conditions that exist at First Colonial High School and many other schools in the city. The building of additional junior high schools will provide the students in 7th, 8th and 9th grades with an opportunity to mature in a healthier mental and physical environment than their present one which exposes them to the older high school students who are more mature and have more privileges. The new junior high schools will benefit the high school students by not making it necessary to reduce the number of subjects they are allowed to take and the scope and type of electives offered. Lightening the student load on our high schools will mean greater efficiency in teaching; consequently a better education for our children.

We do not under any circumstances, feel that keeping real estate taxes at their present low level (compare them with other cities) justifies overcrowding our schools and possibly sacrificing the quality of our children's education. Surely all of our citizens are aware of the rapid rate of growth taking place in Virginia Beach. Many of our schools are now operating on 2 shifts and without additional classrooms some schools will undoubtedly have to go to 3 shifts to accommodate the heavy student load anticipated within the next 1 to 2 years. Some things can be sacrificed to keep a budget balanced, but the quality of our children's education should never be one of those things. Enclosing, we urge all parents and concerned citizens to support and vote for the Bond Issue.

Sincerely,
Sam B. Ferrell
President

'Cheap Tricks' Cited

To the Editor:
I have learned on good information from involved parents that their student sons and daughters are being "instructed" by their teachers to go home and tell their parents wild and tragic tales of what will become of them (the students) if the school bond issue is not passed. They will be transferred to this or that school far from their present school; they will have to attend school in mobile "shacks"; they will have to go to school all year or at night, etc.

Another tactic is the rash of letters to the Editors from students, who seldom write about anything (except third-graders yapping about the zoo), all following the standard-phrased party line and giving the same arguments, in their teachers' good English, as to why the bond issue should pass. A member of the School Board, who spoke at our community league meeting Wednesday night and who came very poorly prepared to answer questions, denied that the School Board had anything to do with this, which I find hard to believe.

In any case, these are low-down, cheap tricks to use for the purpose of pushing over a school bond issue, and it is one more solid reason why I and a number of my acquaintances are going to vote NO!

Sincerely,

F.N.HOWE

Urges Support

To the Editor:
Though not a native of Virginia Beach, I have always pointed with pride to the fact that Virginia Beach was a fast moving, forward-looking community. Being a parent, I have also said with a great feeling of pride that we have one of the best school systems in the state.

I shook my head in disbelief when the school bond referendum was defeated last January. All around us we see the most up-to-date office buildings and the most modern methods of sales and marketing; yet a plea for modern methods and quality in education received a resounding NO! I cannot believe that the citizens of Virginia Beach do not want the best possible education for their children.

Our School Board and City Council is now asking us to approve a greatly reduced bond referendum to build only the school facilities necessary to accommodate our student population. They have provided for no extras in this referendum. Can we do any less than this for our children? We must support them in this endeavor if our children are to continue to have the quality education they have enjoyed in the past.

I urge you to vote YES for your children and your community in February.

Sincerely,

Mrs. J.M. Cornelius

Students Voice Their Views On 45/15 Plan

To the Editor:
Your article entitled "Experiment Draws Diverse Comments," January 6, 1972, was conspicuous for its lack of student reaction to the 45-15 plan. The plan would certainly directly involve the students more than anyone else.

Enclosed are just a few of my student's reactions. They are all fifth graders from Arrowhead Elementary School in Virginia Beach.

Sincerely,
Barbara McNelis

Corrective Reading

THOMAS RUSSELL: I disagree. When people go to school they learn, and when they get out of school they forget some things they learned.

JANET OLIN: I agree because on the three week vacation we can help our parents. And I think a three week vacation is enough if you go out of town. When it snows the bus wouldn't have to go out and get us kids, the bus could have a wreck.

JANET MOORE: I disagree because I would like to have a lot of vacation. I would mind going 45 days.

JEFF TYREE: Yes, I agree because all the children will be home to help the mothers and fathers around the house.

JOEY BEARD: I disagree. It would be dumb. When the children get back to school and if they were going to have a test if they first day they would forget. I would rather have a full summer than some of this dumb 45-15 stuff. It would be better for the kids. Its been going on with a whole summer for ever since I was in school and I like it that way.

JIM NORRIS: I agree because I would like to have some of the winter and summer off. It is a nice idea to have a 45-15 plan. I think that it would be nice to have some of the winter off. Winter is the best time of the year. You could play in the snow and have a lot of fun. I hope that we have the 45-15 plan where I live.

RANDY FISHER: I do not agree about the 45-15 day thing and what some people are saying about it. You should let the kids say what they like about it. I would like to get out 80 or more days and go swimming and playing sports all day long. That's why I would like all 80 or more days, to play.

Editor's note: Thanks to this teacher for sharing the views of her students with the Sun. She is quite right—the statements are very much affected. Perhaps other teachers survey their classes for response on this—and other issues. The Sun welcomes comments.

LETTERS ARE WELCOME

The Virginia Beach Sun management believes that a newspaper should be the voice of the people. The only way they can be heard, however, is through the Letters to the Editor. The Sun encourages and welcomes letters from its readers and asks only that they be reasonably brief and to the point and that they be in good taste. Please mail your letters to the Virginia Beach Sun, P.O. Box 657, Virginia Beach, Va. 23451, we look forward to hearing from you.

Will It A Thorough Review Of Issue Relieve?

To the Editor:
The citizens of Virginia Beach are being asked to approve a bond issue supposedly to relieve the overcrowding in our schools, but if the bond issue is passed I am afraid the City Council will just continue to approve one more development after another.

To quote from the Beacon of the sixteenth of January referring to housing applications deferred until after the vote on the bond issue. "If the referendum is passed these and several other applicants will probably have to wait." The result of this will be that the new class rooms to be built with the money from the bond issue will be filled before they are even finished.

It seems to me that a vote of yes will give us the same overcrowding of schools that we have now but with the additional burden of higher taxes. With a no vote at least we won't have the higher taxes and who knows, if we're lucky, maybe the developers will go away.

Need He Say More?

To the Editor:
It seems to me that one Billy A. Franklin would refrain from having his name listed on a recent statement from the "Concerned Citizens of Virginia Beach" in answer to Chairman J.W. Bullington's (Va. Beach School Bd.) statement concerning the Richmond case. Mr. Franklin's daughter is a student at the private Cape Henry School. Need I say more?

Comments On The College

Review and projection will be the key words at Virginia Wesleyan College for 1972, according to comments made this month by President Lambuth M. Clarke.

"We have come a long way, since those 75 students arrived in September 1968 while the contractors were still working on the first Village," said Clarke in his office this week. "We have now reached the halfway point in our enrollment projection of 1200 fulltime students. Out emphasis this year will be on expanding our library resources, adding increased depth and breadth to the faculty and curriculum and providing some additional student services." Wesleyan's fulltime enrollment for this semester is 626, a level the trustees have decided to hold for at least one more year.

"We are definitely going against a national trend in enrollment," said the Wesleyan president. "Private college enrollments are generally down across the country while our increase in applications for the fall of 1971 was 78 per cent ahead of the figures for September 1970." College officials report that applications for next fall are running about the same level as last year at this time. The present 626 capacity enrollment was reached in September 1970. (The enrollment trend has been 75 in 1966; 155 in 1967; 261 in 1968; 480 in 1969, and 626 in 1970.)

According to enrollment figures, 288 students of the total fulltime enrollment are from the greater Tidewater area. One hundred and thirty-nine (48 per cent) of these Tidewater area students are from Virginia Beach. Eighteen of these Virginia Beach students are among the 350 resident students in the six college dormitories. President Clarke expressed a strong desire to expand the number of volumes in the library to 30,000 as soon as possible. "We have an excellent physical plant for the library," says the President, "but we must continue to enlarge our collection." The new Henry Clay Hoffmann, Jr. Library opened in the fall of 1969. It received a national Award of Merit for design from the American Institute of Architects and has a capacity for 210,000 volumes. College officials indicate the collection now numbers approximately 30,000 volumes.

The members of the Board of Trustees have authorized the addition of four new faculty positions for the 1972-73 academic session. These four new positions include Wesleyan's first fulltime faculty member in music plus additions in philosophy, history and speech-drama. The College now has three fulltime faculty members in history and one each in philosophy and drama. The new faculty member in music will offer several courses in that field and direct the choral program. There are 37 fulltime faculty this semester plus fourteen part time teaching personnel.

"We are very conscious of the fact that we need to develop our student services," indicates Dr. Clarke. "We feel a significant step was made in that direction with the hiring of our first fulltime Dean of Students this fall." The President reported that the coffee shop-recreation room has been opened this fall in the College's service building. This is providing a particular service for the commuting students," he said. A gymnasium-activities center is high on the list of priorities for future physical expansion. "One of the great advantages in a new College such as Virginia Wesleyan is that we have a unique opportunity for flexibility and innovation in the curriculum," says Dr. Clarke. "We feel this has been a significant asset in our enrollment pattern."

President Clarke indicated that College officials will be spending considerable time during 1972 in evaluating all aspects of - the College's development and in studying various areas of the educational program such as academic calendar, grading, graduation requirements and interdisciplinary studies.

To the Editor
Tour Sun Survey question of January 13, and the answers reported in the issue of January 20, have prompted me to write this letter.

To your question concerning the possible raising of the amount of General Obligation bonds that can be issued by the city in any one year from two million dollars to four million dollars, I would reply with the following analogy:

There was a man among us some years back who was earning two thousand dollars a year. During the course of his life, a small emergency arose, and he was in need of a loan of $100.00 to tide him over. This gentleman visited his banker to request a loan, and since he had always paid his bills, and was a regular customer of the bank, the loan was granted. The bank then made an investigation of the gentleman, and decided that a line of credit should be granted to him so that he would have the flexibility needed to meet similar emergencies that might arise in the future. With their credit investigation complete, the bank contacted the man and told him of the arrangement, but they also told him that the line of credit was for $200.00 (10 per cent of his annual income at the time of the credit line being extended), and that he would not be allowed to borrow anymore than that during any single calendar year. Today, that same man has an income of more than fifty thousand dollars a year, more than twenty five times as much as the original income, but because of the inflexibility of the institution that granted him that original line of credit, he is still prohibited from borrowing any more than $200.00 in any given year.

In effect, this is what we have done to the Municipal Government here in Virginia Beach. Several years ago, we granted them a line of credit that was equivalent to approximately 10 per cent of their income at that time, but instead of stating that line of credit as a percentage of annual income, we stated a fixed number of dollars (two million). The city at that time needed less money than it needs today, what would have been catastrophic today, are minor problems today, simply because the city has grown into a vibrant, thriving municipality. There were less people then, and less services to be provided. Today, we need only to look around us to see that many of the restrictions that our city is operating are outdated.

It would seem to me that it would be much more reasonable to authorize the city council to issue General Obligation bonds, in any one year, not to exceed 10 per cent of the previous years revenue. This would give the city council and our municipal government, the flexibility needed to meet the requirements of this vibrant, thriving city. It would give them the flexibility to meet the needs of the fastest growing city in the state of Virginia.

But, since the question was whether to grant, or not grant, an increase in bonding authority from two million dollars to four million dollars, I must, at this time, simply vote YES.

Says He Flunked!

After reading the letter of Mr. Ed Booth castigating Mr. Gravatt for having an opinion which, apparently, differs from his own on the forthcoming school bond referendum, I have come to the conclusion that Mr. Booth left out one statement that, most certainly, should have been included. "My Daddy can beat your Daddy."

I would be willing to wager that Mr. Booth flunked sandbox in kindergarten. That is, unless he is still there.

Results Still 'No'

Interest in the current question began to wane this week, but that is not unexpected since interest in the forthcoming school bond referendum is running so low.

In response to "Should the City Charter be changed so that $4 million in general obligation bonds rather than $2 million might be issued annually by City Council without benefit of a public referendum?"... the readers voted against it four to one.

The two-week tally, in fact, puts the opposition ahead by 96 per cent.

Some of this week's comments:

"No...and take away the 2 million right until Council develops more equitable habits."

"Normally a City Council of a city of our size should have this authority, but with the consistent actions of our Council contrary to the will of the majority of our people, we can not change this policy now."

There have been some very good letters on this issue.

Summarizing all of the comments, it would seem that the people are opposed to this change in the City Charter for the same reasons they have voiced concern over the school bond referendum. It is concern over the growth of the city, not necessarily the progress of the city. The finger continues to point at City Council.

There have been many comments about "closed door" sessions, indicating that the people are not really aware of what is going on. Perhaps an all-out program to keep the people informed on the various issues before council might ease some of the concern.

This week's new question is so obvious we really hesitate to ask it. But, again, it's one of those issues that people seem to be very anxious to be heard on and that is the main purpose of this column. So, obvious or not, here's the chance the people need to voice their opinion on what will probably be one of the most historical decisions of modern times.

Betting Is Answer

To the Editor:
"For Whom The Bells Toll?" Will they ring out for the oppressed with the heavy burden of taxation that now exist with more to follow in 1972? Are we in the Tidewater area in a tourist paradise where thousands visit annually to continue to sit idly by and accept one excuse after another, as was the case in whiskey by the drink, and every objection turned out to be a myth?

Parimutuel betting in the Tidewater area will alleviate many of the taxes forced upon us. The school bond issue that is forthcoming and sorely needed could be paid off in three years with the green light of Parimutuel. The Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce and other committees that carry weighty not let their voices be heard and carry the voice of the people to the lawmaking bodies in Richmond that Parimutuel is a must.

Our Forefathers fought and died for the relief of the heavy burden of taxation. Are we to let this issue be delayed three or four years as one form of taxation or another is forced upon us? And once put upon us it is until death do us part. The crime study should be no problem if it is not an excuse to prolong Parimutuel Betting. The study could be completed within ninety days or less; other details could be completed by June of 1973 and Parimutuel could be well on its way. Can crime be any worse than it is today with murder, robbery and rape in broad daylight in our cities?

We have nothing to fear but fear itself. There is a saying that "Haste makes waste." There is another saying, also "He who hesitates is lost." Francis H. Curry

Is There A War Going On Inside Of You?

By Rev. Joyce Kramer

Do you ever have what seems like a war going on inside you? Are your thoughts and emotions sometimes in active combat?

When this begins to happen to you there is something that you can and should do. Otherwise the result will be confusion and turmoil in various phases of your life.

Establish control. Silently rest your mind in the calm peace that is within the depths of your being. There is a place of perfect peace within your heart. You will reach it when you still your turbulent thoughts and emotions. Then you can say with the Psalmist, "He restoreth my soul."

Peace is a powerful, active state of being that brings harmonizing, loving results. Peace begins with each of us individually, establishing order and harmony in our thoughts, emotions and affairs. It radiates from us as forgiveness, order, love and harmony. Be a peacemaker in your world.

HEAVENLY FATHER, LET THERE BE PEACE ON EARTH AND LET IT BEGIN WITH ME. LET LIBERTY, JUSTICE, RIGHTOUSNESS AND PEACE BE ESTABLISHED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD IN THE NAME OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Medic Alert Provides Emblem

The Health Information Center has applications available for membership in Medic Alert, an organization that has saved the lives of thousands of people with hidden health problems. In an emergency situation non-recognition of such problems as diabetes, heart disease, epilepsy and allergies to certain medications could prove fatal.

Medic Alert is a charitable, non-profit organization which provides medical protection in the form of an identification emblem recognized internationally. The emblem is worn on a bracelet or chain with the individual's problem engraved on the back.

The Medic Alert emblem immediately informs doctors, police and others giving first aid of the individual's medical problems. With the immediate opening of schools and colleges, placing many people away from home for the first time, it is particularly important for this kind of information to be known.

In addition to the emblem service, Medic Alert maintains a central file in their California headquarters with more detailed medical information, addresses of physicians, and the nearest relative of every Medic Alert member. The information is available to physicians and other authorized personnel 24 hours a day, via a collect call. Virginia Beach residents may obtain additional information on Medic Alert or any other health service from the Health Information Center. Sponsored by the State Health Department, the Virginia Beach Health Department, and 13 other local health departments, the Center maintains a data bank of information on over 700 health and medical services in an eight city-six county area. Tennis Patrons

'We're Discouraged, Not Defeated'

Jeanne McLaughlin is a down-to-earth woman of action with a direct approach and a burning ambition. As president of the Virginia Beach Tennis Patrons Association she's going to see that a tennis center becomes a reality here.

Tennis is her hobby now. She gives it all the attention and push that she gave to her former hobby of antiquing, when she lived in a pre-Revolutionary house in Leavetown, Pennsylvania.

Jeanne's a Philadelphia native. Comparatively new to this area, she's been here four years. That's when her husband, William, took a franchise with Manpower, Inc. of Norfolk.

"But we had been here before on vacations and loved the Beach," Jeanne said. And of course, it's a choice spot for the McLaughlin children: Mary Ann, 18, and Dennis, 17.

They live at 5105 Holly Road; a delightful area of trees, curving lanes and pleasant homes, most of which have acquired the patina of charm that comes to places that have known a few years of gracious living and loving attention.

Once inside the McLaughlin's home, you feel that here is a family, casual, friendly who do indeed enjoy life.

There's the bookcase—the books now upright, now horizontal, papers, magazines placed so that one knows they've been read, not merely stationed there for display.

There are the antiques—the Victorian table, stacked with business papers and notes, behind the Chippendale sofa; their efforts in maintaining their property in a pleasing and attractive manner. This is in line with the Council of Garden Club's anti-litter Awards of Merit to businesses that keep property in such a manner to reflect credit on the community.

The Garden Club held its meeting at the home of Mrs. William Barnes. Mrs. Evelyn Bankos spoke on "The Flowers the Tiffany lamp over the dining room table; the porcelain chocolate service on a cory round table in a corner of the living room. Of these and the others, Jeanne says, "I used to follow the auctioneers from place to place, and you have no idea what good bargains we got this way."

Jeanne's wearing a green turtle neck sweater, boots over her slacks.

She talks fast, casually. "I've just come from an investment meeting," she says. And she mentions that she and Ele Murphy organized SPEC, Ltd., an investment club of 14 members, most of whom live in Chesapeake Colony.

"It's fascinating," she says. "We meet once a month, work through a broker, of course."

And it was through tennis that she met Ele.

"When we moved here I didn't know a soul. I decided that the best way to break into a community and meet people was through tennis."

That was after her son received a tennis racket for Christmas and he had never played the game, so Jeanne arranged for him to take lessons at the Cavalier Beach courts.

It seemed like a great game and besides, as Jeanne says,

"tennis people are all nice people I found out—they're open—no snobbishness."

Jeanne's a real fan now. Plays every day, even when the temperature drops and the fingers freeze around the racket. "We're Polar Bears," she says, "and that's what all the dedicated tennis players in the area call themselves."

And the fight for a tennis center has been long and earnest. "We need it desperately here," she says, adding that there are only four courts at Red Wing Park, and three at the 25th Street location. But the Patrons reason that it will be a popular drawing card for tourists, who vacation near the ocean, as well as for Beach residents who live here year-round.

It was six years ago that Mary Lee Harris, her husband,

"Federal funds were available for 50 per cent of the $60,000 tab; state would pay 25 per cent; the difference would be divided between the city and the Tennis Patrons," Jeanne said.

But they have run into a discouraging snag. City Council Monday appropriated $10,000 for a study of a proposed study for a new convention center. One of the locations under consideration is the Expressway site that the Tennis Patrons favor.

Until this is determined, the Tennis Patrons cannot proceed with additional plans.

"The irony of it all is that Virginia has these funds available and has not had the foresight to pick them up. The states of North Carolina and South Carolina have already picked up theirs," Jeanne said.

Are the Patrons discouraged? "At this point, yes, we are," Jeanne says, "but we're still certain that eventually we'll get that tennis center."

Average Capricorn A Gourmet

By Thelma Barrett

COLORATING There's an ordinariness about the person who likes white, and a sincerity of mind and heart. According to color analysts the wearer of white has self confidence—but no ego problem (lucky people). Symbolically, white can mean purity, pardon, illumination and whatever it might mean to us personally.

DREAMPODGE A young girl, concerned about her drying skin, dreamed she was getting a reading from Edgar Cayce. In the dream she asked, "Should I use bluing soap on my face? My skin is about to fall off." The answer she got was, "Start immediately!" Then she saw a vase and its insides seemed to be pouring out as a liquid.

"Kissing soap" was interpreted to mean Sweetheart soap and the rose liquid to mean rose water. Checking through the Cayce readings she came across one that recommended Sweetheart soap and also gave a formula for skin beauty which included among its ingredients—rose water.

EDGAR CAYCE ON MUSIC: Music... is a destructive or a constructive force, depending upon that to which it appeals in its influence... (3509-1)

For music is of the soul, and one may become mind and soul-sick for music, or soul and mind-sick from certain kinds of music.

There is harmony in a symphony, as in the voices as attuned to the Infinite. There is music in jazz, but is there perfect harmony in same? (2072-10)

Hearty Beef And Vegetable Soup

Nothing smells so home-sweet-home as coming in out of the winter's cold to a kitchen in which a rich soup has just simmered to perfection. Its spicy, onion-y steam prompts us to dip up a generous bowlful, even though we hadn't realized we had such a wolfish appetite.

Both aroma and flavor, of course, are enhanced by the proper use of herbs and spices. With long-cooking soups we like to add whole spices such as whole pepper; whole allspice; a bay leaf or two—perhaps six to eight whole cloves and a generous measure of instant minced onion and/or a pinch of garlic. Celery flakes and mixed vegetable flakes are convenient forms of these seasoning vegetables. Tie them loosely in a cheesecloth bag so they will be easy to retrieve at the end of the cooking time or when you decide the seasoning is right.

To give homemade individuality to canned or packaged soups, spice them imaginatively. A little curry powder is delicious in pea soup; basil in tomato or other vegetable soup or chili powder in bean soup. Try a bit of rosemary in chicken or lamb broth; thyme in all seafood blanches; tarragon in mushroom soup. Chervil gives a French aroma to cream of spinach soup. Nutmeg is famous in cream of chicken or corn soup while its sister spice, mace, is great in Brunswick stew.

From the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association come these savory winter soups, Hearty Beef and Vegetable Soup and Meal-In-A-Bowl Chicken and Rice Soup.

Hearty Beef And Vegetable Soup
3 pounds soup meat with bone
1-1/2 pounds soup bones
Water
1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes, broken up
One-third cup onion flakes
4 teaspoons salt, divided
1/2 cup celery flakes
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 large bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon whole black pepper
3 cups diced cabbage
2 cups sliced carrots
3 medium potatoes, diced

In a large saucepan combine soup meat, bones and water to cover (approximately 10 cups). Bring to boiling point, skim off foam. Add tomatoes, onion flakes and 2 teaspoons of the salt. Tie celery and parsley flakes, bay leaf and peppercorns in a cheesecloth bag; add to soup. Cover and simmer 2 to 2-1/2 hours or longer, if desired. Add remaining vegetables and cook 30 to 40 minutes longer or until vegetables are tender. Remove and discard cheesecloth bag. Remove meat and bones. Cut meat into chunks and return to saucepan along with bones still containing marrow, if desired.

concerned about education is not going to mind going to school at night. The teacher who really wants to teach and doesn't want to be bothered by a lot of disciplinary problems and excuses from children who don't bring in any homework would really be delighted to go to a night school where she would teach children who are interested in learning. I am sure that within Virginia Beach there are many students who fall into that category, and it's unfortunate that the schools deprive them of much learning opportunity.

What are your feelings toward compulsory land donation by the developers?

STANTON: I think that City Council made a bold step forward when they asked our legislators to enact a law to require developers to donate land, or money in the case of small developers earmarked for school construction.

GRAVATT: One of the few times that I would have to agree with Mayor Don Rhodes is that we both agree that requiring builders to donate land before a permit to build is issued to them is unconstitutional. That's the confiscation rather than taxation. I would like to see a method of requiring the builders to pay a tax for each building unit they erected rather than being forced to donate land. The donation of land would not contribute as much as is necessary for building schools and is, in fact, a form of robbery. If each developer paid a tax on the number of units he built, he would be making his fair share contribution toward financing of the schools.

Is the City doing enough to attract industry to build up the local tax base so that the individual citizens can bear a lesser share of the cost of running the City?

STANTON: I think the City is doing a good job in trying to attract industry. I would like to say that attracting industry would be nigh to impossible if we defeated this bond issue, because one of the first questions a businessman asks when he is thinking about relocating his business concerns the school system. If he hears that we have had two bond referendums turned down by the citizens in the last two years, he is going to mark Virginia Beach right off his list and the idea of an expanding tax base is out of the question. If people think voting against the referendum will keep their taxes from going up, they are wrong. If they don't vote for it their taxes will really go up.

GRAVATT: I don't think Virginia Beach is doing what it could to attract industry, but at the same time the geography of Virginia Beach is not conducive to any type of heavy industry. It would have to be light industry, small plants that would not require a great deal of water unless we could get a desalination plant. We are facing a water shortage if something isn't done to halt all this growth. Unless we could get light industry in, such as dress factories or electronics plants, we are going to have to go with the tourist and fishing industry, which is what we have been living on for centuries, plus, of course, the Navy.

Are there other sources of revenue available for school construction besides property taxes?

STANTON: There are no other sources. If we knew of other sources, we would not be doing this.

GRAVATT: It would require the assistance of both the state and federal government. We could increase the sales tax, licensing fees, income taxes, or we could cut down on some of the things that are now allowable on the income tax. Additional income taxes would give the state and federal government more money that could be turned back to the localities to build schools. The state now contributes a very large portion of the salaries of teachers; it could also contribute to the cost of building schools.

What effect, if at all, will Judge Merhige's decision in Richmond have on Virginia Beach's schools?

Are there any ways the City could reduce costs to make more money available to the school budget to be used for school construction?

STANTON: I'm not in a position to say if our city can cut costs; I do not know that much about our City's finances. I do feel that we have a pretty sophisticated city staff who seems to handle our finances quite well.

GRAVATT: Yes, I could be more specific if I had the copy of the city budget in front of me. The school system itself could free more money for school construction if it would abolish some of those jobs in school administration that I don't think serve any useful purpose except for providing employment for the people in the jobs. The work that is done there is of no particular value. Take such things as the Director of Educational Testing—if the results of such testing were used to place pupils in certain courses or used to prepare them for certain jobs, it would be time and money well spent. So often, those tests are just filed away in the record cabinet and forgotten. I don't know whether the job Littlejohn had before he became Director of Bus Transportation is still in existence or not, but at the time he was Director of Planning for New School Construction I felt his job was unnecessary.

What are your feelings concerning the push that the school system is making in behalf of a favorable vote on the referendum?

STANTON: I don't think anyone is forcing anyone else to do anything. If there are ways such matters can be brought to the attention of the authorities. Encourage is another matter. If the School Board is not going to promote the bond issue, who is? We are going to do everything we can do as citizens to help see that it passes. Encouraging people to vote certainly is no crime. There are a lot of 18-year old children in the schools who are not registered to vote. We are advising them of the fact that they can register and vote if they want to. When they get in the voting booth, we are not going to be standing there telling them what lever to pull. That is their own decision; I certainly hope that more of them vote for it than against it. Those that are criticizing the bond issue are the same group that criticizes everything. I think they ought to organize one great big group called the Citizens Against Everything.

GRAVATT: I think it is to ram the referendum down people's throats. I also think it is going to have an opposite effect than what it purports to effect. Last week I spoke at the Kings Grant Civic League and at the Republican Woman's Club, and at both of those places people brought up that point. Their children had come home from school saying that they won't have any school to go to if the school bond referendum doesn't pass. A boy from First Colonial High School told his mother that he would have to transfer to Princess Anne because First Colonial would be too crowded unless the referendum passes and they could put a new junior high school over there behind the old sewage disposal plant. Parents of the children express resentment at these tactics being used on their children.

How is the Committee for the Bond Issue's "Yes Headquarters" and advertising materials being paid for?

STANTON: The building is rent free. Lights, telephones, and other expenses are coming from donations. So far the biggest donation we have gotten is from a high school faculty for $300. It is such a gratifying thing to see the grassroots support of the people. In the mail every day we get over $200, the averaging donation being about $5.

GRAVATT: I don't know where the money is coming from. Something that struck me as both amusing and gratifying at the Republican Woman's Club last week was a question that Bob Stanton asked the group. He said that the Jaycees were not getting any money to run their campaign; they are running it with money that they raised and with contributions of as little as fifty cents that people have given them. Then he said, "Do any of you know where we can get money to help support our campaign for this bond referendum?" One of the women piped up and said, "Yes, you could go to the builders. I'm sure they would be glad to contribute to your campaign."

What effect, if at all, will Judge Merhige's decision in Richmond have on Virginia Beach's schools?

STANTON: The Judge Merhige decision has nothing to do with Virginia Beach, for the Virginia Beach-Norfolk situation is not like Richmond-Henrico-Chesterfield in a very basic way. The basic premise for his decision was that Richmond, Chesterfield, and Henrico were operating segregated schools. Norfolk and Virginia Beach operate integrated schools, so there is no logic for Judge

Merhige's decision being applied here. The integrity of municipal boundaries has been upheld by the Supreme Court, as recently as January 17th when they reversed a consolidation decision in New Jersey.

GRAVATT: Some of the people that might have been on the fence are going to be pushed over to the side that opposes the referendum, because they fear that, maybe not in 1972, but possibly by the fall of 1973, Norfolk will have entered into a merger with Virginia Beach and forced consolidation. They feel that if these new schools are built Norfolk children, rather than Virginia Beach children, will get the benefit of them. The decision did set a precedent. Even though the people who are pushing this referendum say that it doesn't apply here, I think it does apply here because of the similarity between Norfolk and Virginia Beach and also Richmond and Henrico County. Henrico is 91 per cent white. Virginia Beach is 91 or 92 per cent white. That affords a tremendous integration possibility with Norfolk who is about 40 per cent black and Portsmouth who is about 60 per cent black. I hope Judge Merhige's ruling is overturned, but Merhige said in his ruling that ideally a classroom should be 20 per cent black and no more than 40 per cent black. Norfolk and Portsmouth are already more than 40 per cent black.

Do you have any additional comments in closing the interview?

STANTON: The real thing at stake is the future of the children of Virginia Beach. We cannot afford to turn our backs on these children. The only way we can really show our support for them and for their future is to vote yes on February 8th.

GRAVATT: I think the questions that you asked cover everything concerning the referendum. The attempt the SUN is making to present the bond referendum is a very thorough fair, and worth while job in presenting the facts and the figures. I feel that the SUN is assuming a neutral position on this referendum, and even though I can't feel that you are on our side you at least present our side. From what I have seen printed, I would say that neither you are on the side of the group that's pushing the referendum, even though you also present their views. The Norfolk newspapers, however, are all in favor of this referendum.

School Costs Detailed

The Virginia Beach School Board has released a detailed breakdown of the cost estimates for the four new schools to be considered in the $12.6 million bond referendum of Tuesday, February 8, 1972. Officials also warn cost estimates may be low.

The detailed figures outline the estimated cost of construction, equipment, architectural fees, engineering, land acquisition and on-off site improvements for three junior high schools and one elementary school.

Specifically, construction costs for each junior high school would be approximately $2,595,000. This is based on an estimate of $22.50 per square foot for a 115,000 square foot facility.

The junior highs would be somewhat smaller than previously constructed facilities since they would not include auditoriums or any specialized facilities not required by state educational agencies.

They would include physical education facilities, shops, music and art spaces, science laboratories, libraries, and office spaces required by state statutes.

Each junior high would have 56 teaching stations and space for 1400 pupils.

The 900 pupil elementary school would be approximately 55,000 square feet in area and would cost $1,237,500 to construct based on an estimate of $22.50 per square foot. It would include only the minimum facilities required by the state, such as a library, multi-purpose cafeteria, office space and 30 classrooms.

Equipment costs for the junior high schools would be $600,000 each and would include only the facilities required by the state. This cost would cover such physical facilities as desks, chairs, teachers desks, pencil sharpeners, audio-visual equipment, etc.

The equipment cost for the smaller elementary school would be $25,500.

A substantial amount of money would be saved on architectural fees for both the junior highs and the elementary school. Normally, these fees would be approximately five per cent of the construction cost but since only minor redesigns of existing plans would be needed, the $82,500 for each of the junior high schools and $36,500 for the elementary

Forum Scheduled

Mayor Questions Legality Of Back Bay Closure

Mayor Donald H. Rhodes Monday questioned the legality of plans to prohibit vehicular traffic into the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge, as City Council scheduled a public forum on the issue at 2 p.m. Sunday, February 6, in the Civic Center.

Rhodes posed the question in a letter to C. Edward Carlson, Regional Director, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, in which he requested the matter be discussed by federal, state and local representatives before any final decision on the matter is made.

The controversy evolved from plans by State Officials to create a State Park of the Fales, Cape separation of Back Bay and the Atlantic Ocean, proposals by the Department of Interior to prohibit vehicular traffic through the area, and subsequent proposals by the City's Planning Department to construct a parkway along the areas beaches to provide vehicular access to the area.

The subject was strongly debated during Monday's City Council meeting as the Planning Department sought approval of its Princess Anne Land Use Development Plan, including a special open space parkway-recreation plan for Back Bay.

Rhodes pointed out "the area south of the Refuge is currently accessible by motor vehicle only on the beach, and the residents of the area have, for many years, traveled to and from their homes in this fashion." He added, "This method of access has also been used by North Carolina property owners and residents as well as the public at large."

A proposed "False Cape Parkway," according to Rhodes, is strongly supported by North Carolina as well as Virginia Beach. His letter stated, "The City of Virginia Beach (formerly Princess Anne County) and many of our North Carolina neighbors to the south have desired, for many years, to see a direct roadway link between Virginia Beach and Nags Head."

Rhodes also pointed out that while a meeting was held May 18, 1970 by the Department of Interior to limit traffic into the area during the summer of 1971, no attempt has been made to obtain local views on complete closure of the area. He added a formal request was made "through the office of Congressman Downing for a public hearing, this has been denied," and that the meeting of May 18, 1970 is being considered a public hearing.

Various groups spoke in favor of, as well as against, the proposed False Cape Parkway during more than 3 hours of discussion on the plan during Monday's City Council meeting. Attorney Philip Denman, indicating he represented Virginia Beach residents who owned property in North Carolina, said, "The (False Cape) Park is there. It is going to be used, and a means of entering it must be provided."

Approximately 100 persons voiced their support of Denman's expression in the Council chambers.

Don Thomas, Virginia Beach Buggy Association, said his group was opposed to any closure of the beach area to vehicular traffic and gave endorsement to the Planning Department's proposed False Cape Parkway. Thomas also presented Council with petitions which he said contained 11,000 signatures supporting a road providing access into the False Cape beaches.

Walter Leveridge, Concerned Citizens for Recreation and Conservation, expressed the opinion that "the people have been misled" concerning planned use of the area, and that "no public hearing has been held since the decision to close the beach." He also made reference to the above petitions supporting the False Cape Parkway.

J.A. Wood, Jr., President, Virginia Beach Board of Realtors, said his organization favored the Parkway as a "means of entrance into the recreational area."

Those opposing the road access into False Capes used

Effect On Taxes Explained By Dodd

A number of questions have been raised concerning financial aspects of the school bond issue's passage including the total cost of the bonds at the end of their financing, effect on the city operating budget, and what revenue sources would be available to meet payments to repay financing of the bonds.

The question of the true cost of the $12.6 million school bond issue at the end of its financing was discussed with Giles Dodd, City Finance Director.

Dodd answered the question based on the assumption the full $12.6 million will be financed over a 30 year period. If financed at a rate of 5 per cent interest the total cost, principal and interest, would be $19,315,000. However, if the bonds can be marketed at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent this total principal and interest cost would be $16,353,500.

In discussing the effect on the city's operating budget Dodd indicated this could depend on market conditions at the time of the sale of the bonds, still based on the assumption of a 30 year maturity at 5 per cent interest. He indicated if the full $12.6 million was placed on the market about May 1 the City would have to meet a payment of $1,260,000, in principal and interest, during fiscal 1972-73 beginning July 1.

Dodd also discussed sources of revenue needed to meet required payments in financing the school bonds. He indicated City Council would have a number of avenues available which would not necessarily require an increase in real estate taxes.

One of these, according to Dodd, involves the make-up of the city's operating budget in its finalized state. Another of these could involve the revenue derived from business licenses. Other possible sources would require authorization by the General Assembly. These could include making available to the city an additional 1 per cent of the general sales tax, or allowing the city to levy a "piggy back" income tax.

Perhaps one of the most important questions raised in discussing the $12.6 million school bond issue is what the cost will be to property owners if financing of the issue is accomplished through an increase in real estate taxes.

V. A. Etheridge, City Treasurer, indicated that if the full amount of the bonds were financed under the above stated conditions it would require a real estate tax increase of approximately 9 per cent or 10 per cent.

Utilizing the present base for real estate taxation, $2.05 per every $100 evaluation of property, the increase would amount to approximately 21 cents per $100 evaluation of property.

NCIC Anniversary Today

Today marks the fifth anniversary of the NCIC system which virtually links local, state, and federal police agencies by an instantaneous communications system.

On January 27, 1967, the FBI's National Crime Information Center began operation with fifteen terminals in eleven states, the District of Columbia, and one FBI Field Office. The accomplishments recorded by this computerized index of documented police information have been so impressive that only the professional skeptic can now question its worth.

Ultimately, society benefits from these accomplishments, but the immediate benefit goes to the hard-pressed policeman on the street who is able to instantly probe the mass of data stored in the computer and learn that the car he is chasing is stolen; the man he is questioning is wanted; or the money found on a suspect is part of bank robbery loot.

Briefly described, the NCIC system consists of a computer in Washington which is connected through secure, dedicated circuits to terminals or other computers. In actual use, a patrolman radios his inquiry to his NCIC station where it is fed into a communications device. It is "dumped" into the computer and in an average of three to five seconds the computer will answer either that there is no record or give a positive response which is called a "hit." If it is a hit, all the information on the original entry is printed out for the inquiring agency so that an intelligent decision can be made on the course of action to be taken.

Virginia Beach Police Department joined the system on May 5, 1969, with a temporary link into the system through a terminal in Norfolk. This unit began a full-time direct tie-in with the system in December 1969.

such reasons as such roadway benefiting only real estate interests, and legal precedents existing which could be used to block location of a road in the area.

Thomas and Leveridge urged Council to schedule a meeting to obtain further public opinion on the issue, and suggested inviting representatives who make the final decision on the matter.

As Council scheduled the meeting it was recommended invitations be extended to representatives of the Department of Interior, Virginia State Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Commission for Outdoor Recreation, and elected federal officials and Virginia and North Carolina legislators.

Council approved the Back Bay use plan by a vote of 9-3, over objections of Councilman Robert H. Callis and F. Reid Ervin.

Calls voted against the plan on grounds "...the State has plans for a state park there and is proceeding with these plans," and that he "concurs with plans to create a state park in this area."

Ervin qualified his objections to the plan by saying he hoped "a legal access means would be provided to people who bought property down there." He added he voted against the plan because, "I don't think our Planning Department has any right to show a roadway through state and federal property, and it's misleading to do so, and these plans have a habit of becoming more than just guides."

MUSIC

By:

Jack Gibbert

Christians are sometimes accused of not believing in the use of "Music" to worship God. But the truth correctly stated is, "faithful Christians don't believe in doing anything in worship to God which he hasn't authorized them to do." What's your purpose in worshipping? Is it to please self or God? Done for any purpose other than to please God it's a waste of your time. (Matt. 6:24).

The New Testament teaches that we aren't to add to or take from the things written therein. (II Tim. 3:17; Rev. 22:18-19; Gal. 1:8-9; I Cor. 4:6 and James 1:25).

Christians aren't to go to the law (Old Testament) to justify their actions. (Gal. 3:4) So, whatever we do in religious service to God, be it in the work or worship of the church, we must have a "thus saith the Lord."

If we did as some, and argued that the Bible doesn't say, "thou shalt not do thus and so," we could introduce, coke and cookies into the communion, a go-go dancer into the pulpit and a "Christian" gas station to provide fuel so preachers can "go" in accordance with the great commission.

Where does the Bible say "Thou shalt not" do these things? One needs to recognize that the New Testament is a book of "shall" not "shalt not." It teaches that God is pleased with a particular KIND OF MUSIC you read it and see what I say. (I Cor. 14:15; Eph. 5:19; Col. 3:16; Heb. 2:12 and James 5:13).

When you show me why it's alright to use MECHANICAL INSTRUMENTS OF MUSIC in worship to God I suspect you will have shown me why COKE and COOKIES would be alright in the communion. Think about it!

Cox Downs Granby To Win Area Wrestling Supremacy

Bruce Striffler battles Granby's Mike Tanner to an 11-11 draw.

Bill Outermuth, Cox's head wrestling coach with Virginia Beach Sports Club's High School Coach of the Year, has an anxious moment while watching one of his wrestlers compete in a crucial match.

Before a wildly enthusiastic crowd of nearly 3,000, the Cox High School matmen proved to be unkind hosts when they defeated their guests, the Granby Comets, 27-20. The Cox victory ended the longest winning streak in Virginia's wrestling history. Granby having entered the meet with a string of 81 consecutive victories dating back to 1963. Saturday night's Falcon win marked the first time that a Virginia Beach school has beaten the Granby wrestling team.

After dropping the first two matches to Granby, the strength of the Cox Falcons became evident to the onlookers. The Falcons took the next four weight classes, with three of the four victories being by pins. Chris Bougades was decisively 8-2 in the 98-pound match by Granby's Mike Strouse in the evening's opening event. Granby made it two wins in a row, taking the 165-pound match when Abe Martinez upset Cox's Chris Conkwright by a 13-4 decision.

Just as Granby's hopes of winning their 82nd straight match began to grow, four Cox victories reminded the fans that the meet was by no means over. Three consecutive pins put Cox into a decisive lead.

Scott Conkwright pinned Granby's Bill Moore in the 112-pound match. Cox's Mike Battalio pinned Tom Strouse for the 119-pound victory. Bob Ingram pinned Granby's Traynham Byrum for the 126-pound title. Brian Beaton's 7-4 decision over Granby's Jim Boone in the 132-pound match jumped the Cox matmen into a 21-6 lead over Granby at the end of the first six matches, the halfway point.

A Granby surge in the next three matches tightened the score to 21-15. James Parker defeated Cox's unbeaten Brian Taylor 6-2 in the 138-pound match. Ray Lomberg defeated Cox's Mike Newbern 5-2 in a battle of the 145-pounders. In the 155-pound match battle between two unbeaten matmen, Granby's Buddy Walker prevailed with a narrow 5-2 decision over Chuck Litz.

Bruce Striffler battled Granby's Mike Tanner to an 11-11 draw in the 167-pound division. Then, in the battle for the 165-pound title, Cox's Bucky Gaudreau nailed down his team's victory by defeating Kevin Ball 11-4. In the final match, Granby's Baxter Brown decisively beat Cox's 6-2 in the unlimited or heavyweight match.

The three Falcon pins by Scott Conkwright, Mike Battalio, and Bob Ingram were the only pins in the meet, and the additional points picked up by the three pins proved to be the winning margin. Granby won six of the twelve weight classes, 98, 105, 138, 145, 155, and heavyweight. Cox won five weight classes, 112, 119, 126, 132, and 165, and the 167-pound match ended in a draw. Granby, known as a pinning team, did not pin a single Cox wrestler.

Virginia's 1971-72 deer kill totaled 42,054, nearly 4,000 above last year's record harvest, according to Game Division Chief R.H. Cross. About 1,000 of the increase came from West of the Blue Ridge counties, with the remainder coming from Eastern counties. Southampton county led the state with 2,063 deer. Bath county was second with 1,777, and Caroline ranked third with 1,743.

The fall turkey kill in Virginia, 3,639 birds, was below the 4,253 bagged last year and the 4,534 record kill of the year before. Almost all of the drop was in the Central Mountain counties. Top turkey counties were Bath with 436 birds, Augusta with 283, and Frederick with 276.

A bill has been introduced in the Virginia Senate to increase the non-resident basic hunting license fee to $40, a significant increase in the present $15.75 fee.

The 1972 Conservation Directory is now available from National Wildlife Federation, 1412 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, for two dollars. This 17th edition is considered a must for persons interested in communicating with conservationists. It is the nation's most comprehensive listing of natural resource organizations, agencies, and officials in the conservation-environmental field. It contains entries for more than 1,500 groups and 7,000 individuals in the United States and Canada, a listing of major colleges and universities offering professional training for careers in conservation, and an index to periodicals and other directories of interest.

When waterfowl hunters go to post office windows this fall to buy Duck Hunting stamps for the 1972-73 season, they will likely pay $5 instead of the usual three. The bill was passed by Congress to allow the Secretary of the Interior to increase the price of the Migratory Bird Hunting Stamps before July 1st. Some three million Duck Stamps were sold last year, and funds from their sale are earmarked for use by the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife to acquire waterfowl wetlands. The last increase raised the price from two to three dollars in 1958.

A total of 1,028 Virginia Wildlife Freshwater Fish Citations issued through the Game Commission set a new record for entries and topped last year's total by some 20 per cent. The largest number of entries was, as usual, in the largemouth bass category where 287 weighing eight pounds or better were submitted during the year, almost 100 more than in 1970. The largest, a 13 pound 4 ounce taken from Lake Gaston set a new state record. Fourteen per cent of the hunters were taken from Norfolk's Lake Smith-Whitehurst complex.

The National Boat Show ends this week in the New York Coliseum, and before it is over almost 400,000 spectators will have looked over the boats and equipment from leading U.S. and foreign manufacturers. Over 400 companies' wares are on display, and almost every exhibitor shows modest price increases. Trends apparent at the show include bigger choices of power and accessory options, a new generation of advanced hull designs, and ecology-minded motors featuring leak-proof designs to keep the water oil free.

In an unprecedented move, the Virginia Beach Sports Club awarded a special merit trophy to Emily Tilly, who is the girl's varsity field hockey coach at Cox High School. Under Coach Tilly's direction, the Cox girl's have compiled the best won-lost record in the state over the past few years. The award will be presented to the winning coach at Cox's athletic banquet.

Keep in mind Saturday's registration for the Plaza Little League teams at the Plaza Volunteer Fire Station on Saturday, January 29th. Boys who are over eight years old before August 1st can register from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Teams will be formed for boys 8 to 18 of age. Registration fees are $5 per boy or $8 per family. There will also be a handicapped team. Call Don Suggs at 340-4056 for details.

Final ballots for the Virginia Beach SUN All-Star City Football Team were mailed out yesterday. Results will be announced within the next two issues.

The Chesapeake Jaycees are having a dance so Chesapeake College baseball players will have a field to play on this spring. The Valentine dance will be held at the Chesapeake FOF Club on February 12th. Tickets can be obtained from the college or from any Chesapeake Jaycee. "The Young Society" will provide music.

NAS Opens Bowling Center

Naval Air Station Oceana celebrated the opening of a new, fully automatic scoring bowling center Monday with door prizes, refreshments and the sound of falling pins. The 'ball got rolling' at about 9:30 a.m. when Captain John E. Ford, commanding officer of Oceana, cut a ceremonial ribbon on the $677,000 installation.

The new bowling center is a 24-lane facility which has completely automatic scoring capability. After 13 months in construction, it became the second such center in the Navy and the only such facility in the Norfolk area. The added equipment makes the new center two and one-half times as large as the previously existing facility, with many new added features.

A nursery for bowling mothers has been provided with full time attendants. Ladies daytime bowling leagues are quite popular here. All bowlers benefit from the snack bar facility and the fine pro-shop which provide everyone with a good selection of snacks and kegging equipment.

High School Basketball Stars For The Week

First Colonial 66

First Colonial suffered its worst defeat of the season in Friday night's Eastern District Basketball action, dropping a 105-66 decision to visiting Booker T. Washington.

Only three players were able to hit double figures for the First Colonial Patriots, led by 6'5" sophomore forward Brett Lewis' 19 points. Center Rod Trotman was close behind with 15 points for his night's work. Steve Butts just made it into the double figure scoring column with his 10 tallies.

Kellam 58

6'4" senior center Robbie Cook turned in a game-high 24 points to lead his Bayside Marlins teammates in a 76-58 victory over the Knights of Kellam. Three other Marlins scored in the dual figure column. Tony Knight hit for 15 tallies, and Bruce Humphries and Phil Lawson turned in 10 points each.

Dickie Wood, a 6' senior guard who can make an outside jumper look easy, led Kellam scorers with 16 points. Charles Langley hit for 14 points, and Jim Perkins 13, in an Eastern District battle Friday night.

Oscar Smith 78,
Kellam 65

The Oscar Smith Tigers roared to a 33-20 halftime advantage and held on to win a non-conference contest Saturday night, beating Kellam 78-65. Kellam matched the Tigers point-for-point in the second half, 45 points each, but was not able to overcome the 13-point halftime deficit.

Dickie Wood popped in 13 baskets and one foul shot for a game-high 27 points. A night earlier, Wood scored 16 points against Bayside, giving him 43 points for his two nights' efforts.

Jim Perkins and Charles Langley also hit double figures for the Kellam Knights. Perkins had 10 points for the evening, and Langley had 11.

Kempville 64

Capitalizing on big first and fourth quarter surges, the Cox Falcons defeated the Kempville Chiefs 81-64 in an Eastern District contest Friday night. Cox jumped into a 19-17 first quarter and a 35-23 halftime lead, but a determined Kempville team narrowed the margin at 58-49 at the end of three quarters of play. A 29-point Cox outburst in the fourth period sealed the fate of the Chiefs, who were held to 15 tallies.

The game's scoring lead was shared by three players, two Falcons and one Chief. Cox's two forwards, 6'3" senior John Hallstead and 6'2" sophomore Randy Robinson, had 18 points each. Billy Paschall, the Chief's 6'6" senior guard and playmaker, had 18 tallies to lead his Kempville team.

Both teams had two other players to score in double figures. Cox's Billy Ittner had 11 points, and Alan Williams had 14. Britt Glisson had 11 points, and David Roughton had 10 for Kempville.

Maury 70,
Princess Anne 68

It was a frustrating game for Princess Anne's Cavaliers Friday night. Before a wildly cheering crowd of 1800, 1200 of them, at least, Cavalier fans, Leo Anthony's redeem lost a tightly contested Eastern District battle 70-68.

After trailing for almost the entire game, the Cavaliers came within one shot of sending the game into overtime. Unfortunately for the Princess Anne fans, Mike Sulf never got the shot off. As he was handing for the basket with only ten seconds left in the game, a Maury player slid in front of him, on official's whistle blew, Wulf was called for charging. Maury got the ball, and the Commodores ran the clock out to preserve their two-point win.

Four Cavaliers scored in the double figure column, led by 6'7" junior center Mike Ange's 19 tallies. Tommy Butts had 18 points, Mark Hembree had 12 and Billy Smiley had 10. Tommy Butts led Princess Anne in rebounding, hauling 14 balls off the boards. Ange was second with nine rebounds.

Maury was determined to win and jumped to a 21-13 lead at the end of the first quarter. Princess Anne was determined to win too, and the Cavaliers began a hard-fought catch-up battle. The Cavaliers outscored Maury 19-15 in the second quarter, matched Maury's 19 third quarter tallies, and outscored the Commodores 17-15 in the final period.

If Maury had an advantage over the Cavaliers, it was in rebounding. Maury led in rebounding 43 to 33. The eight rebound advantage meant a possible 16 points to Maury, and no doubt they turned some of the rebounds into points. If Princess Anne had held their own on the boards, the game could have easily been theirs.

Bayside 67,
Deep Creek 52

The Bayside Marlins triumphed over the Deep Creek cagers in a non-district contest last Tuesday night, 67-52. Robbie Cook, Bayside's 6'4" senior forward, was high point man for the game, scoring 24 points.

Two other Marlins hit for double figures. Tony Knight scored 12 points, and Richard Poole added 10.

Bayside shot out in front 21-11 at the end of the first period of play and never trailed during the game. At the half, the Marlins were out in front 33-24.

Princess Anne 111,
Kellam 80

The Princess Anne Cavaliers rolled up their biggest point total of the season to down Kellam 111-80 in Tuesday night's Eastern District action. The Cavaliers outscored the Kellam Knights ever quarter and led at the halfway point 59-38.

Billy Smiley, the Cavalier's 6'1" senior guard, continued his scoring rampage with a game-high of 29 points. Smiley has scored 29 tallies in two of his last three games to jump into contention for the Beach scoring lead.

Two other Princess Anne players hit for double figures, each scoring just one point less than Smiley. Tommy Butts and Mike Ange poured 28 points each through the bucket.

6'3" junior center Charles Langley led Kellam scorers with 27 points, his best point, his best point total of the season. Three other Knights ended the night's action in the double figure column. Dickie Wood had 18 points, Jim Perkins 11 and Randy Morgan 10. Morgan's 10 points was also his personal high of the current season.

Norview 109,
First Colonial 73

Brett Lewis, the area's leading scorer with 288 points,

Billy Kennedy (54) waits for the ball. Cavalier Tommy Butts (34) and Maury's Bellamy (34) also move in for rebounding position.

Curtis Strange guards Maury's Harris as he brings the ball downcourt.

added 33 points to maintain his scoring lead Tuesday night, but his team dropped a 109-73 decision to Norview. One other First Colonial player joined Lewis in the dual figure column. Pat Walker with 12 points. Walker's 12 tallies doubled his previous high of the season.

The high-scoring Norview Pilots led every quarter and 46-29 at the half. The loss evened First Colonial's record at 6-6.

Indian River 74,
Kempville 64

Kempville got off to a 20-18 lead at the end of the first period of play, but Indian River pulled to a 38-all halftime tie and went on to dominate the last half of the game to win a non-conference contest 74-64.

Two Kempville Chiefs made the double figure column, led by Rudy Mackey's 13 points. Mackey, who has great jumping and driving ability, is a 5'9" senior forward. Jim Roberts hit for 12 tallies.

Cox 76,
Bayside 69

In the closest and most exciting contest Tuesday night, Cox dominated the scoring in an overtime period to defeat Bayside 76-69. Cox's Randy Robinson, a 6'2" sophomore forward who is improving with every game, stole the ball and layed it in to tie the game at the end of regulation play and forced the Eastern District contest into overtime.

Robinson was high point man for the Cox Falcons with 22 tallies, his top scoring performance of the season. Also in double figures for the Falcons were, Brooks Williams with 15 points, John Hallstead with 13, and Alan Williams with 12. Bayside's Richard Poole, a 6'4" senior forward, was the game's leading scorer with 25 points. Poole, a consistent double figure scorer, turned in his season's high scoring effort with his 25 point output. Also in double figures for the Bayside Marlins were Robbie Cook, with 16 points, and Jim Goffigan, with 13.

SAFETY TIPS

Our highway safety division of Virginia says, when you drive a car, you are responsible for everyone on the highway. This responsibility goes with the driver's license. The good driver is guided by the signs that are posted, keeps his speed within the legal limits and adjusts it to driving conditions, and is smart enough to allow for other's errors as well as his own.

"Don't play games with mother nature." The Highway

Safety Division of Virginia says we should reduce speed before entering a curve, not after we are in it. Leaving a curve at high speed is the type of crash which kills more people than any other. Centrifugal force takes over and nature's laws can't be beaten.

The Highway Safety Division of Virginia says that if someone is discourteous to you in traffic, don't feel abused and try to get even. Bad motor manners are one of the main causes of traffic crashes.

Mark Hembree gets by Maury's Woodhouse and puts it up for two points.

You can find a wide selection of knit fabrics, receive help with a difficult sewing problem, or learn how to make a t-shirt or a pair of men's slacks. Or you can discover a new handicraft: knitting, crocheting, macrame. Designer's Fabric Fair can help you fill those uncommitted hours each day, develop unknown talents, expand your creativity.

Donna Titley is the manager of Designer's Fabric Fair. She graduated from the Laboratory Institute of Merchandising in New York City and worked a year in New York as a fashion coordinator and production manager of a fashion magazine. Before coming to the Beach, Donna lived in California and studied anthropology. She started as a salesgirl at Designer's Fabric Fair during the past summer and then became manager. Working with her are Burita Deal, full time; and Pat Ellis, Linda Smith, Barbara Thompson, part time.

Designer's Fabric Fair specializes in knit fabrics. Although they have been made in this country for only about four years, knits have had a tremendous growth in popularity. Knits are easy to work with, can be washed at home, and need very little ironing, all of which appeal to today's seamstresses. About 90 per cent of Designer's Fabric Fair's stock is knits with 50 per cent polyester double knits and 10 per cent single knit cottons.

"Stitch With Knits" is the name of the sewing classes which can teach you how to work with knits. Beginning classes will show the seamstress how to work with various knit fabrics; advanced classes, for those who know how to cut out and sew pieces together, will teach techniques for working with knits. Six lessons are offered for $15 with one make-up lesson, if necessary.

"Mini-lessons" are going to start soon at Designer's Fabric Fair. One lesson will be offered in t-shirts for $2, one in women's slacks for $2, and two lessons in men's knit pants both for $5.

Beginning and advanced crocheting classes, with three lessons each, will be offered for $6. Three lessons will be offered in beginning knitting for $6. Classes in bead work and crewel embroidery will be $2 per lesson. Tatting, making trims with the use of a shuttle, will also be $2 per lesson. Needlepoint will be two lessons for $4. Individual lessons will be given in macrame. These classes will be held from 10 a.m. to noon and from 7-9 p.m. in the Designer's Fabric Fair store. All ages are welcome; men, children, and teen-agers are encouraged to participate.

Everyone at Designer's Fabric Fair is anxious to help you select your fabrics and work out any sewing problems you have. They invite you to come in and look around.

From Our Legislators

The Senate

SENATOR A. J. CANADA, JR.

RICHMOND—Throughout this session of the General Assembly, I will seek to keep the voters of Virginia Beach posted on our activities through this weekly report in the Virginia Beach Sun.

Recently, as some of you may have read, committee assignments were made in the Senate. The many committees of the Senate and the House of Delegates so much of the shirt-sleeve work of the session.

My committee assignments include:

COURTS OF JUSTICE: This committee considers matters relating to the courts of the Commonwealth and justices and judges, thereof, including nominations of such justices and judges provided by the Constitution of Virginia; all matters concerning criminal laws of the Commonwealth, together with all matters concerning contracts; domestic relations; eminent domain; fiduciaries; garnishments, homesteads and other exemptions; Justices of the Peace; mechanics and other liens; notaries; property and conveyances and wills and decedent's estate.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT: This committee considers matters of local government in counties, cities, towns, regions or planning districts, boards or councils.

REHABILITATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES: This committee considers matters concerning alcoholic beverages, correctional and penal institutions, drugs and social services and welfare.

The following is a capsule report of some of the legislation now before the General Assembly:

HIGHWAY SAFETY. Over 600 persons were killed in Virginia in 1970 as a result of alcohol connected traffic accidents and thousands more were injured. There has been introduced in the Senate a bill which would lower the blood alcohol content necessary to convict for driving under the influence to 10 per cent and blood alcohol content necessary to convict for impaired driving to .05 per cent. Virginia is the only state in the Union to have only one test for blood alcohol content.

Another bill has been recommended which would allow the use of the breath test to analyzing a potential offender.

CRIME CONTROL. I have introduced a bill which would make it a separate felony offense to commit a crime of violence with a deadly weapon. This bill would carry a penalty from 2 to 5 years as an extra penalty in addition to any penalty which may be imposed as a result of a felony committed.

ENVIRONMENT. Our highways and recreation areas and other areas are inundated with glass bottles which not only are hazardous but are unsightly. For that reason, I have introduced a bill which would make no deposit non-returnable bottles illegal in Virginia. We must begin now to clean up our environment and this is a step in that direction.

EDUCATION. I have introduced a bill which would require school districts to teach a course on the environment in grades 4-6 and to continue in high school. This is being done in some areas but this bill would require that it be done in all areas. A bill which would require personal finance course for each high school student I have introduced. This would teach such subjects as how to fill out your income taxes, interest rates, lay-away plans and credit cards. With the increased number of bankruptcies that we have experienced in our state, I feel that this bill will go a long way to help educate our young people so that when they start out in life they start out on the right foot in financial matters.

CHARTER CHANGE. A charter change bill will be introduced in the House which would allow the City of Virginia Beach to issue an additional $2,000,000 worth of general obligation bonds without a public referendum. I, personally, am opposed to this change. The present law says that the City can issue up to $2,000,000 worth of general obligation bonds without a public referendum. Based on many of the events which have transpired over the last couple of years, I believe that it is in the best interest of the City of Virginia Beach to have the voters vote on an increase in issuing these bonds. I would like to hear from the voters of Virginia Beach as to how they feel about this most important issue to our City.

I am very happy to announce that in the Governor's Budget there is $3,757,560 for the Virginia Beach Branch of the Tidewater Community College. This would enable the permanent facilities to be built.

My office at 4336 Virginia Beach Boulevard, Virginia Beach, will be opened every Saturday to meet with residents of Virginia Beach on matters they would like to call to my attention. Office hours will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

During the session I would like to invite letters of comment about General Assembly activities, and particularly, activities of these committees.

The House

The last-minute resignation of State Corporation Commission member Jesse Dillon on Monday, to be effective February 1, threw the legislators into a state of turmoil. One replacement on the commission was already necessitated by the retirement of H. L. Hooker but his announcement was made in time for careful study of a possible successor. Commissioner Dillon's announcement came like a thunderbolt on the eve of interviews of the applicants.

This was especially difficult for the brand new legislators. As Delegate Glenn McClanahan told the Sun: "We don't even know the new ones seeking the positions. It didn't concern me when there was only one vacancy on the 3-man regulatory body because the two remaining constituted a majority. With two vacancies we are now being called upon to appoint the majority without enough advance knowledge." In his usual Princess Anne County wit, Del. McClanahan said the incident certainly caused "me to blink twice" because the SCC "effects us more in our daily lives than any other regulatory body." He also commented that this was his second traumatic experience in his first week in the House, the first came when he found that Virginia Beach had only been allocated half its highway fund needs in the State Highway Department budget. On Tuesday the city's delegate fired a letter off to powers that be on a proposal to change the policy of appointing SCC members so that "more qualified" members might be obtained for the positions.

Thomas Rusnock, general manager of the Commodore Maury Hotel, will be the instructor. For information on registration call the Adult and Vocational Education office of the Virginia Beach City Public Schools.

Food Course Starts Feb. 9

A Hotel and Motel course in Food and Beverage Management and Service will be offered in the evening at Kempville High School. The course covers the entire food and beverage operation, including purchasing, receiving, storage, preparation and service. Classes will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. each Wednesday evening from February 9 through March 29, 1972. Early registration will be required in order to ensure enrollment in the class.

Two Leaders Debate Bond Issue

By JAY BRUMBLEY

What will people be voting on when they go to the polls?

STANTON: They are going to be voting for a $12.6 million bond issue. There are three junior high schools and one elementary school to be constructed with the funds to be financed by the bond issue. Very simply, that's it.

GRAVATT: The most direct thing they will be voting for is whether or not to approve the referendum. Behind that is whether or not they are willing to permit uncontrolled building of townhouses, apartments, and even individual residences.

Are schools really needed?

STANTON: Absolutely. The need for schools is an irrevocable argument. It is one that anyone with any knowledge of education would recognize when they study the facts.

GRAVATT: The space that would be created by these schools would be helpful to the educational program.

If taxpayers have to commit themselves to finance $12.6 million worth of bonds, are schools the most important need of the city?

STANTON: Absolutely. The school system is the very basis of the future of the city. If we have an uneducated youth, they are going to grow up into a very disorderly adult. If we have to sacrifice on a road here or a sewer line there to build a school today, then I say let's build the schools. It's a matter of equating children to physical entities. We owe our children; we have a tremendous debt to them. If we have to ride down a bumpy road it's easier on our cars than it is on our children's future.

GRAVATT: No. Sewer lines and treatment plants are more needed. The sewage processing plants now are overloaded.

Are the same conditions in existence now that caused the defeat of the school bond referendum last year?

STANTON: I think the School Board was asking too much of the voters. It was an $18.6 million issue. It had some things in it that were not particularly appealing to the voters. The word that came back to me was that there were too many "fills," swimming pools, gymnasiums, and other things that I think are necessary, but apparently, other people don't. The School Board responded to the voters and pared down the issue to where we now have classrooms only, the basics only. I have studied the financial plan of it thoroughly, and I am convinced that we are getting our money's worth. There are a lot of conditions that people use as excuses for not voting for the bond referendum, but the biggest condition that has changed is that we've got a much more crowded school system than we had then. Unless we do something about it, we're going to be in real trouble.

GRAVATT: The fundamental reason for the failure was that it was too costly. There were some secondary reasons for it: the opposition to uncontrolled growth of apartments and townhouses, the ecology group that did not want the school built in the State Park, and because the people were disgruntled with the effectiveness of the Virginia Beach school system. I don't think conditions have changed, and I feel that this one is more likely to fail and will be anywhere in the area. If there is a tax increase, it will be very small. To say that schools are financed strictly by real estate taxes is not fair; they only account for about 25 per cent of our total budget. The opponents are making all kinds of grave predictions.

(On February 8 the voters of Virginia Beach will face a decision on a $12.6 million school bond referendum. It has become a highly emotional and controversial issue. In the Sun Survey column of this newspaper many questions have been posed concerning the issue, questions that need answers so that voters may weigh the pros and cons and make a fair and just decision. The Sun, therefore, presents the following "debate" between the leaders of the two camps...the Committee for the Bond Issue, headed by Robert M. Stanton, and Concerned Citizens for Virginia Beach, headed by John B. Gravatt. Also, on other inside pages there are a number of related articles, all intended to answer questions still in the minds of voters. The Sun has attempted to present this material fairly and without bias. The decision is up to voter.)

How much will the $12.6 million referendum actually cost the taxpayers?

STANTON: Taxes and bonds are the most difficult thing to equate that I have ever tried to do. I have sat down with accountants who are experts in municipal finance and asked him to come up with an answer to this question. You can't do it. It is impossible to say that if you sell a dollars worth of bonds your taxes are going up point zero cents; there are too many variables. You have got sales, tobacco, excise, and retail taxes, city licenses; there are just so many other things to offset the costs of bonds that it is not fair to place all the burden on real estate taxes. We figured it out on a per capita basis, and it came out to a rough average of around $4.75 per person per year over a 15 year term that the bonds are going to be amortized.

GRAVATT: I do not have any concrete figures on that. I have looked through the booklet that was put out by the school system, or maybe printed by the Jaycees, and the only thing that comes close to a concrete figure is "less than five dollars per person per year," but they don't say how long the term of the bonds will run. The figure they used based on population is conjectural and is based on the premise that everyone who lives in the City over the bond period will contribute. There are people who are transients, people on welfare, infants, and elderly people on fixed incomes who are not going to be able to contribute.

Are the people able to pay additional taxes now?

STANTON: It's not an absolute factor that we are going to have additional taxes. There is going to be a proposal presented to City Council by a Jaycee, who is also a bond expert, detailing a plan for financing bonds without tax increases. Whether or not City Council or the City Treasurer upholds it and agrees with it is another point. If we have a tax increase, it can't all be charged to schools. Other things are going up too. Our taxes now are lower than they are anywhere in the area. If there is a tax increase, it will be very small. To say that schools are financed strictly by real estate taxes is not fair; they only account for about 25 per cent of our total budget. The opponents are making all kinds of grave predictions.

Bonds Endorsed

The Virginia Beach Rotary Club has endorsed the school bond referendum to be held on February 8, 1972 and voted to donate $100 to the campaign fund.

In making the announcement, R. Bradshaw Pulley, Publicity Chairman for the Club, said "Public schools still offer our one best hope for continued progress," said Pulley, "and we can do no less than give them our strongest support."

Jail Report Topic

A report of the building committee on the proposed new jail will be outlined at a meeting of Concerned Citizens About the Virginia Beach Jail February 3 at Virginia Beach Presbyterian Church.

The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

but they can't base any of them on facts. If real estate taxes account for only 25 per cent of the City's income, should not some of the other 75 per cent of the income be used to pay off the bonds? As a taxpayer and a pretty honest, straight-forward person, I think that taxes are going to go up. Just like the price of bread, everything gets a little more expensive as time goes on. I think that we have been awfully lucky for a long time that we have not paid any more taxes than we have.

GRAVATT: There are some people that could afford it and some people that could not. Everyone has his own particular financial problem. Sometimes the poor man is better off, from a financial standpoint, than the rich man who might have a lot of his wealth in accounts receivables. It would be an even greater strain on the man with several hundred thousand dollars in accounts receivable to pay an increase in taxes on a $75,000 house than it would be for somebody who has a steady income, of even $1,000 a month, with a home valued at $30,000. There are a lot of people on fixed incomes. Social security and military pensions are frequently being revised upward, but the upward revision is seldom enough to take care of the real estate tax increase.

Is the plan to build three junior high schools and one elementary school the wisest plan of school construction?

STANTON: The need for the elementary school is clear. The junior high schools provide for a swing situation, whereby as the elementary schools are crowded you can move the upper grades in the elementary schools into the lower grades of the junior high schools. On the other hand, as the high schools are crowded you can move the lower grade of the high school into the upper grade of the junior high school. Thus, you are getting a double effect. This is particularly good if we have a declining birthrate and the number of school children decline, which could happen. In Virginia Beach, being a young city, every classroom we can build will be filled. The junior high school program is a very efficient way to approach our problem.

GRAVATT: Unless I had an age breakdown of the ages of children in the schools, I could not answer that with any firm knowledge. Any type of school is going to make some kind of contribution toward alleviating the overcrowding.

Can our present school buildings be used more advantageously?

STANTON: If anything good has come out of the defeat of the last bond referendum, it has made the School Board sit down and be more resourceful in using the facilities we have. They developed a plan to change a six-period day to an eight-period day, which gives two more hours of use in the schools as they now exist. It is a little hard on some parents whose children go to school at different times, but you are stretching the taxpayer's dollar to its maximum by doing this. They developed the voluntary night school to stretch the physical plant even though you have a little more operating cost. The 45-15 plan that will be tried in four elementary schools will utilize the schools eleven months of the year; that is really stretching the taxpayer's dollar. I think the School Board is doing a good job and will do an even better job as time goes on.

GRAVATT: Whether or not new schools are built, I feel both the 45-15 plan and the night high school are steps in the right direction. Not only do they economize on space, they go a long way in improving the educational program in our schools. The night high school would be a good way to have what Mr. Brickell says we have now, quality education. To me, quality education is getting the most able and interested students into the classes of teachers who are best prepared and interested in teaching. The student who is really

A Dear Publication Dedicated to Serving the People of the City of Virginia Beach

By Helen Crist

The loud speaker announcement came as a shock at Bayside Junior High School.

Students stopped in their tracks when they heard that Mary Barraco was ill in a Beach hospital in December, and transferred to the University of Virginia hospital for further treatment.

They sent her their prayers and wrote letters—300 of them—expressing their sorrow at her illness and hoping that she would soon recover. Mary Barraco is, to these students, a real life heroine.

It had been just a few weeks before that she had spoken at their assembly. She told them of her experience as a prisoner of the Nazis during World War II, and of her underground work with the French. A Belgian native, she's now an American citizen and so proud of her adopted country that she easily communicates with young people when she warns of anti-American action and subversion.

Mrs. Linda Tiller, 8th grade teacher who sponsored the talk, wrote to the Sun: "I pray all schools will have the opportunity to hear this woman...Mrs. Barraco held every student spellbound...she spoke for eight bells and received a standing ovation...some students returning four times to hear her."

"Faith, Courage, Love and Unity."

The students wrote their impression of Mrs. Barraco's talk. Spelle permils us, unfortunately, to list excerpts from only a few...some of which were unsigned.

One wrote: "Mary Barraco, to me, is a true hero. Her faith in God is remarkable, because if she could hold up under such pressure when she was a POW in Germany...I feel she could hold up under anything...this was the best thing that ever happened to me. Her speaking truly influenced me."

Marcia Dale: "...she has some inside power to capture her audience. With her telling the story of her life it seemed so real, like YOU were in her place...with all the talk of the generation gap problem it seemed there was NO gap between her and the kids."

Another wrote: "I really didn't think she could have impressed me as much as she did. All the noble things she's done made me think she was kind of 'holier than thou' type of person. But she wasn't like that at all. She believed everything she said and that's what made her so human to me. I almost cried when she described her life."

Lynn Donnelly: "She really tells it like it is. She was captured by the Germans and held captive for six months. They burned her legs, broke her nose and treated her like dirt."

"They put her in a cell that she couldn't stand in, or even move around in. Then, when they let her out, she would fall right on her face. She's a very strong person and I think a lot of her."

Donna Spelle: When I heard how hard and unlucky she was in having to be in a prison camp, I felt how lucky we are to have all that food and a nice decent home."

"When I went home I couldn't eat and I put her autograph on my dresser. Every time I looked at it I got all choked up."

Another said: "...she is a lady who cares for her land and people. She is a special type of hero...I found out what it's like to go to your church and find the door of God closed, and what it's like to be pushed around and separated from the people you love."

One wrote: "...she, in my opinion, is a true hero...she makes you think about the world."

And finally: "You think of concentration camps and tortures only being on television, but when Mrs. Barraco told of her experiences it became real."

"It makes you wonder what you would have done in her place, how you would have felt. It makes you realize how very lucky you really are to be living in a nice home with no threat of being overtaken by an enemy force."

"Her talk made you glad to be an American and not have to go through what she did."

Further honors came to Mary when she was chosen as the "Model Patient" while at the University of Virginia Hospital. There she was a guest of all the chaplains at a special conference.

"They questioned me on why I gave talks on Americanism to people—why I visited the sick, the old."

It seems that she possesses the knack of comforting the sick, having experienced so much herself. And to the chaplain's question, she replied, "No matter how sick you are as long as you know know that someone cares about you that is a comfort."

And there are so many who care for Mary and are wishing her full recovery in her recent illness.

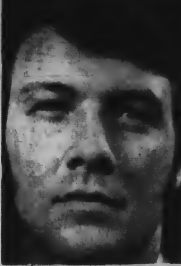

She's determined, nonetheless, to proceed with her mission of telling the young people how it is: How to avoid taking drugs; the folly of the extremists, the militants, revolutionaries, radicals; the importance of avoiding anti-American groups, who would turn the youth against God, parents, country, loved ones, law and order.

Doctor's have advised her to slow down. But Mary Barraco has a story to tell, and as long as she's able, she's going to do just that.

And the people will listen.

Mrs. Barraco signs "I Am a Sick American" editorial for Bayside 8th graders Nancy Burke (center) and Stephanie Shaw.

Ken Barefoot

Barefoot In Firm At Beach

Ken Barefoot, one of Tidewater's all-time top athletes, has joined Brown-Arris-Langhorne, Inc., as a vice president to head the firm's newly created life insurance department. In his new capacity, he will handle business life insurance, group insurance, health insurance, and pensions.

Barefoot, 26, spent a year with both the Detroit Lions and the Washington Redskins professional football teams after outstanding careers at Great Bridge High School and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

For the last 18 months, he has been with Aetna Life Insurance Co. as an assistant supervisor. He is married to the former Kathi Smith of Chesapeake, and they have two boys, ages two and four. They live in Chesapeake.

At D.C. Meeting

Members of the Concerned Citizens for Recreation and Conservation of Virginia Beach are in Washington, D.C. today regarding the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge.

The group is meeting with representatives of the Department of Interior concerning the Department's indications to prohibit vehicular traffic into the area proposed as the "False Cape State Park".

The meeting will also include representatives of conservation organizations from Maryland and North Carolina as well as Virginia.

Holland Honored For Service With Beach Post Office

Carey T. Holland has been honored for his outstanding service to the Virginia Beach Post Office in connection with his work on Self-Service Postal Units.

Holland, 30, has been with the Virginia Beach Post Office for 16 years. He is the first, and only, Self-Service Postal Unit Technician in the resort city.

In presenting Holland with a Special Achievement Certificate and $200 cash award, Assistant Postmaster Joe L. Miller said, "The Self-Service Postal Units are the Postal Service's response to the need for hour-to-hour and day-to-day service. The new climate in postal service, created by today's busy customer, spotlights the necessity for efficiency as well as economy through technological advancement."

Carey Holland, (left) is congratulated by Assistant Postmaster Joe Miller for his outstanding work with the Virginia Beach Post Office.

Bonds Endorsed

The Virginia Beach Ministerial Association has adopted a resolution endorsing the forthcoming $12.6 million school bond issue.

The resolution read in part, "...the Virginia Beach Ministerial Association expressed concern with regard to the need for additional classrooms in the public schools of Virginia Beach..."

"...the Association declares its conviction that the best interest of the community, and more particularly the well-being of our children, require the approval of the school bond issue subject to referendum on February 8."

Racing Favored With Conditions

By Jon Sagerster

The Virginia Beach Development Council made its annual report to the City Council last week at a dinner meeting in the Cavalier Hotel.

The object of the report was to deliver the results of a year-long study on the question, "Does the City of Virginia Beach desire a Pari-Mutuel Racetrack within its boundaries?"

Those results produced an emphatic Yes with three conditions.

The study, instituted at the request of City Council last January, was headed by Larry A. Sanello as chairman, Virginia Beach Pari-Mutuel Racing Committee.

In answering the question, a recommendation was made with four sub-divisions receiving special attention: social aspects, economic aspects, track ownership alternatives, and physical plant facilities.

The recommendation reads: That a Pari-Mutuel Racetrack be located within the City of Virginia Beach, subject to the following conditions:

1. That the City of Virginia Beach receive direct monetary benefits in the form of real estate, personal property, machinery and tool taxes, a portion of the hotel, admission taxes, sales taxes, etc., or some payment in lieu of taxes. Because Virginia Beach is a rapidly developing City it is necessary that benefits received be more than indirect benefits to the existing economy, since services must be supplied by the local government. If the City was in a fully developed state condition, then it is conceivable that indirect benefits would be sufficient.

Justification for the location of a track in Virginia Beach.

2. That the track should be a member of the Thoroughbred, Quarter Horse, and Standardbred Racing Associations and be policed by their protective associations. This will ensure quality in the track and track management, as well as "control" any undesirable elements at the track.

3. That there be adequate laws and law enforcement to suppress and to control the potential for crime.

Other considerations were:

1. That Pari-Mutuel racing should be controlled by a state racing commission composed of persons of high caliber, having no conflict of interest, and which is regulated by adequate laws covering bribery and coercion of said commissioners.

2. The track should be stock owned and operated as a business.

3. A thorough investigation should be made of the advisability of legalizing off-track betting.

4. The committee recommends that at least 80 per cent of the track's operational and service employees be residents of Virginia.

5. That the City should set up, within its administrative, a method for a statistical study of the before and after effects of pari-mutuel racing on the economy, crime, and social welfare of the City, in order to determine for itself and others, the impact of pari-mutuel racing on an area.

6. That only a first class pari-mutuel horse racing facility be constructed in Virginia Beach.

(a) That the facility consist of three horse racing surfaces, (tracks) generally concentric; a turf course, a sandy loan and a harness track.

(b) That the grandstand and club house have seating capacity of 15,000 and the parking area have spaces for 15,000 cars.

(c) That the stalls have a capacity for 15,000 horses and that adequate quarters for their attendants be necessary.

(d) That a house trailer park be in close proximity to the track.

(e) That a 300-500 acre site is necessary for this facility.

(f) That highways, electric power, sewerage, and water are either existing or planned in the area of Virginia Beach where such a facility should be located.

In a discussion period following a reading of the report, Mayor Donald Rhodes introduced the question of the possibility of working jointly with Chesapeake and Norfolk for an area racetrack.

He noted that competition for the location of a racetrack might develop between metropolitan areas rather than between specific localities or cities.

Sanello stated the position to the Study Committee was the City should enter into such an arrangement if, and only if, all three conditions stated in the recommendation were met.

It was also pointed out that Chesapeake has approximately 150 acres set aside near the Virginia Beach line in case pari-mutuel racing is approved in the state.

Sanello offered special thanks to, and introduced, the rest of the committee: E.R. Cockerell, Mrs. R.F. Pittman, Capt. Robert Alexander, Dr. Sidney R. Denny, G.W. Detmerman, Jr., Capt. John Ford, Frank Friend, Charles Gardner, George L. Hanbury, II, Lewis Johnson, Richard Keesley, Richard Kline, Mrs. Laura Lambie, Mrs. Mary Russo, Clinton W. Shanks.

Concluding the meeting, Development Council President W. Clark Fleming stated the Council has taken on the task of forming a City Arts, Crafts and Humanities Commission, with Scott Sterling as chairman of the committee.

He noted that another committee, with Bill Wood as chairman would study the city transportation needs of the city commenting that numerous people find it extremely difficult to get to the Civic Center and the various shopping areas.

LA SSITER

Lassiter Promoted

Paul Frank Lassiter, Jr. has been a vice-president of First Colonial Bank, it was announced by J.W. Buffington, president.

Lassiter came to First Colonial Bank in 1968 as an assistant cashier and became an assistant vice-president in 1970.

He is also manager of First Colonial's Baitice Avenue office.

Lassiter, who lives in Virginia Beach, is a graduate of East Carolina University of Greenville, N.C. Prior to coming to First Colonial, Lassiter was with the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company of North Carolina.

Tops In Rentals

A retired captain of Marines has been named Rental Manager of the Year in a nationwide contest conducted by the National Association of Home Builders.

Charles C. Taylor of Virginia Beach was given the award last week by the Builders' Sales and Marketing Council at the NAHB annual convention in Houston, Texas.

Taylor's award was the result of accomplishments with Pembroke Realty and Insurance Agency, Inc. during 1971. They included the creation last July of the first apartment locator service in the Tidewater area, called Virginia Beach Apartment Locators, a division of Pembroke Realty.

Taylor also supervised rentals of several hundred apartments and single family dwellings during 1971, maintaining a high occupancy ratio.

Taylor has been property manager for Pembroke Realty since November 1969. He served 22 years with the Marine Corps before retiring. He and his wife and four children live in Pembroke Meadows.

School, Roadway Improvements

A sum of $105,000 was approved by City Council Monday to cover improvements of existing schools and Bay Colony Drive.

A request from School Superintendent E.E. Brickell for $75,000 to replace certain types of insulation in 11 public schools was approved.

A long standing request from Bay Colony Drive residents to remove a large dip in the Drive, near the intersection of Rotheraway Road, was also approved. Numerous severe auto accidents have been attributed to this condition. Cost of the improvement is approximately $30,000.

S.O.N.S. Urge 'No'

Vote NO concerning the School Bond Referendum, take your cases out of the courts and into the ballot box, and write your congressmen asking them to sign Discharge Petition No. 9.

That was the premise of a Save Our Neighborhood Schools (S.O.N.S.) Rally held Tuesday night at Princess Anne High School.

A small but earnest crowd responded enthusiastically to seven speakers from various Hampton Roads communities and one from Richmond.

Commenting on the less-than-capacity crowd of approximately 200, Morton Fleet representing the Norfolk chapter of S.O.N.S. stated, "Through no fault of their own and meaning no harm, the masses of people in Virginia Beach have been brainwashed that no harm will ever come to them if they live in the Beach."

John Gravitt of Virginia Beach noted that on February 8, the people will vote on the question—Shall the City of Virginia Beach borrow an amount not to exceed Twelve Million Six Hundred Thousand dollars, ($12,600,000) and issue its general obligation bonds therefore pursuant to its Charter and the Public Finance Act, as amended, to finance, together with other available funds, the cost of constructing, improving and equipping school buildings and related facilities and sites therefor?

He stated that by the time the interest is paid the amount will exceed $19 million.

Referring to a possible threat of school consolidation between Virginia Beach and Norfolk, Given Wood, president of Virginia Beach S.O.N.S., admonished the audience, "Do not build another school until you're sure our children will go to school in them."

"Our City Government must employ legal minds, right now, to act in our behalf to fight consolidation and busing," she insisted.

It was pointed out that courts are ignoring an Act of Congress, the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which, according to Fleet, "Specifically states that you cannot use a court order to enforce a child going from one school to another school just to achieve racial balance."

The inference was made by most of the speakers that control of the government is being, or has been lost by the people.

"This is nothing but a petty dictatorship taking place," declared Don Sutton who was introduced as, "Coming down from Richmond to give us a little view on the mood of Richmond, also an inside look at Judge Mehrgie's order."

Refuting the argument that consolidation will not apply to Virginia Beach, Gravitt remarked, "When the busing order comes to Virginia Beach, to put our children on buses to ride to Norfolk, we should take them out of public schools and put them into private schools."

"Do as Judge Mehrgie does with his 11-year-old son," he said.

Sam Derr, of Hampton commented on private schools with the question, "If HEW is big enough to take over your public schools don't you think they're big enough to take over your private schools?"

Recalling that Hampton S.O.N.S. spent $3,000 in a suit against the Hampton School Board with no results Derr stated, "This is a political issue, not a legal issue."

Fleet also noted that people are getting no positive results from the courts and that voting is the only way they can achieve their goals.

Other speakers included Gabe Tarpley and Jim Meador, of Newport News, and Owen Williams of Portsmouth, the only black man on the stage.

"We are going to have to stand together, both black and white, and if you don't want to stand together your freedom is going down the drain," Williams insisted.

Attention was directed to House Joint Resolution 620, which was introduced by Norman Lent of New York and was sent to the Judiciary Committee.

The Resolution states: Section 1. No public school student shall, because of his race, creed, or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school.

Section 2. Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

It was further noted that 218 signatures are needed to bring the resolution to the floor of the House and that, to date, the petition holds 134 signatures.

It was requested that people write, and have their friends write their congressmen asking them to sign Discharge Petition No. 9.

Particular attention was given military personnel as they might have friends and family across the country who could also write their congressmen, pointing to the fact this affects the nation as a whole and not just the local area.

Gabe Tarpley informed the group that a S.O.N.S. Newsletter was being printed in Newport News every two weeks, and it is their fervent hope to make it a national paper. The name is currently being changed to "National Busing Report" and subscriptions are three dollars per year for 24 issues.

In a complete paradox to what was taking place, a very pretty little girl in her pre-teens sat, with her family, near the rear of the auditorium. The family seemed, however unintentional, a symbol relating to the purpose of the Rally. However, the young miss with the long blonde hair sat scooted down in her seat—with a transistor radio to her ear listening to whatever it is that children like to listen to.

Perry Elected

Robert Allen Perry of Virginia Beach, has been elected president of Gamma Epsilon Rho colony of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity at Virginia Wesleyan College.

Other officers selected are Roger Newton Farr of Norfolk, vice president; Kim Cornel Morrow of Virginia Beach, treasurer; Dean Richard Dickson of Doylestown, Pennsylvania, secretary; Jesse H. Fanshaw, III of Norfolk, historian; John Harlan Knopp, Jr. of Virginia Beach, warden; and James P. Embrey of The Plains, chairman.

Marine Honored

Marine Staff Sergeant Charlie L. McCoy, son of Mr. L. W. McCoy of 949 Whitehurst Landing Road, Virginia Beach, Va., was presented the Navy League Award for Special Merit during luncheon ceremonies at the Pearl Harbor Naval Base Enlisted Men's Club.

He and 15 other Navy men and Marines were chosen above more than 20,000 men in the Pacific area by the Honolulu Council of the Navy League for their leadership, individual achievement, outstanding performance of duty and participation in community activities.

AN Bilbrey

Aviation Storekeeper Airman William M. Bilbrey has been chosen as the Naval Air Station Oceana Sailor of the Month for January.

Airman Bilbrey works in the Supply Department as an aviation storekeeper in charge of replenishment of commonly used items in the parts department. He also works in the assembly and stocking of parts lockers for base squadrons which provides the shops with needed parts on the spot. Bilbrey works on ordering and dispensing of parts in the paperwork category—by operating an IBM keypunch file system.

Bilbrey entered the Navy on Oct. 13, 1970 following his graduation from Florida State University with a BS degree in industrial education. "Secondary education is my bag," says Bilbrey who is entering the Navy Officer Candidate School Program at Newport, R.I. "Supply is such a large system that I am just getting into it. It will provide an administrative challenge," he says.

"One thing I like about the Navy," continues Bilbrey, "is that if you are qualified for a Navy program, it will be made available to you." Bilbrey will serve for three years as an officer in the Naval Supply Corps.

Off-duty hours are the times when Bilbrey and Aviation Maintenance Administration Airman Steven Sanders work on their co-operative effort called Navy Teachers Guild Art. The art guild offers fund raising instruction and schooling in the fine arts to Navy wives' clubs. Sanders handles the design and graphics and Bilbrey works on construction and finishing. Any club that would like guidance in fund raising and some ideas on projects, may contact Bilbrey at 2244. The instruction will be designed to meet the club's needs and its resources.

Bilbrey's wife is the former Margaret Bowens of Okeechobee, Fla. She is a graduate student in therapeutic recreation at the University of North Carolina.

If The Answer Doesn't Come Soon He'll Stop Asking Questions

It stands to reason, doesn't it? The teacher says something interesting... He raises his hand to ask about it... and then he waits and waits and waits because there are too many children in the class, too many other questions to be answered first.

In over-crowded classrooms, children don't get enough individual attention. They get bored. And they stop asking questions, stop learning.

Our schools need more classrooms... fewer students per class. Because, right now, we have an excess of 4,000 students.

The School Bond Issue is the answer - 12.6 million dollars to build three Junior High Schools and one Elementary School. Classrooms - the answer our children need.

Boosters Boost Bond

To the Editor:
We, The First Colonial High School Band Boosters (Parents of Band members), wish to notify all the residents of the city of Virginia Beach that at a business meeting held at First Colonial High School on February 20, 1972 we unanimously adopted a motion to support the School Bond Issue.

We feel that something must be done to relieve the overcrowded conditions that exist at First Colonial High School and many other schools in the city. The building of additional junior high schools will provide the students in 7th, 8th and 9th grades with an opportunity to mature in a healthier mental and physical environment than their present one which exposes them to the older high school students who are more mature and have more privileges. The new junior high schools will benefit the high school students by not making it necessary to reduce the number of subjects they are allowed to take and the scope and type of electives offered. Lightening the student load on our high schools will mean greater efficiency in teaching; consequently a better education for our children.

We do not, under any circumstances, feel that keeping real estate taxes at their present level (compare them with other cities) justifies overcrowding our schools and possibly sacrificing the quality of our children's education. Surely all of our citizens are aware of the rapid rate of growth taking place in Virginia Beach. Many of our schools are now operating on 2 shifts and without additional classrooms some schools will undoubtedly have to go to 3 shifts to accommodate the heavy student

To the Editor:
I have learned on good information from involved parents that their student sons and daughters are being "instructed" by their teachers to go home and tell their parents wild and tragic tales of what will become of them (the students) if the school bond issue is not passed. They will be transferred to this or that school far from their present school; they will have to attend school in mobile "shacks"; they will have to go to school all year or at night, etc.

Another tactic is the rash of letters to the Editors from students, who seldom write about anything (except third-graders yapping about the zoo), all following the standard-phased party line and giving the same arguments, in the same words, as if they were teachers' good English, as to why the bond issue should pass. A member of the School Board, who spoke at our community league meeting Wednesday night and who came very poorly prepared to answer questions, denied that the School Board had anything to do with this, which I find hard to believe.

In any case, these are low-down, cheap tricks to use for the purpose of pushing over a school bond issue, and it is one more solid reason why I and a number of my acquaintances are going to vote NO!

Sincerely,

F.N.HOWE

Urges Support

To the Editor:
Though not a native of Virginia Beach, I have always pointed with pride to the fact that Virginia Beach was a first-class, forward-looking community. Being a parent, I have also said with a great feeling of pride that we have one of the best school systems in the state.

I shook my head in disbelief when the school bond referendum was defeated last January. All around us we see the most up-to-date office buildings and the most modern methods of sales and marketing; yet a plea for modern methods and quality in education received a resounding NO! I cannot believe that the citizens of Virginia Beach do not want the best possible education for their children.

Our School Board and City Council is now asking us to approve a greatly reduced bond referendum to build only the school facilities necessary to accommodate our student population. They have provided for no extras in this referendum. Can we do any less than this for our children? We must support them in this endeavor if our children are to continue to have the quality education they have enjoyed in the past.

I urge you to vote YES for your children and your community in February.

Sincerely,

Mrs. J.M. Cornelius

Students Voice Their Views On 45/15 Plan

To the Editor:
Your article entitled "Experiment Draws Diverse Comments", January 6, 1972, was conspicuous for its lack of student reaction to the 45-15 plan. The plan would certainly directly involve the students more than anyone else. Enclosed are just a few of my student's reactions. They are all fifth graders from Arrowhead Elementary School in Virginia Beach.

Sincerely,

Barbara McNeil

Corrective Reading

JIM NORRIS: I agree because I would like to have some of the winter and summer off. It is a nice idea to have a 45-15 plan. I think that it would be nice to have some of the winter off. Winter is the best time of the year. You could play in the snow and have alot of fun. I hope that we have the 45-15 plan where I live.

RANDY FISHER: I do not agree about the 45-15 day thing and what some people are saying about it. You should let the kids say what they like about it. I would like to get out 80 or more days and go swimming and playing sports all day long. That's why I would like all 80 or more days, to play.

Editor's note: Thanks to this teacher for sharing the views of her students with the Sun. She is quite right—the statements are very much affected. Perhaps other teachers survey their classes for response on this—and other—issues. The Sun welcomes comments.

THOMAS RUSSELL: I disagree. When people go to school they learn, and when they get out of school they forget some things they learned.

JANET OLIVE: I agree because on the three week vacation we can help our parents. I think a three week vacation is enough if you go out of town. When it snows the bus wouldn't have to go out and get us kids, the bus could have a wreck.

JANET MOORE: I disagree because I would like to have a lot of vacation. I would mind going 45 days.

JOEY BEARD: I disagree. It would be dumb. When the children get back to school and if they were going to have a test the first day they would forget. I would rather have a full summer than some of this dumb stuff. It would be better for the kids. Its been going on with a whole summer for ever since I was in school and I like it that way.

Review and projection will be the key words at Virginia Wesleyan College for 1972, according to comments made this month by President Lambuth M. Clarke.

"We have come a long way since those 75 students arrived in September 1966 while the contractors were still working on the first 'Village,'" said Clarke in his office this week. "We have now reached the halfway point in our enrollment projection of 1200 fulltime students. Out emphasis this year will be on expanding our library resources, adding increased depth and breadth to the faculty and curriculum and providing some additional student services." Wesleyan's fulltime enrollment for this semester is 626, a level the trustees have decided to hold for at least one more year. "We are definitely going against a national trend in enrollment," said the Wesleyan

Will It Relieve? A Thorough Review Of Issue

To the Editor:
The citizens of Virginia Beach are being asked to approve a bond issue supposedly to relieve the overcrowding in our schools, but the bond issue is passed I am afraid the City Council will just continue to approve one more development after another.

To quote from the Beacon of the sixteenth of January referring to housing applications deferred until after the vote on the bond issue. "If the referendum is passed these and several other applicants will probably fare well." The result of this will be that the new classrooms to be built with the money from the bond issue will be filled before they are even finished.

It seems to me that a vote of yes will give us the same overcrowding of schools that we have now but with the additional burden of higher taxes. With a no vote at least we won't have the higher taxes and who knows, if we're lucky, maybe the developers will go away.

Need He Say More?

It seems to me that one Billy A. Franklin would refrain from having his name listed on a recent statement from the "Concerned Citizens of Virginia Beach" in answer to Chairman J.W. Buffington's (Va. To the Editor
Your Sun Survey question of January 13, and the answers reported in the issue of January 20, have prompted me to write this letter.

To your question concerning the possible raising of the amount of General Obligation bonds that can be issued by the city in any one year from two million dollars to four million dollars, I would reply with the following analogy:

There was a man among us some years back who was earning two thousand dollars a year. During the course of his life, a small emergency arose, and he was in need of a loan of $100.00 to tide him over. This gentleman visited his banker to request a loan, and since he had always paid his bills, and was a regular customer of the bank, the loan was granted. The bank then made an investigation of the gentleman, and decided that a line of credit should be granted to him so that he would have the flexibility needed to meet similar emergencies that might arise in the future. With their credit investigation complete, the bank contacted the man and told him of the arrangement, but they also told him that the line of credit was for $200.00 (10 per cent of his annual income at the time of the credit line being extended), and that he would not be allowed to borrow anymore than that during any single calendar year. Today, that same man has an income of more than fifty thousand dollars a year, more than twenty five times as much as the original income, but because of the inflexibility of the institution that granted him that original line of credit, he is still prohibited from borrowing any more than $200.00 in any given year.

In effect, this is what we have done to the Municipal Government here in Virginia Beach. Several years ago, we granted them a line of credit that was equivalent to approximately 10 per cent of their income at that time, but instead of stating that line of credit as a percentage of annual income, we stated a fixed number of dollars (two million). The city at that time needed less money than it needs today, what would have been catastrophes then, are minor problems today, simply because the city has grown into a vibrant, thriving municipality. There were less people then, and less services to be provided. Today, we need only to look around us to see that many of the restrictions that our city is operating are outdated.

It would seem to me that it would be much more reasonable to authorize the city council to issue General Obligation bonds, in any one year, not to exceed 10 per cent of the previous years revenue. This would give the city council, and our municipal government, the flexibility needed to meet the requirements of this vibrant, thriving city. It would give them the flexibility to meet the needs of the fastest growing city in the state of Virginia.

But, since the question was whether to grant, or not grant, an increase in bonding authority from two million dollars to four million dollars, I must, at this time, simply vote YES. Aubrey Cartwright Stratford Hall Drive

Says He Flunked!

After reading the letter of Mr. Ed Booth castigating Mr. Gravatt for having an opinion which, apparently, differs from his own on the forthcoming school bond referendum, I have come to the conclusion that Mr. Booth left out one statement that, most certainly, should have been included. "My Daddy can beat your Daddy."

I would be willing to wager that Mr. Booth flunked sandbox in kindergarten. That is, unless he is still there.

Results Still 'No'

Interest in the current question began to wane this week, but that is not unexpected since interest in the forthcoming school bond referendum is running so high. In response to "Should the City Charter be changed so that $4 million in general obligation bonds rather than $2 million might be issued annually by City Council without benefit of a public referendum?"...the voters rated against it four to one.

The two-week tally, in fact, puts the opposition ahead by 96 per cent.

Some of this week's comments: "No...and take away the 2 million right until Council develops more equitable habits." "Normally a City Council of a city of our size should have this authority, but with the consistent actions of our Council contrary to the will of the majority of our people, we can not change this policy now." There have been some very good letters on this issue.

Summarizing all of the comments, it would seem that the people are opposed to this change in the City Charter for the same reasons they have voiced concern over the school bond referendum. It is concern over the growth of the city, not necessarily the progress of the city. The finger continues to point at City Council.

There have been many comments about "closed door" sessions, indicating that the people are not really aware of what is going on. Perhaps an all-out program to keep the people informed on the various issues before council might ease some of the concern.

This week's new question is so obvious we really hesitate to ask it. But, again, it's one of those issues that people seem to be very anxious to be heard on and that is the main purpose of this column. So, obvious or not, here's the chance the people need to voice their opinion on what will probably be one of the most historical decisions of modern times.

Comments On The College

number of volumes in the library to 50,000 as soon as possible. "We have an excellent physical plant for the library," says the President, "but we must continue to enlarge our collection." The new Henry Clay Hofheimer, II Library opened in the fall of 1969. It received a national Award of Merit for design from the American Institute of Architects and has a capacity for 210,000 volumes. College officials indicate the collection now numbers approximately 30,000 volumes.

The members of the Board of Trustees have authorized the addition of four new faculty positions for the 1972-73 academic session. These four new positions include Wesleyan's first fulltime faculty member in music plus additions in philosophy, history and speech-drama. The College now has three fulltime faculty members in history and one each in philosophy and drama. The new faculty member in music will offer several courses in that field and direct the choral program. There are 37 fulltime faculty this semester plus fourteen part time teaching personnel.

"We are very conscious of the fact that we need to develop our student services," indicates Dr. Clarke. "We feel a significant step was made in that direction with the hiring of our first fulltime Dean of Students this fall." The President reported that a coffee shop-recreation room has been opened this fall in the College's service building. This is providing a particular service for the commuting students," he said. A gymnasium-activities center is high on the list of priorities for future physical expansion.

"One of the great advantages in a new College such as Virginia Wesleyan is that we have a unique opportunity for flexibility and innovation in the curriculum," says Dr. Clarke. "We feel this has been a significant asset in our enrollment pattern."

President Clarke indicated that College officials will be spending considerable time during 1972 in evaluating all aspects of the College's development and in studying various areas of the educational program such as academic calendar, grading, graduation requirements and interdisciplinary studies.

Forecasts Additional Apartments

To the Editor:
The Jaycees promised "tricks" but they should not be compared with those of our Planning Commission and City Council.

Witness: Planning Commission meeting 1-11-60 day deferment, 318 apartments, With Duck and Old Donation Roads.

City Council meeting 1-10-30 days deferment for each of 100 (originally 140) apartments, Goodman and Newtown Roads: 26 apartments, 19th St. and Monroe Road; and 200 (originally 218) apartments, Larkin and First Colonial Road (development request 17-1). City Council meeting 1-7-192 (originally 213) apartments, Old Donation Road, deferred to Feb. 7th (Council wanted to defer until Feb. 14th but Civic League insistence finally gained Council's magnanimous consent to Feb. 7th, after all, knowledge of their approval of this development would not reach most of the voters thru the newspapers until Feb. 10th).

We can forecast, without question, an additional 834 apartments-townhouses requiring more school space and other city services, at how much cost Mr. City Manager? You were quoted as saying in the Virginian-Pilot Editorial of 1-3, that you "believe that property taxes will be forced up whether or not the proposed $18.5 million school bond issue is approved by the voters." Were you saying in effect, we are going to increase taxes anyway (to support our developers in required city services) so why not add in additional dollars for debt services.

Perhaps I am being "rough" on our City Manager. It could be that this has already been decided "behind closed doors" by our City Council, for release in the near future as a final "trick" to permit their continued "treat" for those "here today, gone tomorrow."

Incidentally, have you ever bothered to view our famous "Pembroke House" and it's inspiring surroundings? Do so and visualize "Old Donation Church" in similar aspect!

Betting Is Answer

To the Editor:
"For Whom The Bells Toll?" Will they ring out for the oppressed with the heavy burden of taxation that now exist with more to follow in 1972? Are we in the Tidewater area in a tourist paradise where thousands visit annually to continue to sit idly by and accept one excuse after another, as was the case in whiskey by the drink, and every objection turned out to be a myth?

Parimutuel betting in the Tidewater area will alleviate many of the taxes forced upon us.

The school bond issue that is forthcoming and sorely needed could be paid off in three years with the green light of Parimutuel. The Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce and other committees that carry weight why not let their voices be heard and carry the voice of the people to the lawmakers bodies in Richmond that Parimutuel is a must.

Our Forefathers fought and died for the relief of the heavy burden of taxation. Are we to let this issue be delayed three or four years as one form of taxation or another is forced upon us? And once put upon us it is until death do us part.

The crime study should be no problem if it is not an excuse to prolong Parimutuel. Betting. The study could be completed within ninety days or less; other details could be completed by June of 1973 and Parimutuel could be well on its way. Can crime be any worse than it is today with murder, robbery and rape in broad daylight in our cities?

We have nothing to fear but fear itself. There is a saying that "Haste makes waste." There is another saying, also "He who hesitates is lost."

Is There A War Going On Inside Of You?

By Rev. Joyce Kramer

Do you ever have what seems like a war going on inside you? Are your thoughts and emotions sometimes in active combat?

When this begins to happen to you there is something that you can and should do. Otherwise the result will be confusion and turmoil in various phases of your life.

Establish control. Silently rest your mind in the calm peace that is within the depths of your being. There is a place of perfect peace within your heart. You will reach it when you still your turbulent thoughts and emotions. Then you can say with the Psalmist, "He restoreth my soul."

Peace is a powerful, active state of being that brings harmonizing, loving results. Peace begins with each of us individually, establishing order and harmony in our thoughts, emotions and affairs. It radiates from us as forgiveness, order, love and harmony. Be a peacemaker in your world.

HEAVENLY FATHER, LET THERE BE PEACE ON EARTH AND LET IT BEGIN WITH ME. LET LIBERTY, JUSTICE, RIGHTEOUSNESS AND PEACE BE ESTABLISHED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD IN THE NAME OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Medic Alert Provides Emblem

The Health Information Center has applications available for membership in Medic Alert, an organization that has saved the lives of thousands of people with hidden health problems. In an emergency situation non-recognition of such problems as diabetes, heart disease, epilepsy and allergies to certain medications could prove fatal.

Medic Alert is a charitable, non-profit organization which provides medical protection in the form of an identification emblem recognized internationally. The emblem is worn on a bracelet or chain with the individual's problem engraved on the back.

The Medic Alert emblem immediately informs doctors, police and others giving first aid of the individual's medical problems. With the immediate opening of schools and colleges, placing many people away from home for the first time, it is particularly important for this kind of information to be known.

In addition to the emblem service, Medic Alert maintains a central file in their California headquarters with more detailed medical information, addresses of physicians, and the nearest relative of every Medic Alert member. The information is available to physicians and other authorized personnel 24 hours a day, via a collect call. Virginia Beach residents may obtain additional information on Medic Alert or any other health service from the Health Information Center. Sponsored by the State Health Department, the Virginia Beach Health Department, and 13 other local health departments, the Center maintains a data bank of information on over 700 health and medical services in an eight-city county area. All services are free. It is "the one number to call when you don't know who to call for a health problem." Inquirers may reach the Center at 625-4543 or write to 11-A Royster Building, Norfolk, Virginia 23510.

May Farm Garden Club members voted to send a contribution to the Beautification Commission for one crape myrtle tree to be planted on Independence Road.

Following intra-club judging, Mrs. Henry Thompson and Mrs. Fred T. Knowles were awarded blue ribbons for their Horticulture specimens.

Tennis Patrons

'We're Discouraged, Not Defeated'

Jeanne McLaughlin is a down-to-earth woman of action with a direct approach and a burning ambition. As president of the Virginia Beach Tennis Patrons Association she's going to see that a tennis center becomes a reality here.

Tennis is her hobby now. She gives it all the attention and push that she gave to her former hobby of antiquing, when she lived in a pre-Revolutionary house in Leavittown, Pennsylvania.

Jeanne's a Philadelphia native. Comparatively new to this area, she's been here four years. That's when her husband, William, took a franchise with Manpower, Inc. of Norfolk.

"But we had been here before on vacations and loved the Beach," Jeanne said. And of course, it's a choice spot for the McLaughlin children: Mary Ann, 18, and Dennis, 17.

They live at 5105 Holly Road; a delightful area of trees, curving lanes and pleasant homes, most of which have acquired the patina of charm that comes to places that have known a few years of gracious living and loving attention.

Once inside the McLaughlin's home, you feel that here is a family, casual, friendly who do indeed enjoy life.

There's the bookcase—the books now upright, now horizontal, papers, magazines placed so that one knows they've been read, not merely stationed there for display.

There are the antiques—the Victorian table, stacked with business papers and notes, behind the Chippendale sofa;

their efforts in maintaining their property in a pleasing and attractive manner. This is in line with the Council of Garden Club's anti-litter Awards of Merit to businesses that keep property in such a manner to reflect credit on the community.

The Garden Club held its meeting at the home of Mrs. William Barnes. Mrs. Evelyn Bankos spoke on "The Flowers the Tiffany lamp over the dining room table; the porcelain chocolate service on a cozy round table in a corner of the living room. Of these and the others, Jeanne says, "I used to follow the auctioneers from place to place, and you have no idea what good bargains we got this way."

Jeanne's wearing a green turtle neck sweater, boots over her slacks.

She talks fast, casually. "I've just come from an investment of the Bible." She illustrated her talk with sketches of the flowers and plants mentioned in the Bible—many of which are common today.

The membership agreed to order dried material from Florida to use in original flower arrangements.

Co-hostess at the meeting was Mrs. Homer McCoy.

meeting," she says. And she mentions that she and Ele Murphy organized SPEC, Ltd., an investment club of 14 members, most of whom live in Chesapeake Colony.

"It's fascinating," she says. "We meet once a month, work through a broker, of course." And it was through tennis that she met Ele.

"When we moved here I didn't know a soul. I decided that the best way to break into a community and meet people was through tennis."

That was after her son received a tennis racket for Christmas and he had never played the game, so Jeanne arranged for him to take lessons at the Cavalier Beach courts.

It seemed like a great game and besides, as Jeanne says,

"tennis people are all nice people I found out—they're open—no snobbishness."

Jeanne's a real fan now. Plays every day, even when the temperature drops and the fingers freeze around the racket. "We're Polar Bears," she says, "and that's what all the dedicated tennis players in the area call themselves."

And the fight for a tennis center has been long and earnest. "We need it desperately here," she says, adding that there are only four courts at Red Wing Park, and three at the 25th Street location. But the Patrons reason that it will be a popular drawing card for tourists, who vacation near the ocean, as well as for Beach residents who live here year-round.

It was six years ago that Mary Lee Harris, her husband,

Bud, "Sugar" Stormont and Sidney Hughes advanced the idea of a center.

It was a hard pull.

Later, Jeanne went to the Parks and Recreation Commission with the Patrons' request. "They were helpful but said they needed the money for other things, and they advised us to go to City Council."

The Patrons had a lucky break when John Maragon moved to the Beach one year ago. He took up tennis and became quickly disgusted with the lack of facilities. At the 25th Street location, there often is a wait of three hours for a court, Jeanne said.

At any rate, Maragon took the bull by the horn. He approached City Council asking for two possible sites: the city sanitation facility at Larkin Road and Holly Road, or the park on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, at 22nd Street and Parks Avenue.

"Federal funds were available for 50 per cent of the $60,000 tab; state would pay 25 per cent; the difference would be divided between the city and the Tennis Patrons," Jeanne said.

But they have run into a discouraging snag. City Council Monday appropriated $10,000 for a study of a proposed study for a new convention center. One of the locations under consideration is the Expressway site that the Tennis Patrons favor.

Until this is determined, the Tennis Patrons cannot proceed with additional plans.

"The irony of it all is that Virginia has these funds available and has not had the foresight to pick them up. The states of North Carolina and South Carolina have already picked up theirs," Jeanne said. Are the Patrons discouraged? "At this point, yes, we are," Jeanne says, "but we're still certain that eventually we'll get that tennis center."

Average Capricorn A Gourmet

By Thelma Barrett

OLORATING There's an old saying about the person who is white, and a sincerity of mind and heart. According to the analysis the wearer of white has self-confidence—but no ego problem (lucky people). Symbolically, white can mean purity, pardon, illumination and whatever it might mean to you personally.

DREAMPODGE A young girl, concerned about her drying skin, dreamed she was getting a reading from Edgar Cayce. In the dream she asked, "Should I use kissing soap on my face? My skin is about to fall off." The answer she got was, "Start immediately!" Then she saw a rose and its inside seemed to be pouring out as a liquid.

"Kissing soap" was interpreted to mean Sweetheart soap and the rose liquid to mean rose water. Checking through the Cayce readings she came across one that recommended sweetheart soap and also gave formula for skin beauty which included among its ingredients—rose water!

STROLINE Don't expect a Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) to start to give up his poker-playing nights out just because he's taken on the role of husband. This is something that's dear to his independent heart. On the other hand, food is dear to his heart also. The average Capricorn is a gourmet, claim the stargazers. So if you really want to win him away from poker try getting him interested in cooking. He could excel at this culinary art to such an extent that he would soon be out nights holding cooking demonstrations!

KITCHEN COSMETICS A last minute date and hair that needs washing is nothing to get up-tight about. Just spread some newspapers on the floor and get out some cornmeal (especially good for oily hair) and massage a handful into the hair. Brush out vigorously, using a pure bristle brush, then go on to your date with fluffy, lustrous hair.

EDGAR CAYCE ON MUSIC: Music... is a destructive or a constructive force, depending upon that to which it appeals in its influence... (3508-1)

For music is of the soul, and one may become mind and soul-sick for music, or soul and mind-sick from certain kinds of music.

There is harmony in a symphony, as in the voices as attuned to the Infinite. There is music in jazz, but is there perfect harmony in same? (2072-10)

No one mind can conceive all that may be done through the power of the Master Musician (the Christ). (281-8)

Hearty Beef And Vegetable Soup

Nothing smells so home-sweet-home as coming in out of the winter's cold to a kitchen in which a rich soup has just simmered to perfection. Its spicy, onion-y steam prompts us to dip up a generous bowlful, even though we hadn't realized we had such a wolfish appetite. Both aroma and flavor, of course, are enhanced by the proper use of herbs and spices. With long-cooking soups we like to add whole spices such as whole pepper, whole allspice, a bay leaf or two—perhaps six to eight whole cloves and a generous measure of instant minced onion and/or a pinch of garlic. Celery flakes and mixed vegetable flakes are convenient forms of these seasoning vegetables. The them loosely in a cheesecloth bag so they will be easy to retrieve at the end of the cooking time or when you decide the seasoning is right.

To give homemade individuality to canned or packaged soups, spice them imaginatively. A little curry powder is delicious in pea soup; basil in tomato or other vegetable soup or chili powder in bean soup. Try a bit of rosemary in chicken or lamb broth; thyme in all seafood bisques; tarragon in mushroom soup. Chervil gives a French aroma to cream of spinach soup. Nutmeg is famous in cream of chicken or corn soup while its sister spice, mace, is great in Brunswick stew.

From the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association come these savory winter soups, Hearty Beef and Vegetable Soup and Meal-In-A-Bowl Chicken and Rice Soup.

Hearty Beef And Vegetable Soup

3 pounds soup meat with bone
1-1/2 pounds soup bones
Water
1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes, broken up
One-third cup onion flakes
4 teaspoons salt, divided
1 cup celery flakes
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 large bay leaf
1 teaspoon whole black peppercorns
3 cups diced cabbage
2 cups sliced carrots
3 medium potatoes, diced

In a large saucepan combine soup meat, bones and water to cover (approximately 10 cups). Bring to boiling point, skim off foam. Add tomatoes, onion flakes and 2 teaspoons of the salt. Tie celery and parsley flakes, bay leaf and peppercorns in a cheesecloth bag; add to soup. Cover and simmer 2 to 2-1/2 hours or longer if desired. Add remaining vegetables and cook 30 to 40 minutes, longer or until vegetables are tender. Remove and discard cheesecloth bag. Remove meat and bones. Cut meat into chunks and return to saucepan along with bones still containing marrow, if desired.

Taste. Add remaining 2 teaspoons salt, if needed.

YIELD: 8 to 9 portions.

Meal-In-A-Bowl Chicken And Rice Soup

2 cans (10-1/2 oz. each) condensed chicken broth
2 soup cans water
1/4 cup onion flakes
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

1 package (10 oz.) frozen mixed vegetables
One-third cup quick-cooking rice
In a large saucepan combine broth with water, onion and parsley flakes and ginger. Bring to boiling point. Add chicken, vegetables and rice. Cook, covered, 5 to 8 minutes or until vegetables and rice are tender.

YIELD: 6 portions concern about education is not going to mind going to school at night. The teacher who really wants to teach and doesn't want to be bothered by a lot of disciplinary problems and excuses from children who don't bring in any homework would really be delighted to go to a night school where she would teach children who are interested in learning. I am sure that within Virginia Beach there are many students who fall into that category, and it's unfortunate that the schools deprive them of much learning opportunity.

What are your feelings toward compulsory land donation by the developers?

STANTON: I think that City Council made a bold step forward when they asked our legislators to enact a law to require developers to donate land, or money in the case of small developers earmarked for school construction.

GRAVATT: One of the few times that I would have to agree with Mayor Don Rhodes is that we both agree that requiring builders to donate land before a permit to build is issued to them is unconstitutional. That's confiscation rather than taxation. I would like to see a method of requiring the builders to pay a tax for each building unit they erected rather than being forced to donate land. The donation of land would not contribute as much as is necessary for building schools and is, in fact, a form of robbery. If each developer paid a tax on the number of units he built he would be making his fair share contribution toward financing of the schools. Is the City doing enough to attract industry to build up the local tax base so that the individual citizens can bear a lesser share of the cost of running the City?

STANTON: I think the City is doing a good job in trying to attract industry. I would like to say that attracting industry would be impossible if we defeated this bond issue, because one of the first questions a businessman asks when he is thinking about relocating his business concerns the school system. If he hears that we have had two bond referendums turned down by the citizens in the last two years, he is going to mark Virginia Beach right off his list and the idea of an expanding tax base is out of the question. If people think voting against the referendum will keep their taxes from going up, they are wrong, for if they don't vote for it their taxes will really go up.

GRAVATT: I don't think Virginia Beach is doing what it could to attract industry, but at the same time the geography of Virginia Beach is not conducive to any type of heavy industry. It would have to be light industry, small plants that would not require a great deal of water unless we could get a desalination plant. We are facing a water shortage if something isn't done to halt all this growth. Unless we could get light industry in, such as dress factories or electronics plants, we are going to have to go with the tourist and fishing industry, which is what we have been living on for centuries, plus, of course, the Navy.

Are there other sources of revenue available for school construction besides property taxes?

STANTON: There are no other sources. If we knew of other sources, we would not be doing this.

GRAVATT: It would require the assistance of both the state and federal government. We could increase the sales tax, licensing fees, income taxes, or we could cut down on some of the things that are now allowable on the income tax. Additional income taxes would give the state and federal government more money that could be turned back to the localities to build schools. The state now contributes a very large portion of the salaries of teachers; it could also contribute to the cost of building schools.

What effect, if at all, will Judge Merhige's decision in Richmond have on Virginia Beach's schools?

STANTON: I'm not in a position to say if our city can cut costs; I do not know that much about our city's finances. I do feel that we have a pretty sophisticated city staff who seems to handle our finances quite well.

GRAVATT: Yes, I could be more specific if I had the copy of the city budget in front of me. The school system itself could free more money for school construction if it would abolish some of those jobs in school administration that I don't think serve any useful purpose except for providing employment for the people in the jobs. The work that is done there is of no particular value. Take such things as the Director of Educational Testing—if the results of such testing were used to place pupils in certain courses or used to prepare them for certain jobs, it would be time and money well spent. So often, those tests are just filed away in the record cabinet and forgotten. I don't know whether the job Littleton had before he became Director of Bus Transportation is still in existence or not, but at the time he was Director of Planning for New School Construction I felt his job was unnecessary.

What are your feelings concerning the push that the school system is making in behalf of a favorable vote on the referendum?

STANTON: I don't think anyone is forcing anyone else to do anything. If they are, there are ways such matters can be brought to the attention of the authorities. Encourage is another matter. If the School Board is not going to promote the bond issue, who is? We are going to do everything we can to do as citizens to help see that it passes. Encouraging people to vote certainly is no crime. There are a lot of 16-year old children in the schools who are not registered to vote. We are advising them of the fact that they can register and vote if they want to. When they get in the voting booth, they are not going to be standing there telling them what lever to pull. That is their own decision; I certainly hope that more of them vote for it than against it. Those that are criticizing the bond issue are the same group that criticizes everything. I think they ought to organize one great big group called the Citizens Against Everything.

GRAVATT: I think it is to ram the referendum down people's throats. I also think it is going to have an opposite effect to what it purports to effect. Last week I spoke at the Kings Grant Civic League and at the Republican Women's Club, and at both of those places people brought up that point. Their children had come home from school saying that they won't have any school to go to if the referendum doesn't pass. A boy from First Colonial High School told his mother that he would have to transfer to Princess Anne because First Colonial would be too crowded unless the referendum passes and they could put a new junior high school over there behind the old sewage disposal plant. Parents of the children express resentment at these tactics being used on their children.

How is the Committee for the Bond Issue's "Yes Headquarters" and advertising materials being paid for?

STANTON: The building is rent free. Lights, telephones, and other expenses are coming from donations. So far the biggest donation we have gotten is from a high school faculty for $300. It is such a gratifying thing to see the groundswell support of the people. In the last few days we get over $200, the averaging donation being about $5.

GRAVATT: I don't know where the money is coming from. Something that struck me as both amusing and gratifying at the Republican Women's Club last week was a question that Bob Stanton asked the group. He said that the Jaycees were not getting any money to run their campaign; they are running it with money that they raised and with contributions of as little as fifty cents that people have given them. Then he said, "Do any of you know where we can get money to help support our campaign for this bond referendum?" One of the women piped up and said, "Yes, you could go to the builders. I'm sure they would be glad to contribute to your campaign."

What effect, if at all, will Judge Merhige's decision in Richmond have on Virginia Beach's schools?

STANTON: The Judge Merhige decision has nothing to do with Virginia Beach; for the Virginia Beach-Norfolk situation is not like Richmond-Henrico-Chesterfield in a very basic way. The basic premise for his decision was that Richmond, Chesterfield, and Henrico were operating segregated schools. Norfolk and Virginia Beach operate integrated schools, so there is no logic for Judge

Merhige's decision being applied here. The integrity of municipal boundaries has been upheld by the Supreme Court, as recently as January 17th when they reversed a consolidation decision in New Jersey.

GRAVATT: Some of the people that might have been on the fence are going to be pushed over to the side that opposes the referendum, because they fear that, maybe not in 1972, but possibly by the fall of 1973, Norfolk will have entered suit against Virginia Beach and forced consolidation. They feel that if these new schools are built for Norfolk children, rather than Virginia Beach children, will get the benefit of them. The decision did set a precedent. Even though the people who are pushing this referendum say that it doesn't apply here, I think it does apply here because of the similarity between Norfolk and Virginia Beach and also Richmond and Henrico County. Henrico is 91 per cent white. Virginia Beach is 91 or 92 per cent white. That affords a tremendous integration possibility with Norfolk who is about 42 per cent black and Portsmouth who is about 60 per cent black. I hope Judge Merhige's ruling is overturned, but Merhige said in his ruling that ideally a class room should be 50 per cent black and no more than 40 per cent black. Norfolk and Portsmouth are already more than 40 per cent black.

Do you have any additional comments in closing the interview?

STANTON: The real thing at stake is the future of the children of Virginia Beach. We cannot afford to turn our backs on these children. The only way we can really show our support for them and for their future is to vote yes on February 8th.

GRAVATT: I think the questions that you asked cover everything concerning this referendum. The attempt the SUN is making to present the bond referendum is a very thorough fair, and worth a lot in presenting the facts and the figures. I feel that the SUN is assuming a neutral position on this referendum, and even though I can't feel that you are on our side you at least present our side. From what I have seen printed, I would say that neither you are on the side of the group that's pushing the referendum, even though you also present their views. The Norfolk newspapers, however, are all in favor of this referendum.

School Costs Detailed

The Virginia Beach School Board has released a detailed breakdown of the cost estimates for the four new schools to be considered in the $12.6 million bond referendum of Tuesday, February 8, 1972. Officials also warn cost estimates may be low.

The detailed figures outline the estimated cost of construction, equipment, architectural fees, engineering, land acquisition and on-off site improvements for three junior high schools and one elementary school.

Specifically, construction costs for each junior high school would be approximately $2,875,000. This is based on estimates of $25 per square foot for a 115,000 square foot facility.

The junior highs would be somewhat smaller than previously constructed facilities since they would not include auditoriums or any specialized facilities not required by state educational agencies.

They would include physical education facilities, shops, music and art spaces, science laboratories, libraries, and office spaces required by state statutes.

Each junior high would have 56 teaching stations and space for 1400 pupils.

The 900 pupil elementary school would be approximately 55,000 square feet in area and would cost $1,237,500 to construct based on an estimate of $22.50 per square foot.

It would include only the minimum facilities required by the state, such as a library, multi-purpose cafeteria, office space, and 30 classrooms.

Equipment costs for the junior high schools would be $600,000 each and would include only the facilities required by the state. This cost would cover such physical facilities as desks, chairs, teachers desks, pencil sharpeners, audio-visual equipment, etc.

The equipment cost for the smaller elementary school would be $52,500.

A substantial amount of money would be saved on architectural fees for both the junior highs and the elementary school. Normally, these fees would be approximately five per cent of the construction cost but since only minor redesigns of existing plans would be needed, the $62,500 for each of the junior high schools and $36,500 for the elementary school represent a sizeable savings.

Costs for engineering, supervision and the like would be the same for all four schools.

Although the cost of land acquisition and on-off site improvements would vary, and average figure of $133,000 for each junior high school and $63,165 for the elementary school would cover the variations.

The three junior high schools would be constructed on 25 acre sites and the elementary school on a 15 acre tract.

Added together, the figures show the total cost for each junior high school to be $3,705,500 and the total cost of the one elementary school $1,424,665.

The combined total for all four schools would be $12,541,165. Normally an additional five percent is added for contingencies. However, previous experience in Virginia Beach has shown that sound planning can cut this figure 10 fold.

For this reason, $58,615 has been added for contingencies. This is less than one-half of one per cent of the total cost.

All told, the estimated cost of construction of the three junior high schools and one elementary school would be $12,600,000; the amount requested in the school bond referendum.

Five Tidewater architectural firms experienced in school construction have reviewed Virginia Beach School Board estimates.

All five agree that the estimates are in line with current construction costs.

The firms of McClurg and Wall, Spiegel-Carter-Zinkl-Herman, Williams & Tazewell, Waller & Sadler, and Cheving-Hoggard & Associates told the school administration that they feel the 12.6 million dollars requested in the February 8, 1972 bond referendum would be sufficient to cover the building costs.

However, the architects warned that increasing building costs could out-date this figure within a matter of months.

The firms also feel that, if anything, the cost estimates may be low.

Generally, the architects say that $12.6 million would cover the cost of the four new facilities, but they add that this would have to be "no frills" construction.

President plans are based on just such construction with only the facilities required by state law to be included in the four schools.

Forum Scheduled

Mayor Questions Legality Of Back Bay Closure

Mayor Donald H. Rhodes Monday questioned the legality of plans to prohibit vehicular traffic into the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge, as City Council scheduled a public forum on the issue at 2 p.m. Sunday, February 6, in the Civic Center.

Rhodes posed the question in a letter to C. Edward Carlson, Regional Director, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, in which he requested the matter be discussed by federal, state and local representatives before any final decision on the matter is made.

The controversy evolved from plans by State Officials to create a State Park of the Fales Cape separation of Back Bay and the Atlantic Ocean. Proposals by the Department of Interior to prohibit vehicular traffic through the area, and subsequent proposals by the City's Planning Department to construct a parkway along the areas beaches to provide vehicular access to the area.

The subject was strongly debated during Monday's City Council meeting as the Planning Department sought approval of its Princess Anne Land Use Development Plan, including a special open space parkway—recreation plan for Back Bay.

Rhodes pointed out "...the area south of the Refuge is currently accessible by motor vehicle only on the beach, and the residents of the area have, for many years, traveled to and from their homes in this fashion." He added, "This method of access has also been used by North Carolina property owners and residents as well as the public at large."

A proposed "False Cape Parkway" according to Rhodes, is strongly supported by North Carolina as well as Virginia Beach. His letter stated, "The City of Virginia Beach (formerly Princess Anne County) and many of our North Carolina neighbors to the south have desired, for many years, to see a direct roadway link between Virginia Beach and Nags Head."

Rhodes also pointed out that when meetings were held May 18, 1970 by the Department of Interior to limit traffic into the area during the summer of 1970 no attempt has been made to obtain local views on complete closure of the area. He added a formal request was made "through the office of Congressman Downing for a public hearing, this has been denied,..." and that the meeting of May 18, 1970 is being considered a public hearing.

Various groups spoke in favor of, as well as against, the proposed False Cape Parkway during more than 2 hours of discussion on the plan during Monday's City Council meeting.

Attorney Philip Denman, indicating he represented Virginia Beach residents who owned property in North Carolina, said, "The (False Cape) Park is there. It is going to be used, and a means of entering it must be provided."

Approximately 100 persons voiced their support of Denman's expression in the Council chambers.

Don Thomas, Virginia Beach Bugby Association, said his group was opposed to any closure of the beach area to vehicular traffic and gave endorsement to the Planning Department's proposed False Cape Parkway. Thomas also presented Council with petitions which he said contained 11,000 signatures supporting a road providing access into the False Cape beaches.

Walter Leveridge, Concerned Citizens for Recreation and Conservation, expressed the opinion that "the people have been misled" concerning planned use of the area, and that "no public hearing has been held since the decision to close the beach." He also made reference to the above petitions supporting the False Cape Parkway.

J.A. Wood, Jr., President, Virginia Beach Board of Realtors, said his organization favored the Parkway as a "means of entrance into the recreational area."

Those opposing the road access into False Capes used such reasons as such benefiting only real estate interests, and legal pre-existing which could be blocking location of a road area.

Thomas and Leveridge Council to schedule a meeting to obtain further public opinion on the issue, and suggest visiting representatives make the final decision matter.

As Council schedule meeting it was recommended that representatives of Department of Int Virginia State Department, Conservation and Ecol Development, Commission Outdoor Recreation, elected federal officials Virginia and North Carolina.

Council approved the Bay use plan by a vote over objections of Council member Robert H. Callis and J. Ervin.

Callis voted against the plan on grounds "...the State plans for a state park there is proceeding with this plan and that he 'concerns with p to create a state park in area.'"

Ervin qualified his objection to the plan by saying he boy "a legal access means would provided to people who bought property down there." I added he voted against the plan because, "I don't think our Planning Department has an right to show a roadwa through state and federal property, and it's misleading to do so, and these plans have a habit of becoming more than just guides."

Today marks the fifth anniversary of the NCIC system which virtually links local, state, and federal police agencies by an instantaneous communications system.

On January 27, 1967, the FBI's National Crime Information Center began operation with fifteen terminals in eleven states, the District of Columbia, and one FBI Field Office. The accomplishments recorded by this computerized index of documented police information have been so impressive that only the professional skeptic can now question its worth.

Ultimately, society benefits from these accomplishments, but the immediate benefit goes to the hard-pressed policeman on the street who is able to instantly probe the mass of data stored in the computer and learn that the car he is chasing is stolen; the man he is questioning is wanted; or the money found on a suspect is part of bank robbery loot.

Briefly described, the NCIC system consists of a computer in Washington which is connected through secure, dedicated circuits to terminals or other computers. In actual use, a patrolman radios his inquiry to his NCIC station where it is fed into the communications device. It is "dumped" into the computer and in an average of three to five seconds the computer will answer either that there is no record or give a positive response which is called a "hit." If it is a hit, all the information on the original entry is printed out for the inquiring agency so that an intelligent decision can be made on the course of action to be taken.

Virginia Beach Police Department joined the system on May 5, 1969, with a temporary link into the system through a terminal in Norfolk. This unit, began a full-time direct tie-in with the system in December 1969.

Officials of the Department of the Interior, the Virginia State Department of Conservation & Economic Development, the Commission of Outdoor Recreation and various elected public officials from the State and National governments and the State of North Carolina have been invited to attend and participate in the discussion with the public.

Tax Instruction

A basic tax course to help citizens know what taxes to pay, how much to pay, and how to fill out the forms begins January 27 at Chesapeake College.

Classes will take place from 7 to 9 p.m. on Chesapeake College's Cedar Road campus.

Mrs. Beth B. Ellis, an experienced tax teacher, will cover filing requirements, dependencies, standard and special deductions, supplemental income, dividends and interest, business and farm income, sales and exchanges of property, retirement income credit, and income averaging.

Cost of the six-week course is $18. It will be held for six Thursday evenings, beginning Jan. 27.

To enroll in the tax course, call Chesapeake College or visit the college's administrative office.

Before a wildly enthusiastic crowd of nearly 5,000, the Cox High School matmen proved to be unkind hosts when they defeated their guests, the Granby Comets, 27-20. The Cox victory ended the longest winning streak in Virginia's wrestling history. Granby having entered the meet with a string of 81 consecutive victories dating back to 1965. Saturday night's Fulton win marked the first time that a Virginia Beach school has beaten the Granby wrestling team.

After dropping the first two matches to Granby, the strength of the Cox Falcons became evident to the onlookers. The Falcons took the next four weight classes, with three of the four victories being by pins.

Chris Bougades was decided 8-2 in the 98-pound match by Granby's Mike Strouse in the evening's opening event. Granby made it two wins in a row, taking the 105-pound match when Abe Martinez upset Cox's Chris Conkright by a 13-4 decision.

Just as Granby's hopes of winning their 82nd straight match began to grow, four Cox victories reminded the fans that the meet was by no means over. Three consecutive pins put Cox into a decisive lead.

Scott Conkright pinned Granby's Bill Moore in the 112-pound match. Cox's Mike Battalio pinned Tom Strouse for the 119-pound victory. Bob Ingram, pinned Granby's Traynham Byrum for the 126-

Ray Lombark defeated Cox's Mike Newbern 5-2 in a battle of the 145-pounders. In the 155-pound match battle between two unbeaten matmen, Granby's Buddy Walker prevailed with a narrow 3-2 decision over Chuck Litz.

Bruce Striffler battled Granby's Mike Tanner to an 11-11 draw in the 167-pound weight division. Then, in the battle for The ODU-Biscayne basketball game tonight, January 27th, will be telecast from Miami by Channel 3. The telecast is slated for 8 p.m.

Virginia Wesleyan College's basketball record now stands at 2 wins and 10 defeats. Pete Withers is second in rebounding, with 65, and in total points scored, 213. Frank Cuffie continues to lead both departments, with 102 rebounds and 247 points.

Cathy Merritt, a freshman at Milligan College, has been named to the college's cheerleading squad. Cathy, a physical education major at the Tennessee college, is a graduate of Princess Anne High School.

If you like professional sports, the Squires meet the New York Nets at 8 p.m. tonight, January 27th, in Scope. The Wings are in town for an 8 p.m. contest Saturday night, January 29th, and Tuesday night, February 2nd.

Virginia's 1971-72 deer kill totaled 42,054, nearly 4,000 above last year's record harvest, according to Game Division Chief R.H. Cross. About 1,000 of the increase came from West of the Blue Ridge counties, with the remainder coming from Eastern counties. Southampton county led the state with 2,063 deer. Bath county was second with 1,777, and Caroline ranked third with 1,743.

The fall turkey kill in Virginia, 3,639 birds, was below the 4,253 bagged last year and the 4,534 record kill of the year before. Almost all of the drop was in the Central Mountain counties. Top turkey counties were Bath with 436 birds, Augusta with 293, and Frederick with 276.

A bill has been introduced in the Virginia Senate to increase the non-resident basic hunting license fee to $40, a significant increase in the present $15.75 fee.

The 1972 Conservation Directory is now available from National Wildlife Federation, 1412 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, for two dollars. This 17th edition is considered a must for persons interested in communicating with conservationists. It is the nation's most comprehensive listing of natural resource organizations, agencies, and officials in the conservation-environmental field. It contains entries for more than 1,500 groups and 7,000 individuals in the United States and Canada, a listing of major colleges and universities offering professional training for careers in conservation, and an index to periodicals and other directories of interest.

When waterfowl hunters go to post office windows this fall to buy Duck Hunting stamps for the 1972-73 season, they will likely pay $5 instead of the usual three. The bill was passed by Congress to allow the Secretary of the Interior to increase the price of the Migratory Bird Hunting Stamps before July 1st. Some three million Duck Stamps were sold last year, and funds from their sale are earmarked for use by the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife to acquire waterfowl wetlands. The last increase raised the price from two to three dollars in 1958.

A total of 1,028 Virginia Wildlife Freshwater Fish Citations issued through the Game Commission set a new record for entries and topped last year's total by some 20 per cent. The largest number of entries was, as usual, in the largemouth bass category where 287 weighing eight pounds or better were submitted during the year, almost 100 more than in 1970. The largest, a 13 pound 4 ounce taken from Lake Gaston set a new state record. Fourteen per cent of the hunkers were taken from Norfolk's Lake Smith-Whitehurst complex.

The National Boat Show ends this week in the New York Coliseum, and before it is over almost 600,000 spectators will have looked over the boats and equipment—from leading U.S. and foreign manufacturers. Over 400 companies' wares are on display, and almost every exhibitor shows modest price increases. Trends apparent at the show include bigger choices of power and accessory options, a new generation of advanced hull designs, and ecology-minded motors featuring leak-proof designs to keep the water oil free.

In an unprecedented move, the Virginia Beach Sports Club awarded a special merit trophy to Emily Tilly, who is the girl's varsity field hockey coach at Cox High School. Under Coach Tilly's direction, the Cox girls have compiled the best win-loss record in the state over the past few years. The award will be presented to the winning coach at Cox's athletic banquet.

Keep in mind Saturday's registration for the Plaza Little League teams at the Plaza Volunteer Fire Station on Saturday, January 29th. Boys who are over eight years old before August 1st can register from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Teams will be formed for boys 8 to 18 of age. Registration fees are $5 per boy or $8 per family. There will also be a handicapped team. Call Don Suggs at 340-4056 for details.

Final ballots for the Virginia Beach SUN All-Star City Football Team were mailed out yesterday. Results will be announced within the next two issues.

The Chesapeake Jaycees are having a dance so Chesapeake College baseball players will have a field to play on in the spring. The Valentine dance will be held at the Chesapeake FOP Club on February 12th. Tickets can be obtained from the college or from any Chesapeake Jaycee. "The Young Society" will provide music.

NAS Opens Bowling Center

Naval Air Station Oceana celebrated the opening of a new, fully automatic scoring bowling center Monday with door prizes, refreshments and the sound of falling pins. The "ball got rolling" at about 9:30 a.m. when Captain John E. Ford, commanding officer of Oceana, cut a ceremonial ribbon on the $677,000 installation.

The new bowling center is a 24-lane facility which has completely automatic scoring capability. After 13 months in construction, it became the second such center in the Navy and the only such facility in the Norfolk area. The added equipment makes the new center two and one-half times as large as the previously existing facility, with many new added features.

A nursery for bowling mothers has been provided with full time attendants. Ladies daytime bowling leagues are quite popular here. All bowlers benefit from the snack bar facility and the fine pro-shop which provides everyone with a good selection of snacks and kegging equipment.

TEST DRIVE 7 CARS

The Audi gets the same kind of expert service the Volkswagen is famous for. Because your Porsche Audi dealer is part of the V.W. organization.

You can hardly spot the difference between the interior of the Audi and that of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE.

The Audi has the same headroom and legroom as the Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow.

The Cadillac Eldorado has had front-wheel drive since 1967. The Audi has had it since 1933.

The same kind of system that steers the Ferrari 312 racing car, steers the Audi.

The Audi is shorter than the Lincoln Continental, but believe it or not, it has just as much trunk space.

B.T. Wash. 105, First Colonial 66

First Colonial suffered its worst defeat of the season in Friday night's Eastern District Basketball action, dropping a 105-66 decision to visiting Booker T. Washington.

Only three players were able to hit double figures for the First Colonial Patriots, led by 6'5" sophomore forward Brett Lewis' 19 points. Center Rod Trotman was close behind with 15 points for his night's work. Steve Butts just made it into the double figure scoring column with his 10 tallies.

Bayside 76, Kellam 58

6'4" senior center Robbie Cook turned in a game-high 24 points to lead his Bayside Marlins teammates in a 76-58 victory over the Knights of Kellam. Three other Marlins scored in the dual figure column. Tony Knight hit for 15 tallies, and Bruce Humphries and Phil Lawson turned in 10 points each.

6'1" senior guard who can make an outside jumper look easy, led Kellam scorers with 18 points. Charles Langley hit for 14 points, and Jim Perkins 13, in an Eastern District battle Friday night.

Oscar Smith 78, Kellam 65

The Oscar Smith Tigers roared to a 33-20 halftime advantage and held on to win a non-conference contest Saturday night, beating Kellam 78-65. Kellam matched the Tigers point for point in the second half, 45 points each, but was not able to overcome the 13-point halftime deficit.

Dickie Wood popped in 13 baskets and one foul shot for a game-high 27 points. A night earlier, Wood scored 16 points against Bayside, giving him 43 points for his two nights' efforts. Jim Perkins and Charles Langley also hit double figures for the Kellam Knights. Perkins had 10 points for the evening, and Langley had 11.

Cox 81, Kempville 64

Capitalizing on big first and fourth quarter surges, the Cox Falcons defeated the Kempville Chiefs 81-64 in an Eastern District contest Friday night. Cox jumped into a 19-17 first quarter and a 36-23 halftime lead, but a determined Kempville team narrowed the margin at 53-49 at the end of three quarters of play. A 29-point Cox outburst in the fourth period sealed the fate of the Chiefs, who were held to 15 tallies.

The game's scoring lead was shared by three players, two Falcons and one Chief. Cox's two forwards, 6'3" senior John Hallstead and 6'2" sophomore Randy Robinson, had 18 points each. Billy Paschall, the Chief's 6' senior guard and playmaker, had 18 tallies to lead his Kempville team.

Both teams had two other players to score in double figures. Cox's Billy Ittner had 11 points, and Alan Williams had 11 points. Britt Gilson had 11 points, and David Roughton had 10 for Kempville.

Brooks Williams, Cox's 6'3" junior center, led all rebounders, taking 16 loose balls off the boards. Teammate Randy Robinson had one less, 15. Greg Brinkley led the Chief rebounders with 9.

Maury 70,

Princess Anne 68

It was a frustrating game for Princess Anne's Cavaliers Friday night. Before a wildly cheering crowd of 1800, 1200 of them, at least, Cavalier fans, Leo Anthony's rodeo lost a tightly contested Eastern District battle 70-68.

After trailing for almost the entire game, the Cavaliers came within one shot of sending the game into overtime. Unfortunately for the Princess Anne fans, Mike Sulf never got the shot off. As he was hanging for the basket with only ten seconds left in the game, a Maury player aird in front of him, on official's whistle blew, Wulf was called for charging. Maury got the ball, and the Commodores ran the clock out to preserve their two-point win.

Four Cavaliers scored in the double figure column, led by 6'7" junior center Mike Ange's 19 tallies. Tommy Butts had 18 points, Mark Hembree had 13 and Billy Smiley had 10. Tommy Butts led Princess Anne in rebounding, hauling 14 balls off the boards. Ange was second with nine rebounds.

Maury was determined to win and jumped to a 21-13 lead at the end of the first quarter. Princess Anne was determined to win too, and the Cavaliers began a hard-fought catch-up battle. The Cavaliers outscored Maury 19-15 in the second quarter, matched Maury's 19 third quarter tallies, and outscored the Commodores 17-15 in the final period.

If Maury had an advantage over the Cavaliers, it was in rebounding. Maury led in rebounding 43 to 35. The eight rebound advantage meant a possible 16 points to Maury, and no doubt they turned some of the rebounds into points. If Princess Anne had held their own on the boards, the game could have easily been theirs.

Bayside 67,

Deep Creek 52

The Bayside Marlins triumphed over the Deep Creek eagles in a non-district contest last Tuesday night, 67-52. Robbie Cook, Bayside's 6'4" senior forward, was high point man for the game, scoring 24 points.

Two other Marlins hit for double figures. Tony Knight scored 12 points, and Richard Poole added 10.

Princess Anne 111, Kellam 80

The Princess Anne Cavaliers rolled up their biggest point total of the season to down Kellam 111-80 in Tuesday night's Eastern District action. The Cavaliers outscored the Kellam Knights ever quarter and led at the halfway point 59-38.

Billy Smiley, the Cavalier's 6'1" senior guard, continued his scoring rampage with a game-high of 29 points. Smiley has scored 29 tallies in two of his last three games to jump into contention for the Beach scoring lead.

Two other Princess Anne players hit for double figures, each scoring just one point less than Smiley. Tommy Butts and Mike Ange poured 28 points each through the bucket.

6'3" junior center Charles Langley led Kellam scorers with 27 points, his best point, his best point total of the season. Three other Knights ended the night's action in the double figure column. Dickie Wood had 18 points, Jim Perkins 11, and Randy Morgan 10. Morgan's 10 points was also his personal high of the current season.

Norview 109, First Colonial 78

Brett Lewis, the area's leading scorer with 288 points.

Billy Kennedy (54) waits for the ball. Cavalier Tommy Butts (34) and Maury's Bellamy (34) also move in for rebounding position.

Curtis Strange guards Maury's Harris as he brings the ball downcourt.

added 33 points to maintain his scoring lead Tuesday night, but his team dropped a 109-73 decision to Norview. One other First Colonial player joined Lewis in the dual figure column, Pat Walker with 12 points. Walker's 12 tallies doubled his previous high of the season.

The high-scoring Norview Pilots led every quarter and 46-29 at the half. The loss evened First Colonial's record at 6-6.

Kempville got off to a 20-18 lead at the end of the first period of play, but Indian River pulled to a 38-all halftime tie and went on to dominate the last half of the game to win a non-conference contest 74-64.

Two Kempville Chiefs made the double figure column, led by Rudy Mackey's 13 points. Mackey, who has great jumping and driving ability, is a 5'9" senior forward. Jim Roberts hit for 12 tallies.

Cox 76, Bayside 69

In the closest and most exciting contest Tuesday night, Cox dominated the scoring in an

SAFETY TIPS

Our highway safety division of Virginia says, when you drive a car, you are responsible for everyone on the highway. This responsibility goes with the driver's license. The good driver is guided by the signs that are posted, keeps his speed within the legal limits and adjusts it to driving conditions, and is smart enough to allow for other's errors as well as his own.

"Don't play games with mother nature." The Highway

Safety Division of Virginia says we should reduce speed before entering a curve, not after we are in it. Leaving a curve at high speed is the type of crash which kills more people than any other. Centrifugal force takes over and nature's laws can't be beaten.

The Highway Safety Division of Virginia says that if someone is discourteous to you in traffic, don't feel abused and try to get even. Bad motor manners are one of the main causes of traffic crashes.

Designer's Fabric Fair offers a wide selection of polyester and cotton knit fabrics

Designer's Fabric Fair offers an experience in creativity. You can find a wide selection of knit fabrics, receive help with a difficult sewing problem, or learn how to make a t-shirt or a pair of men's slacks. Or you can discover a new handicraft: knitting, crocheting, macrame. Designer's Fabric Fair can help you fill those uncommitted hours each day, develop unknown talents, expand your creativity.

Donna Titley is the manager of Designer's Fabric Fair. She graduated from the Laboratory Institute of Merchandising in New York City and worked a year in New York as a fashion coordinator and production manager of a fashion magazine. Before coming to the Beach, Donna lived in California and studied anthropology. She started as a salesgirl at Designer's Fabric Fair during the past summer and then became manager. Working with her are Burita Deal, full time; and Pat Ellis, Linda Smith, Barbara Thompson, part time.

Designer's Fabric Fair specializes in knit fabrics. Although they have been made in this country for only about four years, knits have had a tremendous growth in popularity. Knits are easy to work with, can be washed at home, and need very little ironing, all of which appeal to today's seamstresses. About 90 per cent of Designer's Fabric Fair's stock is knits with 50 per cent polyester double knits and 10 per cent single knit cottons.

"Stitch With Knits" is the name of the sewing classes which can teach you how to work with knits. Beginning classes will show the seamstress how to work with various knit fabrics; advanced classes, for those who know how to cut out and sew pieces together, will teach techniques for working with knits. Six lessons are offered for $15 with one make-up lesson, if necessary.

"Mini-lessons" are going to start soon at Designer's Fabric Fair. One lesson will be offered in t-shirts for $2, one in women's slacks for $2, and two lessons in men's knit pants both for $5.

Beginning and advanced crocheting classes, with three lessons each, will be offered for $6. Three lessons will be offered in beginning knitting for $6. Classes in bead work and crewel embroidery will be $2 per lesson. Tatting, making trims with the use of a shuttle, will also be $2 per lesson. Needlepoint will be two lessons for $4. Individual lessons will be given in macrame. These classes will be held from 10 a.m. to noon and from 7-9 p.m. in the Designer's Fabric Fair store. All ages are welcome: men, children, and teen-agers are encouraged to participate.

Everyone at Designer's Fabric Fair is anxious to help you select your fabrics and work out any sewing problems you have. They invite you to come in and look around.
